NEWTON.

—Wm. Z. Ripley is spending a week at Falmouth.

—Garden City Encampment will take the third degree next Monday evening.

—Hudson manufactures his own soda, which accounts for its superiority.

—Mrs. M. E. Goddard will spend the summer at the Bass Rock House, Gloucester, Mass.

—George C. Seales has gone to Kansas where he will spend two or three months surveying.

—The Nonantum Cycle club held a meeting Tuesday evening, and voted to adopt the revised constitution and by-laws.

—Miss Clara, eldest daughter of the late Frederick Jackson, formerly a resident of this city, died at St. Paul May 30, at the age of 16 years.

At Channing church there will be communion immediately after the service next Sunday. Hereafter there will be no evening service until October.

—The Somerville Cycle club will have a rally-ho run to this city on June 17. Ladies will accompany the party, and a fine time is anticipated.

—Next to good city real estate, few things appreciate in value more than the Eliot Indian Bible, one of which is worth almost as much as New York Chemical Bank stock.

—The officers of Middlesex encampment of Malden conferred the second degree upon the members of the new Garden City encampment Tuesday evening, at Cole's Hall.

—Col. Albert A. Pope will not make his annual trip to Europe this summer, but will pass the season with his family at Cohasset, where he has recently taken a house for the summer.

—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac T. Burr and Miss Burr are in London, where they will remain until the end of the season, and will then go to various watering places, and return to Newton in the autumn.

—The Cherokee Advocate, published at Tallahassee, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, reprints from the GRAPHIC an account of the meeting of the ladies of the Newton Indian Association.

—Mr. Gilman is redeeming the club tickets of the leading Boston Photographers, and he is doing such excellent work that Newton people have no need to go to Boston for first-class photographs.

—Judge Pitman of this city was one of the speakers at the annual dinner of the Alumni Association of the Boston University Law School. He told the young lawyers "to take care of your facts" as a knowledge of the law was not everything.

—The Blue Book of Newton is out and is a handsomely bound and printed volume of 130 pages, containing a list of the principal residents on the various streets of the city, a street directory and a church directory. The book will be convenient for reference.

—It is no wonder that the Morse Field people want to be annexed to Newton. At some recent auction sales of real estate a house that cost $9,000 and was taxed for $6,500, was sold for $4,500; another estate that cost $5,000 was offered for sale, and the highest bid was $2,500. On the Newton side of the line such instances are unknown.

—The Newton Bicycle club has called a series of runs, but the rains have interfered with some of these to have taken place this week. To-night there is to be a moonlight run to Jamaica Plain, to-morrow one to Natick, the 11th the club will attend the Eastern road race, and an all day run is called for the 11th, Sharon being the objective point.

—Miss Augusta A. Lentell, whose resignation was placed in the hands of the superintendent early in May, has been for seven years a successful teacher of the fifth and sixth grades in the Bigelow school. She will be regretted by parents, pupils and her fellow-teachers, who unite, however, in wishing her all joy and happiness in her new sphere. It is an open secret that she is to change her name, as well as her position, in the autumn.

—Mr. Charles Strahan of the Martha's Vineyard Herald, one of the brightest weekly papers in the state, was in the city last week on a visit to Mr. Joel H. Hills. Col. Strahan took the Herald a little over a year ago, when it was struggling for an existence, put new life and energy into it, and its famous "Sanctum Shots" now have readers all over the United States. Everybody who goes to the Vineyard for the summer find it is the fashion to subscribe for the Herald.

—The Boston Record gives this pleasant notice of one of Newton's prominent citizens: Lawyer Samuel L. Powers made the address at Dedham. Mr. Powers is one of the best speakers in his quarter of Middlesex county; he is a close friend and warm supporter of Judge Ely—and is marked for a rise in the political world before he is five years older. He is a good speaker and gave an oration that was the fruit of careful preparation. Dedham's doings for the week couldn't be summed up better than in his sentence: "Dedham, with a male population of only 3,000, contributed 672 men nearly as many as all New England furnished during our war with Mexico."

—The graduating exercises of the Institute of Technology have attracted many Newton people this week. On Monday afternoon the class day exercises took place, and the class history, class poem and class statistics were amusing, as such things always are. In the statistics it is interesting to find that 64 per cent. of the class are Republicans, 6 per cent. Democrats, 10 per cent. Independents and 6 per cent. Mugwumps; 25 per cent. of the graduates favor Cleveland for President and 18 per cent. Blaine. The average cost of student life was given at $2,499.88. In the evening the class gave a reception at the Hotel Vendome, and Morton E. Cobb was one of the reception committee. On Tuesday the degrees were conferred, Sidney R. Bartlett and Winthrop Cole of this city taking B. S. Mr. Bartlett was one of the graduates who had parties, and read an interesting abstract of his thesis "A Biological Exam-nation of the Water Supply of Newton." The graduates numbered 58.

—A number of High School boys took the examinations for entrance into the Institute of Technology, June 2 and 3.

—Mrs. F. M. Burt has bought the house and lot on the corner of Nonantum and St. James streets.

—Rev. Dr. Shinn has been chosen a member of the parish choir festival committee, and there is a possibility that the festival will be held in Newton next year.

—Rev. Geo. A. Oviatt, the first pastor of the Shawmut church in Boston, who was well known to many in Newton, died at Sudbury on Tuesday, aged 76 years.

—Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke attended the ordination of Rev. Selden Gilbert as pastor of the Unity church, Allston, on Tuesday evening, and made the ordaining prayer.

—The local members of the Iron Hall are pleased at the action of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, which has just denied the petition for an injunction against the order. The Supreme sitting of the order will be held in Boston soon.

—There are two cases of typhoid fever at the Cottage Hospital, of patients who came over on the steamer Prussian; twenty-five patients were sent to the Boston Hospitals, and the rest divided up among hospitals near Boston.

—The Sixth Annual Convention of the New England Water Works Association, will be held at Manchester, N. H., June 15, 16 and 17. President E. W. Cate of the Newton Water Board will read a paper on "Some Legal Aspects of Questions relating to Water Supply."

—The Girls' Friendly Society of Grace church held an unusually interesting meeting, Thursday evening. After the regular service and the initiation of new members, they were addressed by the Bishop of Shanghai. There was a large attendance, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

—The funeral of Mrs. Ditcaett, who formerly resided on Washington street, but for some time has resided in Worcester, will take place at Grace church on Saturday at 11.45. The deceased had many warm friends here, and was the mother of Mrs. Archibald Thomas and Mrs. Woodson of this city.

—The Newton Natural History Society will hold its first "Field Day" for the season on Saturday, June 18th, at Marblehead Neck, an all day excursion. The round-trip tickets from Boston to Marblehead and return will be fifty cents. All are invited to accompany the society who desire to do so. Early application should be made to Dr. J. F. Frisbie for tickets and further information.

—There will be a public meeting of the Newton M. E. Church Auxiliary to the Foreign Missionary society on Wednesday evening, June 8th, at 7.45 o'clock. Rev. D. H. Benbow, Creole Kavalan, M. D., a native of Armenia, will deliver an address upon the manners and customs and religions of his people. He is a very instructive and entertaining speaker. Cream and cake will be for sale in the vestry of the church after the address. Admission 10 cents.

—At the Young Men's Christian Association meeting last Sunday a large number gathered to greet Evangelist Sayford, who addressed them in a very earnest manner on "The Holy Spirit for Service." The address like all of Mr. Sayford's was of intense interest, as was manifest by the attention which his audience gave him. The praise service increases in interest each Sunday, and the attendance is well kept up, considering the season. Next Sunday there will be a Gospel meeting conducted by Mr. F. N. Tucker. Praise Service at 3.45 in Eliot Lower Hall.

—The first of a series of recitals given at the Baptist church by Mr. Geo. C. Gow and J. Wallace Goodrich, took place on Thursday evening before a large audience. Mr. Gow was heard at his best, especially in the arias from "Elijah," his singing showing a very smooth, clear voice, and one very carefully trained. Mr. Goodrich's organ selections were of a high order of merit, his best numbers being the "Pastorate" by Whiting, and the Vorspiel to Keinecke's "King Manfred." Mr. Geo. U. Williams assisted very ably with a violin solo, which was played with much taste and expression. The next recital of the series will take place next Thursday evening, the program being made up of songs and four-hand music for the pianoforte.

—Mr. Calvin Brooks Prescott died at his residence on Centre street, Saturday evening, after a very painful illness, and the funeral was held on Wednesday at his late residence, Rev. Dr. Shinn and Rev. Wm. B. Wright of Boston officiating. There was a very large attendance of friends from this city, Boston and other places. Mr. Prescott was born in Boston, and served in the army during the war, being present in many hard fought campaigns. He removed to Newton some six years ago, but retained an office in Boston, where he went every day to look after his large business interests. He was an active member of the Tuesday Club, and the tenth anniversary was to have been held at his house this week, but it was postponed on account of his illness. He leaves a wife and three children.

A Profitable Investment.

Are you like other people, that is are you ambitious to grow rich? If you are, the best and best thing for you to do is to buy one of the Newton Supply Company's tickets for one dollar. This ticket will enable you to save money which you would otherwise spend. For example the owner of one of these tickets can pay his house for 10 per cent. less, furnish it for 5 per cent. less, and carpet it for from 5 to 10 per cent. less than a man not owning a ticket. On artists' materials he will save 20 per cent., on books 10 to 15, on china and crockery 12 1/2, on amateur photo. outfits and materials 10, on gloves 10, on gentlemen's furnishings 10, on tennis goods 15, on stationery 25, on tailoring 10; in fact he can save something on almost everything, and the firm allowing the discounts are all leading Boston houses. Among others are such firms as Joel Goldthwait & Co., Keeler & Co., Appleton & Litchfield, Farrington & Co., A. J. Wilkinson & Co., H. H. Carter & Karriek, Horace Partridge & Co., and others equally well known and reliable. It is easy to see that the owner of a ticket can save on the average at least $10 a year; that is the tickets cost but $1 a year and are good until July 1, 1888, we offer an investment paying principal and 800 per cent. interest a year. For further information and complete catalog send two cent stamp to The Newton Supply Company, Newton, Mass., box 482. John Cutler, M. E. U. Godfrey, Managers.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

ITS DEDICATION AND REOPENING ON JUNE 17TH.

It is hoped that the Public Library improvements will be completed so that it can be reopened June 17th, at which time it is intended to have some kind of dedication exercises. The improvements made will astonish the general public when the library is thrown open, as they are of a radical character, and have converted the building into one of the best appointed ones of its kind. Fortunately the trustees have been able to have the advice and assistance of Miss James, whose 17 years' experience has made her a competent judge of just what conveniences and improvements will be of the greatest benefit to the library. It is unfortunate for the library that Miss James is to leave, but Dr. Pierce, the superintendent, has consented to fill the position for the remainder of the year, and although he has had no special training for the difficult and complicated duties of librarian, he will have the assistance of the capable staff of assistants whom Miss James has trained up, and of whom she speaks in the highest terms. The first assistant, Miss Thurston, is an unusually competent and diligent librarian and catalogist, and she has had nearly seven years' experience in the library. If she can be prevailed upon to remain there is no doubt but that the library work will go satisfactorily on. She is thoroughly posted on the library work connected with the schools, which has come to be perhaps the most important part of the work done by the library.

When the library is reopened, the first surprise that will greet the visitors will be the light and cheerful entrance hall, with its handsome oaken doors. On the right as one enters Edmonds Hall, the delivery room, is the Farlow reference room, which has been handsomely fitted up in cherry, and is a beautiful room. Back of Edmonds Hall is the stack room, called Jones Hall, whose monitor roof makes every part well lighted, and there seems to be abundant shelf room. On the right is the librarian's room, fitted up in quartered oak, most of the designs being furnished by Miss James; this room connects with the Farlow reference room, so that the librarian can be consulted easily. On the left of Jones Hall is the work room, where the work of delivery for the various Newton agencies will be done.

On the ground floor is the newspaper room, to which new windows have been added, and in the rear is Chaffin Hall, for magazines, a large, well lighted and ventilated room. On the right is the room for government publications, and on the left is the janitor's room. The new door leading from the left of the main entrance directly to the lower rooms, will be a great convenience. Mr. Kenway's work is very highly approved by the trustees and librarian, and beauty has not been neglected, while utility has of course been the first object. We have not room this week for a detailed description of the improvements, but only to give a general idea of the marked advance in all respects over the former building.

Some Pertinent Questions.

Editor of the GRAPHIC:
In behalf of many befogged and benighted citizens, I would like to ask some one who is fully posted on the subject, to define, through the columns of your paper, in a clear and understandable manner, the functions of a School Committee and of a School Superintendent.

There appear to be such varying opinions on subjects connected with these offices that it there is any law, or even accepted custom, it were well that it should be more generally understood among the various matters connected with this most important and much neglected part of public function. I would suggest as basis of inquiry, is it the duty, or even the privilege, of these functionaries to supervise and inspect personally, or must they receive information at second, third or fourth hand? When there are defects or deficiencies—as there are liable to be, since there is no such metamorphosis on entering a school building, either among teachers or pupils, as shall detach them from all other mortals and render them infallible—are these to be remedied by appeal, instruction or appliance, when they are remediable, or are they to be incubated in secret and silence for years, and then by a thrust at once are perched in the back, destroyed, only to rise like Banquo's ghost to stare their destroyers into frenzy?

Have the public, whose servants the Committees are supposed to be, who sustains the schools by furnishing both means and pupils, any rights committees are bound to respect? Are teachers and pupils to be regarded as automata, or as reasoning and reasonable beings? In brief, are Committees expected to act independently of schools, or in concert with them? To manage schools as machines, or to study their interests, and by actual personal knowledge of their needs to supply that which is most essential to the test and highest development of the future men and women, who are so soon to crowd from the stage of active life those who for so brief a time are playing their parts and must then disappear, sinking into a merited oblivion, unremembered and unwept, or be retained in the memory of those who follow, to be reproduced in their lives, because of the power of usefulness and virtue?

Advertising that Pays.

"I find that advertisements are often unreliable, that you don't always find things just as represented. In fact, I have come to look upon those who are continually advertising to sell goods at less than cost, with suspicion," said a lady in our hearing the other day. There is a good deal of truth in this lady's remark. How much better for merchants to always represent their wares just as they are. To charge a fair profit on all they sell. The dealer who offers to sell sugar or any standard article for less than it can be bought for at wholesale must overcharge on other goods. The fair and square way is the best and most successful. We could name many who have always practised this rule. A prominent house that never advertises anything they have not is Brine & Sonness, of Fremont and Washington streets, Boston; whatever they say in the press concerning their goods can be relied upon. The public know this, and the immense business they do proves they have the right way of doing it.—Cambridge Chronicle.

MEMORIAL DAY.

THE HONORS PAID TO THE DEAD HEROES.

Memorial Day dawned clear and pleasant, in spite of the stormy days which had preceded it, and the exercises of the day passed off according to program. At 6.30 a detail from Chas. Ward Post visited Mt. Auburn, and covered with flowers the graves of the comrades who were buried there. At 8.30 a detail accompanied by the Newton City Band, left the Newton station in barges and proceeded to the cemeteries on Centre street, Winchester street, Upper Falls and Lower Falls, where the same kindly deed was performed. At the latter place there was a short parade, the children from the Pine Farm School taking part, having been drilled in marching for several weeks previous by Major Crockett of the High School battalion. At the cemetery Rev. J. B. Gould offered prayer, and Rev. W. G. Wells made a brief address on the lessons of Memorial Day, and the honorable record left by some of the veterans who had died during the year. There was a large attendance of citizens, and the services though brief were impressive.

AT NOON

the members of Charles Ward Post had dinner at their headquarters, and at 1.30 the line of march was formed on Walnut street, after which they proceeded to the corner of Watertown and Walnut streets. Here the veterans were joined by the Clavin Guard, Capt. Benyon commanding, the High School Battalion under Major Crockett, and the members of the various departments of the city government in carriages. The column moved in the following order:

Platoon of Police, Capt. D. M. Hammond, commanding.
Marshall Wetherbee and staff.
Newton City Band.
Company C, 5th Regiment, M. V. M.
Capt. G. H. Benyon.
Charles Ward Post, No. 62, G. A. R., A. T. Sylvester, commander.
Disabled Comrades in carriages.
Flower Wagon.
Newton High School Battalion, Major E. A. Crockett, commanding.
His Honor the Mayor and city council in carriages.
Citizens.

The column started at 2 p. m., and as they passed up Walnut street they were reviewed by hundreds of citizens, who filled the sidewalks and the lawns along the line of march. At every intersecting street there was a long line of carriages waiting to fall in, and evidently the citizens of Newton were not forgetful of the sacredness of the day, nor the heroic deeds which were to be commemorated. At the High School building there was a short halt, while the High School Battalion filed into the building and procured their arms. Upon reaching the cemetery the companies acting as escorts divided, while the veterans and members of the city government passed through, marching from the gateway to the soldiers' monument. The veterans then decorated the graves of their dead comrades, after which the line was formed and the monument to the unknown dead was covered with flowers, after prayer by Chaplain Chase.

The line of march was then taken up and the column moved up Walnut to Beacon, down Beacon to Centre, making a short halt for the enjoyment of the hospitality extended by citizens of that street, who always serve lemonade on Memorial Day, a large company of willing boys assisting. Coming down Centre street, the carriages halted on Church street, while the military companies marched down Vernon and through Elbridge street to the Park. Here a great throng of citizens had assembled, and carriages were stationed several deep all round the Park. The Clavin Guard and the High School Battalion gave a dress parade, complimentary to the Post, in which the younger soldiers showed the results of careful drilling, and the various evolutions were gone through with in excellent style. The parade was dismissed with the High School Battalion in giving three rousing cheers for Mr. E. H. Cutler, Head Master of the school, which was responded to by enthusiastic applause from the audience assembled.

DRESS PARADE.

The line was formed with the Guard on the right and the School Battalion on the left. Adjutant Bridges opened the ranks and turned the line over to Chief Marshall Wetherbee, who gave a number of movements in the manual of arms. The first sergeant reported and the Chief Marshall declared the parade dismissed, and they took up the march to the Boston & Albany station, where the companies broke ranks. The marching of the Battalion was very good indeed, and the efficient drum corps was very inspiring. Drum sergeants, anxious to whose efforts the success of the corps is due, acted as drum major, and in the dress parade headed the drums.

THE NEWTON CITY BAND

wore their new uniforms for the first time and made a very handsome appearance. The uniform is dark blue, trimmed with red and gold, the music was highly complimented on all sides, and Newton may well be proud of a band that acquires itself so creditably on its first public appearance. Their marching was also creditable, considering that they have had very little practice. The whole appearance of the Park, with its crowds of people, the martial music and the military companies, reminded many present of the less peaceful scenes a quarter of a century ago, when those who are now veterans were preparing for service on the battle field. Happily those days have passed, but the sacrifices then made are not forgotten, as each Memorial Day gives ample testimony.

A MEMORIAL SERMON.

At Eliot Hall Sunday evening, there was a very large attendance, and Charles Ward Post were present in a body. The address was delivered by Rev. E. B. Palmer of the Home Missionary Society, Boston, who said that he had been called upon at very short notice, and therefore had but little time for preparation. He delivered a very interesting address, however, from the text, "Quit ye like Men," his main thought being that heroism was always present, and that the occasions did not create it, but only called it forth. The same heroism that made this a free country 100 years ago was also in the hearts of those who preserved it a quarter of a century ago. He then spoke of the heroism displayed in private life by devotion to duty and to principle, which was just as real as that shown on the field of battle. The speaker also referred to the heroism displayed by the three members of the Post who had died during the past year; one who filled a worthy place as a private citizen, and was always a consistent and honored Christian; another who had been called to fill various offices and had always discharged their duties faithfully and well; and the third, who although terribly maimed on the field of battle, had borne his sufferings cheerfully and without complaint, and had bravely entered upon the duties of life, and as long as he was able had done his part as a man and a citizen. The lesson taught by such lives as these was not lost, and the same heroism they displayed upon the battle-field remained in after life. The address was a finely written discussion of the subject, and was listened to with close attention. In closing the speaker said: "The war of material forces is over, and it is in its scabbard, the musket gathers rust upon its wall, but the war of ideas, the war of principles continues, and it matters much on which side we stand and serve. No richer tribute can we pay to the memory of our own dead than such a regard for their consecration to the cause of right as shall induce in us a consecration higher and purer." The choir rendered several appropriate selections, and the services closed by the singing of "America, in which the congregation joined.

Rev. W. S. Hubbard, of Buffalo, N. Y., who was expected to deliver the address, arrived in Newton Saturday night, but was immediately recalled home by the sudden death of a very near friend, and the same sad event called Rev. Dr. Calkins to Buffalo.

AT NEWTON CENTRE.

On Sunday evening a union memorial service was held in the First Church. In the absence of the pastor by illness, Mr. William E. Webster presided. The service was opened by the quartette, who sang with much expression the ancient Te Deum Laudamus; also later in the service Barnby's "Sleep Thy Last Sleep." Responsive scripture reading was led by Rev. Mr. Wheeler, pastor of the Unitarian Church. Prayer by Rev. Dr. Clarke, of the Methodist Church. Following Mr. A. L. Harwood, Principal of the Mason School, spoke substantially as follows:

"How rapid is the flight of time. A quarter of a century has elapsed since President Lincoln called for seventy-five thousand volunteers, for three months, to crush the rebellion which had showed its head at Fort Sumpter. What a thrill passed through the nation; how the free men arose and shook off their stupor and girded themselves for the great conflict. Noble and prompt was the response. The slave has long been free in a union of States cemented in blood and by the sound sense of the people, which now stamps one and inseparable a federal union. The young men who bore the heat of the strife are now veterans; the old men of that day are gone, whence no traveler returns. Ask the young citizen who cast his first vote at the late Presidential election what he thinks of the merits of the questions which arose after the battle of Bull Run, or Ball's Bluff, or the Red River expedition. He will say that he thinks of the battles much as we do of Trenton and Saratoga, but to the veterans it seems like yesterday since the guns of Fort Sumpter echoed and re-echoed among our Northern hills. It therefore well befits us to once in the round year, even on the 30th of May, rehearse the story which a grateful people will ever sing of our noble citizen soldier, who when the war was over came gladly back to peace. Recall the name and memory of Lincoln, even as on the Fourth of July we repeat the name of Washington. It is fitting that we should remember those who went forth from this community; yea, at this hour it is a sacred duty to honor here the name of one whose exalted patriotism and noble devotion to the cause of his country led him to risk all for her honor, whose name is this year added to the roll of the departed, stillman C. Spaulding. By such men was the superstructure of the Union held together. It is due to those who fought our battles on land and sea that we cherish most fondly their memory and their deeds. Young men, let it never be said of you that you are unimpaired of the rich inheritance bequeathed you. Our life was preserved by our citizen soldier, not by hirelings; so may it ever be. Rome was saved by her own sons, but when Marius fled his legions with hirelings he succumbed to stronger arms. It is a matter of congratulation that the broad ocean rolls between us and any foreign power. When the war closed what anxiety was felt, lest the army created by the gigantic civil war should not be peacefully absorbed in the ordinary occupations of life; how true did we understand the American soldier, who so readily laid down the sword for the arm, and became as strong in peace as he was brave in war. A worthy is the Grand Army of the glory that it bears. The underlying principle of our government was tersely stated by President Lincoln in his Gettysburg address, 'A government of the people, for the people, by the people.' This is the source from which the United States Government derives its power. But what was the state of the slave States in 1860? There were three hundred thousand slaves, and four million whites, and not one man in twenty had a right to vote. Human progress is slow. Sincerely both North and South received the shock of battle. The curse of slavery was removed. Would the war have been undertaken if they could have foreseen the end? Never. Had they succeeded and we had seen a mighty slave empire grow up among us, how darkly would the sun of liberty settled in gloom. Thanks be to God, that that old flag waves in honor over sixty millions of people, a quarter of three and a half millions of acres, one man in twenty according to its motto. Fellow citizens, it becomes us to see that corruption hides its head; that we, by virtue, or vigilance, by a holy appreciation of our good heritage, honor and defend our noble ship of state."

The service closed with singing, followed by a benediction by Rev. Dr. Clarke. A large and interested congregation was present. It was stated by Mr. Webster that Rev. T. J. Holmes had purposed to prepare a discourse for this occasion, but on account of illness was unable to do so, so that Mr. Harwood had generously consented to give this address, which he had previously prepared.

The "Hub" Wraps & Drawers.

(Pat. Aug. 8, 1871.)

Have many superior advantages over all others. Letter F in cut, shows the PATENTED SUSPENSORY GORE, which prevents chafing, and removes all disagreeable points, such as seams, extra cloth and tightening over the knee; it removes the unpleasant feeling experienced in all others, both foreign and domestic, and are indispensable for large men that appreciate comfort. Also the wrap-opening in front—gives it a superiority of adjustment; as it fits loosely, it remains in position and is not so oppressive in warm weather as the light weights of merino fabric (and for winter wear has a chest protector attached which prevents colds and neuralgia, catarrh, pneumonia, &c.), as thousands will testify to its value. Tourists' Shirts, Lawn Tennis and Base Ball Suits; also a full line of Foreign Flannels. Those wishing to order by mail, send tailor's measure of pants and coat.

Literary Notes.

Scribner's Magazine for June has the following attractive table of contents: Bonaparte, Frontispiece, from a painting by Appiani. Some illustrations of Napoleon and his times, by John C. Ropes, with illustrations from the author's collection. An Art Master, by John Boyle O'Reilly. The Ethics of Democracy, by F. S. Stimson. Sister Annunciate, by Henrietta Christian Wright. A Collection of Unpublished Letters of Thackeray, III, illustrated by portraits and reproductions of drawings by Thackeray. (To be continued in further numbers.) For an Old Poet, by H. C. Bunner. Miss Pringle's Neighbors, by Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson. An Uncommercial Republic, by W. T. Brigham, with illustrations from photographs by the author. Miss Peck's Promotion, by Sarah Orne Jewett, illustrated by E. W. Kemble. Separation, by Ellen Burroughs. Seth's Brother's Wife, Chapters XXI-XXIII, by Harold Frederic. Preparation, by Mrs. James T. Fields. Two Russians, by Nora Perry. Fulfillment, by Graham R. Tomson. The Magic Flight in Folk-lore, by H. E. Warner. The Stone-cutter, by Elizabeth Akers.

The second in Ticknor's Paper Series is De Montauban's "Cruise of a Woman Hater," a brilliant new romance filled with piquant and entertaining incidents and situations. As one of our best critics says: "It is written with masculine force and spirit, and the sea-passages are fresh and lively. The story of a woman hating man trapped into a long voyage with a young widow, and the results." It is a vivid, breezy, and picturesque story, which will be greatly enjoyed by thousands of readers this summer. A well-known Boston poet commends the work thus: "This is a capital story. The sea-life and the incidents of the voyage,—the towing of the wreck, the captain and first officer's action concerning the wreck, the yellow fever, etc., being worthy of the author of 'The Wreck of the Grosvenor.'" Among the novels to come are The Story of a Country Town, A Nameless Nobleman, The House of the Musician by Virginia Townsend. There will be 13 volumes, and one will be published each week during May, June and July. The price is fifty cents a volume.

Kate Claxton is the best traveller on the road. All is glee that comes to her mind, whether it is sitting up all night on a freight car or getting out of a burning hotel at 3 o'clock in the morning, she thrives on it. She does not care how long the "jumps" are (i. e., the trips from one "show town" to another) nor how draughty the theatre. She is always jolly, prettily dressed, fresh, natty and well, though her dressing room may be flooded with water from a broken steam-pipe, or her breath freezing on her mirror till she can't see herself. All that sounds very nice, but the professional mind would at once perceive the disadvantages of being associated with so heroic a spirit. Miss Claxton's advance agent is never hindered by her from getting up schemes of hardship and money making, and the company naturally share more in the one than the other.—[N. Y. Graphic.]

NEWTON 70 YEARS AGO.

(Written for the GRAPHIC.)

NO. 3.

Great as has been the change in the outward appearance of Newton in the last 70 years, the change in the habits, customs and domestic economy of the people has been full as great.

In those times our houses were warmed, or attempted to be warmed, by wood fires in open chimneys. Furnaces were unknown. Dr. Franklin had invented a wood burning iron stove of excellent design, but it was not in common use. Double windows had not been thought of. The cooking was done at open fire-places. Benjamin Thompson of Massachusetts, better known as Count Rumford, had invented an ingenious cooking range, and my father had one in his house, but our good old Yankee cook declined to use it, and roasted her beef and her turkey before the open blaze. Anthracite coal still reposed under the soil, and bituminous coal like most other luxuries came from England. Water would freeze in winter in all rooms of the house, and I have seen the ink freeze on my father's pen as he sat writing before the fire. Lucifer matches had not appeared, and our fires were lighted with flint and steel in a tinder box, the use of which is long since a lost art, and happy so—for to use it in a dark winter morning was a sore trial to the flesh.

Most people slept on feathers and woolen sheets, made comfortable by the warming pan; an utensil as unknown to the present generation as the spinning wheel, excepting where it is some times found hanging on the wall as an archaic ornament. As for lights, tallow candles in the kitchen, those of spermaceti in the parlor, made darkness visible?—brass lamps were also in use fed with whale oil, which must be melted in winter before it could be burned, and never gave anything but a dim light. Perhaps no single discovery has given so much real comfort to the world as that of petroleum and its products, which allow the poor man the cheap use of a light which 70 years ago money could not purchase. How we managed to read by those lights is a mystery to me. But much less reading was done, as there was little to read compared with the present day. I remember the early numbers of the North American, and a collection of essays and poems called "The Anthology"—also there was a ponderous periodical named "The Portfolio," the contents of which required stronger digestive powers than the modern reader possesses.

There were few American books—Mrs. Rowson had written a novel or two, Miss Hannah Adams published by subscription in 1799, A History of New England, a solid 8vo. volume, printed for the author in Dedham by H. Maine, and with a long list of subscribers at the end, among whom I find these names of Newton: Col. Joseph Ward, Rev. John. Homer, Rev. James Freeman, General Wm. Hull and Joseph Fuller, showing that even in those early times literature was appreciated in Newton. Not till 1822 did Cooper publish "The Spy," a book which excited much interest among the surviving soldiers of the Revolutionary army. Most of the literature was British, and we had to read in "Blackwood" and the Edinburgh Reviews contemptuous and savage attacks on everything American. In 1815 "Waverley" was published in Boston, and I remember that my father brought home a copy which he had borrowed for two days, and read it aloud to the family circle.

We got our news from the "Columbian Centinel," published weekly by Major Ben. Russell, an ardent Federalist, and later of Thomas Jefferson. The major was a good portly man and a corpulent, of a cheerful look and a pleasing eye. He had been a soldier in the Revolution, and was somewhat hot of temper, as his editorial opposition to "The Chronicle" had occasioned to discover. This Chronicle, being the Democratic organ, was not seen often in the houses of good Bostonians, as party spirit ran very high in those days, lines were strictly drawn, and the Mugwump was unknown in politics.

Most of the news in the Centinel came from Europe, and was not very fresh, as it came in sailing ships perhaps a month on the passage. Proudly the First Napoleon was a prisoner on board the Belleophon before Boston had heard of Waterloo. Steam and electricity had not abolished time and space.

We have many luxuries and conveniences now which were unknown 70 years ago, but we also have some inconveniences then unknown.

Our cities and towns were ruled by Americans, not by the off-scourings of Europe. Domestic service was performed by our own people, and they went by the name of "help." In 1815 there was, I think, but one Roman Catholic church in Massachusetts, and the man whose prophetic vision should have foretold that Boston would in 1887 be governed by an Irish mayor and aldermen, would have risked a lunatic asylum.

Life passed slowly and comfortably, without the heavy strain on the nervous system now so prevalent, and more lawyers, ministers and merchants died of gout and apoplexy than of heart disease. The rubicund noses and rosy cheeks depicted on Stuart's canvases early in the century, showed that the men of that day followed the advice of Sir John Falstaff: "To abjure thin potatoes, and addict one's self to sack."

There were few very rich men, and few paupers. $20,000 was a comfortable estate; $50,000 was an independent fortune; and a man with $100,000 was looked upon much as Astor or Jay Gould is at present.

Newton 70 years ago was a pleasant place for boys. It contained large tracts of woodland where game abounded. We could find rabbits, squirrels and partridges in State Rock woods, which lay along the Worcester turnpike, now Washington street, also wild pigeons in their season. The woods d hills lying between Bulfinch's Pond and Upper Falls also contained game.

There were ducks at Squash End, a marshy region near the site of the present North Village, as I learn from a recent map. Around Bulfinch's pond swamps could be shot, and in Coolidge's woods I could usually put up a brace of Woodcock. To kill them was a different matter, for my old cavalry carbine was an uncertain weapon. It had served in two wars, it had a flint lock, which absorbed much powder, which often failed to connect with that in the barrel, or did it so slowly that the game was often far away before the explosion came, and she kicked and scattered powerfully. When the percussion lock was introduced we gunners thought that the limit of invention had been reached. Game had a good chance for life in those days; now the breech loader and the trained dog pick up the last survivor of the quail or woodcock tribes.

In the Baptist pond, now Crystal Lake, there were plenty of perch and shiners, a few pickerel and big turtles in the depths, which we supposed to be unfathomable.

Hammond's pond contained pout and eels, and in all the brooks there were trout. In the brooks which supplies Bulfinch's pond I have taken trout weighing over a pound. Charles river, between the falls, abounded with perch and pickerel.

Fruit was abundant, both wild and cultivated. Blackberries, blueberries and huckleberries grew in the pastures and fields in great plenty, and sold for six cents a quart. Chestnuts, butternuts and hickory nuts could be got in any piece of woods. Peaches were as easy of cultivation as apples. Plums and pears were plenty and good; cherries were so plenty that we could neither use or give away our surplus, though assisted by the birds of the air. I have often sat in a cherry tree and eaten my fill with half a dozen robins and cherry birds filling their crops above my head. Grapes and strawberries were much cultivated, and the varieties were few. As to apples, we had enormous crops of Pearmain, Baldwins, Roxbury russets, Sweetings and many others, the surplus of which we made into cider, of which every farmer's cellar contained a good stock.

Of vegetables we had most of the same kinds which are now cultivated. The crops of potatoes were much larger, not being infested with insects. I think three to four hundred bushels to the acre was not uncommon. Corn, rye and oats were the main crops, with hay on most of the land, there being a good market for it in Boston. I remember the first tomatoes. Dr. Freeman brought the seed from Baltimore about 1830, and sowed them in his garden; when the first appeared, not knowing how to cook them, they were fried in a green state and were found to be unpalatable, as indeed they were to some people when ripe, and the taste for this greatly prized fruit was long in establishing itself.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose. I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Kendall T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

By Taking

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

A FEW FACTS.

The GRAPHIC does not believe in boasting, but its Newton subscription list is now larger than that of any other publication, local or otherwise. This is quite an advance over a year ago, but the new names keep coming in, 42 new subscribers having been added during the month of May, while the newsdealers sell a total of 50 more GRAPHICS than at the beginning of last month. During the past year the increase of sales at the news rooms is shown by such facts as these: one newsdealer has increased his weekly order from 35 to 90, another from 20 to 80, another from 20 to 70, and the rest have increased their sales in about the same proportion. In all but three of the villages as many copies of the GRAPHIC are sold as of any other paper. We do not care about a monopoly, but are satisfied with a fair share of the field, and that the GRAPHIC seems to have acquired.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

Some of our citizens who are not well acquainted with the facts in the case seem to be surprised at the excitement which has sprung up over the dismissal of Mr. Cutler. A few of them ask, why not leave such things to the decision of the school board? and, why should we assume that the board has not acted judiciously? The answers are these: The school board does not reflect the sentiments of parents and citizens, and has ignored the petitions of pupils and patrons numerously signed, asking that Mr. Cutler be retained.

It is reported that some individuals have scouted at the idea that the citizens have any right whatever even to make a suggestion. We have now for the first time a new doctrine propounded; that while presidents and governors and senators may be petitioned a school board may not be approached, even with bated breath and humble reverence. Is it any wonder that there is a stir?

On the third page of this issue will be found the last of the series of articles on "Newton Seventy Years ago," which we have been publishing the past winter. The writer says that he has about exhausted his reminiscences. He gives a very graphic description of the social and domestic life of those far off days, since when Newton has made almost incredible progress. Where our correspondent used to insert partridges and other game with his old cavalry carbine and flint lock, there are now stately villas and handsome lawns, and books have become so numerous that the appearance of a new novel is not an event worth noticing. When "Waverly" first appeared, the writer says that his father was so fortunate as to be able to borrow a copy in Boston for two days, during which he read it aloud to his family. We are better off in these days, thanks to our public library, but it is doubtful if the books we skim through do us half as much good. People read thoroughly in those days, as they did most other things.

The charge is made with a great deal of solemnity, and it is said to have been used with great success upon one of the wavering members of the school committee, that Mr. Cutler was once found asleep in his private room at the High School, and the story is more or less highly embellished. Any one who has ever been in the High School building at recess would realize the ridiculous nature of this charge, and it might justly be stigmatized as a complete fabrication, and a malicious one at that. The person who started this absurd story knew that Mr. Cutler never went to sleep in the High School building at recess. It is like the stories about the 17 secret societies, the class of '90 holding a lyceum meeting in the building evenings without any adult being present, and the dozen others that have been invented.

THE SATURDAY EVENING GAZETTE thinks the agitation for truant schools is due to pernicious sentimentalism or worse, as it is proposed to have the state assume the duties of parents, and the writer adds that "a little vigorous caning done at home would be worth more than all the truant schools and moral suasion institutes that could be erected." Parents should do their duty as well as the state, and if the parents can not or will not control their children, let the boys be sent to the reform schools. There is altogether too much legislation and machinery about our public school system at present, and it is time for the introduction of a little common sense.

It is now said that Mr. Prince is not the man selected as Mr. Cutler's successor, and also that he will not accept the position anyway. Whatever may be said by Mr. Prince, and he certainly should know whether he has been approached or not, the GRAPHIC's statement last week was not based upon common rumor, but upon definite statements coming from two opponents of Mr. Cutler, and we have the testimony to prove this. We do not pretend, of course, to explain the reasons for the use that has been made of Mr. Prince's name.

The scheme for a new state house for Boston is meeting with vigorous opposition, and the general opinion is that as long as Massachusetts is paying $2,000 a day for interest on its debt, it can get along very well with the present building.

THEY now call the school committee the Star Chamber of Newton.

Do Annual Reports Tell The Truth?

Editor of the GRAPHIC:

The summary dismissal of the head master of the High School has aroused the deepest feelings of sorrow and regret, mingled with indignation. There are some points which need explanation, and are entitled to careful consideration. But two reasons are given for his dismissal, a lack of proper discipline in the lower departments, and a failure to report the inefficient heads of such departments for removal. If we admit these charges to be true, let us examine the action of the committee. They have removed the head master, and by postponing the report to those in charge of the disorderly departments, have placed themselves on record as refusing to correct the very abuses which have caused all the trouble. If they consider Mr. Cutler's removal justifiable, how can they retain their own positions without forfeiting their self respect?

It is claimed that shameful disorder and lack of discipline have existed for over two years. All that the public have to rely on for official information in regard to the condition of our schools is the "Annual Report of the School Committee," which contains also the Report of the Superintendent of schools. A careful examination of these reports for the last two years will convince any fair minded reader, that either the reports or the charges against Mr. Cutler are false. These reports and the removal cannot be reconciled, and demand an explanation. Is it just for the committee and the Superintendent to issue to us, parents and taxpayers, a statement of the condition of our High School, of which we have been so justly proud, and then by removing the head master, establishing beyond a doubt the fact that their official report is false? I know that many others share my opinions and hope that your columns will be open to others who can do the subject justice. In closing I would like to pay the tribute of gratitude we all owe to the members of the committee who so manfully took their stand for the right against an overwhelming majority.

GEORGE LINDER.

—The programs of commencement week at Lasell are out, and present an array of attractions for the week, the Baccalaureate Sermon is by Bishop Andrews of the Methodist church, and the Commencement address by Mr. Andrew Gilman of Harvard Annex.

Five Carriages.

Kimball Brothers invite the attention of the people of Newton to their stock of fine carriages, which is not excelled by any firm in Boston. Their warehouses are at 110, 112 and 114 South Street, and they make a special feature of light open broughs, wagons and cut under cabriolets, specially adapted for one horse, and they have all the desirable styles of pleasure carriages.

Mocking Soups.

Housekeepers have found that these celebrated soups are equal to the best they can make, and that they are always to be relied on, and are ready for instant use, requiring only to be heated. They are put up in quart cans, perfectly seasoned, and are reasonable in price. Only try them and you will always use them. An advertisement in another column calls special attention to the fifteen varieties.

Mock Trial.

There will be a mock trial at the High School, under the auspices of the Lyceum, Saturday, June 4, at 7:30 p. m. All are invited to attend.

—Mr. Charles Eaton expects to return to East Boothbay, Maine, next week.

—Miss Kittie Thompson has returned from her prolonged stay in Portsmouth.

—Mr. Albert Hooper left Wednesday for Chicago, and will be gone about two months.

—Mr. Fred Hills got some very excellent pictures of the Decoration Day procession.

—The Hon. William Claffin and family have returned to "The Elms" for the summer.

—Mrs. Edgar Davidson is slowly regaining her health, and has driven out once or twice.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Milliken have returned from their trip to Philadelphia and elsewhere.

—The last meeting of the Polygon for the season took place last (Thursday) evening, at Mrs. Prescott's.

—Mrs. Joseph Willey and children have gone to Weston, where they will recuperate on a farm until October.

—Mr. A. S. Bryant and family have engaged rooms at the Winthrop Beach House, Ocean Spray, for the summer.

—The Young Ladies' Industrial Circle met with Miss Dickinson on Cabot street, Wednesday evening, June 1st.

—Mr. W. F. Hollings has rented a large place near Quincy, where his family will soon go for the warm months.

—Miss Eva Morgan, who for several years has been in Newtonville, has returned to her home in Oskosh, Wis.

—Mr. J. C. Fuller has sold to F. S. Rollins the Keyes lot on Highland avenue, some 1,700 feet, for 25 cents a foot.

—Mr. Banchoir and son have returned from their Newport trip, as the weather was not conducive to a longer stay.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Morse returned home late Wednesday night, and seem very well, after their long stay away.

—Col. and Mrs. Wm. Rummery have returned from Florida, but think the reception rather a cool one, as regards weather.

—Master Lewis Bement, son of Mrs. Ella Dennison Bement, went over to England on the Pannonia with Mrs. E. W. Dennison.

—Mrs. E. A. Pope has left Newtonville, and will be in Machias, Maine, with her daughters, until they sail for Europe, June 30.

—Grove Hill Park had many visitors on Memorial Day, who showed great interest in the improvements which are being made there.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Sylvester, after spending the winter in Boston, have again taken possession of their home on Linwood avenue.

—Miss Ellen Tewksbury has followed the fashion, and has had a slight attack of tonsillitis, which confined her to the house for several days.

—Rev. George S. Butters was elected secretary of the alumni of the Boston University School of Theology, at their annual meeting on Tuesday.

—Mrs. Gertrude Valentine and her daughter Mabel have gone to Mountainville, N. Y., on the Hudson, for a few weeks pleasure and rest.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Wilson sailed Thursday for Liverpool, England, on the Cunard steamship. Both, to be gone an indefinite length of time.

—Mr. W. A. Spinney, Master of the Adams School, with his class and some of his former pupils, expect to spend Saturday, June 4, at Fort Warren.

—Mr. O. B. Leavitt gave the cups used in serving the lemonade to the Memorial Day procession on Beacon street, and also kindly sent them over in his own team.

—Rev. George S. Butters exchanged with Rev. S. K. Baldwin, of East Boston, last Sunday morning. The Memorial service in the evening was largely attended.

—The Methodist Society had their last sociable Thursday evening, and a very pleasant evening was passed; a large number were out, and ice cream and cake served.

—Mr. Walter Chaloner and a party of gentlemen from Boston spent a few days, including Decoration Day, near Plymouth, where they found good fishing, Mr. Chaloner bringing home a handsome string of trout and white perch.

—Elliott Lodge celebrate its tenth anniversary next Monday evening, June 6th, in Masonic Hall. The occasion will be a pleasant one, as ladies will grace the affair with their presence. The Grand Dictator of the order is expected to be present.

—George and John Schofield, carpenters employed on Councilman Chadwick's new house, fell from a staging on Wednesday and sustained such severe injuries in the back and head that they were sent to the Cottage Hospital. Dr. Hunt attended them.

—Messrs. Atwood & Weld sold the Fuller estate, corner of Harvard street and Newtonville avenue, Tuesday afternoon, by public auction, to Mr. Henry F. Ross, for $4525. The estate contained 23,000 feet of land, together with a 10-room dwelling, and was assessed for $4500.

—The latest plan for a public improvement is to buy the vacant lot in the rear of the Methodist church, lay it out as a public park and present it to the city. It would be a handsome addition to that part of the village, and would give people coming to the station a favorable idea of Newtonville. It is to be hoped the plan will be carried out.

—The Penobscot Bay Land Company has been listed on the Boston Stock Exchange, and promises to be almost as important an affair as the West End Land Company. The leading stockholders are Newtonville gentlemen, among whom are Ex-Governor Claffin, Dustin Lancy, A. H. Soden and B. S. Grant.

—A short time ago the Nu Delta Sigma held a reunion at the residence of its ex-President, Mr. Rollins. Nine members were present and passed a very pleasant evening with music, various discussions, etc. At the conclusion of the supper much amusement was created by the presentation of a souvenir to each member, the "barrel" and the "little chestnut bell" causing merriment which bade fair to last all night.

The following officers were elected: Pres., T. G. Adams; Vice Pres., Geo. M. Bridges; Sec., W. H. Cotting; Treas., E. T. Rollins. Although the members are so soon to separate, each to his own work, we hope the "purple and white" may find them together in lasting friendship. C.

—The regular meeting of the Newton Christian Endeavor Union will be held with the Newtonville society Monday evening, June 6th, at 7:30 p. m. All the members of the Newtonville society are cordially invited to attend. The subject for discussion is: Resolved, That it is not wise to suspend the work of our societies during the summer months. It will be opened by Mr. George Agry, Jr., of the Eliot Society.

WEST NEWTON.

—Mr. George H. Phelps and family have gone to Osterville for the summer.

—Rev. Mr. Jaynes exchanged with the Rev. Mr. Beach of Dedham last Sunday.

—Mr. George Fuller is slowly recovering from the injury he received some time ago.

—Alderman Nickerson was called to Provincetown on Thursday to attend the funeral of an uncle.

—Mrs. L. G. Harding and Miss Florence Harding are stopping at Mr. Marcus Morton's on Webster street.

—Mr. Arthur White of Waltham street was pleasantly surprised by a number of friends last Friday night.

—Director A. L. Barber assisted at the institution of Lawrence Associates, N. M. R. A., in Lawrence last week.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dolbeare and son have engaged rooms at the Winthrop Beach House, Ocean Spray, for the summer.

—The house recently sold by Mr. Charles Davis on Watertown street has been remodeled into a first-class dwelling house.

—Mr. J. C. Fuller has sold to Charles Fitzgerald, of Boston, the McCullough estate, on the corner of Waltham and River streets, and he will cut it up into building lots.

—Mrs. J. C. Jaynes left this week for Lake Minnetonka, in the vicinity of St. Paul, Minn., to spend the summer. Rev. Mr. Jaynes will follow in his summer vacation.

—Mrs. Eleanor Purdee with her daughter will sail this month for England, where they will spend the summer, and Miss Purdee will later pursue her art studies in Paris.

—The house built by George Frost has recently been sold to Mr. Baker for the sum of $13,500. The owners of real estate will not be disposed to sacrifice on their property.

—One John Williams, a stranger in the city, after being arrested for drunkenness had several severe epileptic fits, and his condition excited much alarm. He finally recovered sufficiently to leave the city.

—The auction sale of land on River street on Monday was not largely attended, and after one lot had been sold the sale was postponed, as the bids were not satisfactory. The owner said he did not propose to give the lots away.

—Another meeting is called for Monday evening next to consider the question of enlarging the Unitarian church edifice. It is possible that the project of buying the Stone estate may come up, as the church committee have secured the refusal of the property.

—The Police Court has had little of importance to do this week. Two cases of assault and battery and two of disturbing the peace are recorded. There were an unusually large number of drunken persons arrested, thirteen in all, of whom seven were arrested on the 29th and 30th.

—A few days ago Mrs. Milo Lucas was unpleasantly surprised by a tramp, who appeared at her door and demanded breakfast. He was apparently very well satisfied with the meal, for he departed saying that he was stopping in an empty freight car, and that he would be back to dinner. The police were notified and proceeded to the car, finding the man engaged in writing poetry. The bottom of the car was covered with his poetic effusions. The wandering poet received six months in the House of Correction for vagrancy.

—The twenty-first anniversary of the West Newton Baptist Sunday School was observed last Sunday evening by a service beginning at 6 o'clock. The room was crowded in spite of the unfavorable weather. The service consisted of music by Miss Jessie G. Stickel and Miss Gertrude Briggs and a duet by Miss Stickel and Miss Margaret E. Smith; a primary class exercise, participated in by Grace Lewis, Eddie Morse and by the class; recitations by Helen Hunt, Robert Waite, Mary Morse, Ethel H. Eaton and Florence Henderson; an address by the Rev. E. A. Capen, of Watertown, and remarks by the pastor. The report of the Secretary and Treasurer showed the school to be in a flourishing condition. The organization is as follows: Rev. O. D. Kimball, Pastor; H. A. Inman, Superintendent; Samuel N. Waters, Assistant Superintendent; A. L. Barbour, Secretary and Treasurer; E. L. Burdick, Librarian; Charles Putnam, E. Robert H. Barbour, Eddie Chisholm, Assistant Librarians; Walter N. Waters, organist.

—The adjourned meeting of the new Odd Fellows' lodge was held in Nickerson's Hall, Wednesday evening, and E. O. Childs presided and Robert Bennett acted as Secretary. It was decided to call the lodge "Newton Lodge, No. 92." The lodge will be instituted in Nickerson's Hall, but decision has not been reached as to a permanent place of meeting. The Regalia Committee were given power to go ahead and purchase the necessary regalia. Of the names received twenty-one have withdrawn, but this leaves 255 as pledged to become charter members. The lodge will be instituted and the officers installed June 15, at 3 p. m., and in the evening the members will be initiated. Mr. Edwin O. Childs, for the committee on the reception of the grand officers, stated that the committee was in favor of securing the services of a caterer, owing to the labor and annoyance rendered necessary in attempting to provide a supper by individual effort. The committee further recommended that supper tickets be issued at a cost of 50 cents each, in order to prevent a heavy drain upon the treasury. The report was accepted and the recommendations adopted. Mr. Robert Bennett was elected a committee of one to receive applications and fees from the petitioners.

AUBURNDALE.

—Mr. E. B. Haskell has gone to the Rangely Lakes in Maine.

—Mr. E. L. Pickard is absent at the Kennebago Camp, Indian Rock, Maine.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lathrop arrived from North Carolina last Friday, to spend the summer at their home on Melrose street.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. Abrams of Baltimore, parents of Mrs. John W. Bird, arrived here Sunday, to spend the summer with their daughter.

—Mr. Cephas Brigham, we are happy to state, has so far recovered from his recent critical illness, as to walk out every day, and hopes soon to be able to attend to business.

—Among the pictures of the numerous Boat Club horses, which were depicted in last Sunday's Herald, we saw none to compare with our Newton Boat Club house at Riverside.

—Next Sunday will be observed at the Methodist church as "Children's Day." In the morning, the pastor will preach an appropriate sermon, and in the evening the children's exercises will occur. All are invited.

—Col. R. M. Pulsifer is one of a company who has bought out the Evening Journal of Atlanta, Ga. The South will have one enterprising and independent newspaper, if the Journal bears any resemblance to the Herald.

—Mr. Bragdon and family are expected by the steamer Cephalonia to Boston, which was due June 2. They visited northern Europe as far as North Cape last summer, German in autumn and Italy and Spain in the winter.

—Miss Adele V. Willis returned on Thursday from a three months visit to her sister in Camden, N. J. She came on Capt. Baker's new coasting vessel from Philadelphia to Boston, in company with Mrs. Baker, and enjoyed a delightful passage.

—Miss Susie C. Aiken, who has so successfully conducted a Kindergarten school here this winter, has been obliged to close her school on account of illness, and return to her home in Amherst, N. H., but hopes to return in September, and has the promise of a full school.

—The residence of Mr. N. W. Farley on Central street, was the centre of attraction Thursday afternoon and evening, when Miss Edith M. Farley gave a reception to her many friends, both ladies and gentlemen. Mrs. Farley received with her daughter, and many called to pay their respects.

—Mr. J. Edward Hills has sold out his coal and wood business to Mr. B. C. Baker of Middleboro, Mass., who will conduct the business at the old stand, and we are pleased to hear that Mr. C. L. Markham, who has been with the business from the start, will remain in his employ.

—Carpenters have been busily at work this week on the alterations in Plummer's Block, and wonders have been accomplished; the post office no longer holds its old place, but has been moved to the front part of the store, and enlarged and improved in many respects. A money order window has been added and numerous other changes have been made, adding much to the convenience of the public.

—Following is the Commencement program at Lasell: Thursday, June 9, 7:45 p. m., Commencement concert. Admission, 50 cents. Sunday, June 12, 10:30 a. m., Baccalaureate sermon, by Bishop Edward G. Andrews. Monday, June 13, 7:45 p. m., Class-day exercises. Tuesday, June 14, 8 p. m., principal's reception for the senior class. The Late Military Unpleasantness.

Editor of the Graphic:

As the disagreement between the officers of the High School battalion and their military instructor on Decoration day, which has now been satisfactorily adjusted, may be misunderstood or misrepresented, permit me to make a correct and impartial statement of the matter.

The state law requires that the parade underarms of such a school battalion shall be "under the superintendence of their teachers." The military instructor, Capt. Brown, proposed to accompany and superintend them on the march, as he had a right to do, but the officers resented the impression that he proposed to take command. Mr. Brown says that there was no reason or ground for such an impression, and that his intention was merely to accompany them and make suggestions if needed. But in some way the impression was received, and as this had never been done before, and seemed to them to unjustly reflect on the capability of their major, they declined to agree to his proposal, and the battalion was asked to vote whether they would be commanded by the major or the military instructor, and voted unanimously in favor of the major, whereupon the military instructor told the several captains to dismiss their companies, which was done, the guns were put back into the racks, and the boys took position in the procession without the guns.

This condition of things was then reported to the mayor, who was confined to his house by illness, and he believing that the vote of the school committee authorizing the parade would carry with it the proper supervision by the teachers, gave an order or permission for the battalion to take their guns, which they, not fully understanding the legal bearing of the case, did, and went through the parade as usual, except that the military instructor was not in attendance.

As this involved a breach of the requirement of the law and of discipline, the matter was laid before the officers, who have since made a proper and manly acknowledgement and apology for their error, which is satisfactory to the military instructor, and matters have been restored to a satisfactory footing.

TRANSMIGRATION.

BY HJALMAR HJORTH BOYERSEN.

My spirit wrestles in anguish
With fancies that will not depart;
A ghost who borrowed my semblance
Has hid in the depth of my heart.

A dim, restless possession
Impels me forever to do
The phantom deeds of this phantom
That lived years ago.

The thoughts that I think seem hoary
And laden with dust and gloom;
My voice sounds strange, as if echoed
From centuries long in the tomb.

Memories 'hat e'en through my laughter
Ere trembles a strain of dread;
A shivering ghost of laughter
That is loth to rise from the dead.

My tear has its root in dead ages,
And choked with their dust is my sigh;
I weep for the pale, dead sorrows
Of the wrath that once was I.

Ah, Earth! thou art cold and weary,
With weight of centuries bent,
Thy pristine creative gladness
In you fulfil eons was spent.

Perchance, in the distant ages,
My soul, from Nirvana's frost,
Will gather its scattered life-germs
And quicken the life I lost.

And then, like a song forgotten
That haunts, yet eludes the ear,
Or cry that chills the darkness
With a vague, swift breath of fear.

A faint resemblance shall visit
That son of earth and sky
In whom the flames shall rekindle
Of the soul which once was I.

PINEY HOLLOW CAMP-MEETING.

[BY SOPHIE SWEET.]

"The minister and Rosey Bement, if you ever did?"

The Widow Peaseley sank down, as if exhausted by her emotions, on the steps of the back porch where her neighbor, Mrs. Deacon Jackson, was sitting in the heat of the summer afternoon. "It is terribly hot, and I was just thinking about taking a nap, but when I see 'em riding by I couldn't resist just running across to tell you the news. After all the caps that have been set for Brother Lovejoy, you wouldn't think of a thought of his going over to the East End after a wife—and getting one of them Bements?"

"You don't mean it, Miss Peaseley?" Mrs. Deacon Jackson stopped in the midst of the marriages and deaths in her newspaper to listen. "I didn't know she was even a professor!"

"She aint; and the whole church is worked up about it. For my part, I've always said that even a minister had a right to suit himself when it came to marrying, for it's him and not folks that's got to take the heft of the risk; but for a minister of the gospel, forty years old and more, to marry a child of a girl like Rosey Bement, with such relations as old Bement and them boys, is flying in the face of Providence, and you can't call it anything else! Old Bement ain't been inside of a church for years, if he ever was, and what possessed him to go to that camp-meeting? But there! maybe 'twas a drawing; the Lord's ways ain't ourn, and he actually went forward to the mourner's bench, and Brother Lovejoy made the movin'—there over him that you have ever heard. There is a good many that thinks it's not genuine, and expect to hear that he's tell from grace very soon; it aint for us to judge him—but of course it's a great thing for Rosey to marry a minister."

"That's where the match was made—at that camp-meeting. You ain't heard about the doings there?" "Well, there I was thinking that being you'd been sick and living off the road so, and going to the other meeting, it was just possible that you hadn't heard about it; but I went from there to Carmel and stayed a week, and I thought for certain it ain't all over town before I got home! Well, I think it's beautiful to worship the Lord in temples of his own raising as the minister says, and camp-meeting is real refreshing seasons; but do what you will, you can't keep the moonlight nights and the associating together out of 'em, and young folks is young folks, and always will be. I s'pose. And I never saw a camp-meeting that was so pervaded by the spirit of the Lord that there wasn't no counting!"

"I said as much to Brother Lovejoy when he was asking me if I was going to the camp-meeting, and that was the first time I ever had reason to think that he was a little loose in his ideas and might come to something like what he has come to. For what do you think he said, Miss Jackson? He said he didn't know if he should want it to be any different! He thought it would be likely to be a good kind of courting that was done at a camp-meeting! I have thought before that Brother Lovejoy wasn't exactly spiritual, but I didn't think he was so light-minded and worldly."

"It's a beautiful place for a camp-meeting, the Piney Hollow Grove; the great pine trees make such a solemn kind of a darkness, and, as Matilda Morse said in a poem she made, that Brother Robdel said had ought to be printed, the rustling they made sounded just like angels' wings. Now if it was Matilda that Brother Lovejoy was going to marry! Her mother says she's so Godly-given that she can't bear the thoughts of marryin' anybody but a minister, and she's waiting for one these twenty years; and when Brother Lovejoy came it did seem a kind of Providence, he being unmarried and a suitable age and all, and Matilda's poem on the occasion of his settlement being enough to draw tears from a stone, as everybody said, and speaking about his lonely state and all."

"But Rosey Bement! There is them that calls her handsome, but she looks like a gypsy to me, and if she was handsome, a minister ought to realize that 'favor is deceitful and beauty vain.' And there's Jim Orrick that has been keeping company with Rosey for two or three years, and was expecting to marry her. I don't see how the minister can reconcile it with his conscience to get her away from Jim. They say Jim is terrible, cut up about it. He's been a wild feller, of course, but no more than them Bement boys, and if you'll believe it, he went forward at that camp-meeting!"

Some folks say he only did it to get on the right side of Rosey again, after trying to play that trick on the minister; but I heard Jim say, myself, that he didn't have anything to do with that trick. Oh, you aint heard about that, have you? That's what I was beginning to tell you. You see all that rough East End was at the camp-meeting, the Bement boys, and the Proutys, and Jack Lentester, and Jim Orrick, and all of them. Whatever possessed them to go is more than I can tell; I suppose they thought they could get a glimpse of some mischief and disturb the meetings. Of course, I aint saying but what it was the Lord's doings bringing 'em there; but I must say it seems kind of queer to think of his having anything to do with the East End! Folks do say that Rosey had been going to meeting and to Sunday School considerable, and the minister had begun to take notice of her, and she coaxed them all to go; but it's more likely they went without any such coaxing, just because she was going to be known that they'd try to get a chance."

"The first week of the beautiful and peaceful; there was some whispering and giggling, and a good many, especially among the East Enders, went off fishing instead of attending the services,—and courting! Well, if that was what Brother Lovejoy liked to see, he must have been gratified! But there wasn't any attempt to disturb the meetings, such as folks that knew the East End set expected."

"But sinners didn't seem to come forward as much as was expected, neither. There was the presiding elder exhorting them, and three ministers from the West Conference, and a converted Injin, and three jubilee singers that sung the movin' est hymns I ever heard, and yet there was a coldness and a hardness. Now and then there'd be some go forward, but they were terrible scattering, and there didn't seem to be any enthusiasm. Brother Lovejoy seemed to be well enough satisfied; you know he seems to like things kind of calm and quiet, and is always preaching about the Lord's speaking in a still voice, and that's set a good many against him that likes to see things more stirring."

"There's old Uncle Simeon Randall, that's been a class leader for forty years, he says he knows from experience that if a man has got religion in his heart he'll want to holler. And he's been one of them that's never had any faith in Brother Lovejoy. I s'pose Uncle Simeon is kind of ticked that he's turned out so; it aint human nature not to be."

"After a while, the East End fellers got tired of rovin' about, and goun' fishin' and gunnin', as folks thought—but it's more likely that they planned mischief from the first—and began to come to the meetin' pretty reg'larly. And folks noticed that some of 'em were sure to sit just as near to the preacher's stand as they could get. Rosey Bement never set with 'em, nor any of the East End girls; you could say them East End girls looked about as well and was as pretty spoken as anybody. Jim Orrick, he sat with Rosey sometimes, and sometimes with the young men. To think of that girl actin' as if she was keepin' company with Jim then, and all the time she was settin' her cap at the minister!"

"Well, as I was sayin', them East End fellers stuck terrible close to the preacher's stand, but they didn't offer to make the least trouble, and they was so attractive and looked so serious that a good many thought they were under conviction, and Miss Randall whispered to me that it would be kind of queer if the work of grace should begin with the East End folks."

"Well, one night—it was a kind of a solemn night to begin with—the pleasant weather seemed to have broken up, and the sky was covered with black clouds and the wind was roarin' in the trees, and the lamps was kind of flarin', and the colored folks had been singin' an awful wail and lone-some hymn, when they stopped. Brother Lovejoy called for them that felt their sins to come forward and be prayed for. I thought some would go; there'd been a movin' discourse and some powerful prayin', and there did seem to be a solemnity. But nobody went forward, and Brother Lovejoy began to pray in his mild kind of way, and all of a sudden, Brother Bement jumps up with a kind of a scream and rush toward the stand! Everybody thought she was going to the mourner's bench, and Uncle Simeon Kendal shouts out, 'Praise the Lord!' and a good many said, 'Amen!' But Rosey went right to the mourner's bench as if she hadn't any thoughts of stoppin', and squeezed herself onto the bench where the East End boys were sittin' right between her brother Gard and the preacher's stand. Some of the boys turned red in the face, and one or two snickered a little, and Gard Bement he got up and slunk out. Rosey she kind of turned sideways and leaned her head against the preacher's stand, and the minister went on prayin'."

Rosey sat as still as a statue, with a stony image, and there wasn't anybody there, unless it was some wicked boys, that knew she was doin' anything more'n prayin'."

"Two or three had got up, just as soon as she did, and followed her, thinkin', of course, that she was goin' forward to be prayed for, and they stopped at the mourner's bench. There was a shoutin' of 'Glory to God!' all round, and more followed to the mourner's bench, till it was full and minn' over. And such a prayer as the minister made I never did hear. Nobody could say there was any milk-and-water about him, then! And it was a real refreshin' season, though there was a good many, of course, that had their minds kind of taken up with wonderin' about Rosey Bement. Most thought she had started to go to the mourner's bench and her courage had given out when she got there; and the minister prayed real earnest for grace and courage for the weak and timid, and everybody knew he meant Rosey."

"Jim Orrick, he was amongst them that went forward, but Rosey never moved nor stirred."

"After he'd got through prayin', the minister walked over to the end of the platform where Rosey was sittin', as if he was goin' to speak to her, and all of a sudden there came a crash that made everybody jump, and a part of the platform that had been right under the minister's feet, when he was prayin' came down. And the first thing that anybody knew, there was Rosey fainting dead away in the minister's arms, with her right hand and arm crushed almost to pieces, where she'd been holdin' up a trap door that them wicked boys had fixed to fall when the minister stepped on it."

"It seems that little Job Lanfester had got wind of it and whispered it to Rosey, and that was what made her start up and rush to the platform when folks thought she was feelin' her sins."

"Folks asked her why she didn't speak out and tell of it, instead of tryin' to hold it up, and she said she didn't have time to think, and she didn't want to make a fuss, anyway. Some thought she wanted to shield her brothers and Jim Orrick—though it turned out that Jim hadn't anything to do with it; but more thought what she'd done was all on the minister's account. He was about as pale as she was, and he stood there, supportin' her,—and I wish you could have seen Jim Orrick look at 'em; poor Jim. I really did pity him. 'Most everybody was scandalized, for it was plain enough that there was something between Rosey and the minister, though I don't know as anybody would so far that night as to think they was goin' to get married. It did seem a little too much to think of the minister's marryin' Rosey Bement—though I can't say I've ever been one to have as much confidence in Brother Lovejoy as some has. Them that's so easy and soothin' with sinners is dreadful apt to think light of sin, I say."

"The next day the minister was takin' a sight of notice of Jim Orrick,—jest to kind of coax him up, you see, so he wouldn't make a fuss about givin' up Rosey; and he got Jim up to makin' prayer; 'twas a real good feelin' prayer, too, though the poor fellow looked as if he was broken hearted. And if the old man Bement didn't go up to the anxious seat! There was a real revival among them East End folks, and the minister was kind o' givin' out all the time that Rosey was at the bottom of it, though, except that they thought she was goin' to be prayed for when she wa'n't, and so followed her by mistake, I couldn't see what she had to do with it. It was terrible kind of her to get her arm all jammed a holdin' up that contrivance, and keepin' the minister from fallin', but I couldn't see as it was any proof that she'd experienced a work of grace."

"Well, folks was talkin' and a talkin', and wonderin' whether the minister hadn't ought to be dealt with, when up goes Brother Weatherbee, who is a righteous man and stern with wrong doers,—if he give the devil sent weight of tea and sugar sometimes,—and, says he: 'Brother Lovejoy, I hope it aint true that you're going to marry Rosey Bement.'

"Brother Lovejoy, he grew red in the face, and he looked terrible cheap, but says he, as bold as he could be, after a minute, 'I do expect to marry Rosey Bement, Brother Weatherbee.'

"Do you think she'll be a fittin' wife for a minister of the gospel?" says Brother Weatherbee. And folks that heard it say he said it so solemn that if the minister hadn't been a dreadful hardener, it would have touched him. But he answered, as if he wa'n't a mite ashamed:

"I hope she will be in time."

"Don't you think you will destroy your usefulness by such a course?" says Brother Weatherbee.

"And they say the minister was actually half laughing, as he answered him:

"I hope not!"

"Brother Weatherbee said he saw 'twas no use laborin' with the minister; nothin' short of the grace of God could open his eyes and show him the error of his way, and he went to the presidin' elder, and what do you think he said—men is men, the best of 'em. He said, 'Brother Lovejoy had a perfect right to suit himself, and he shouldn't think of interferin' with his matrimonial amans.'

"Well, all I have to say is, Brother Lovejoy's usefulness is over in this desecrated, and he'll get a dreadful slim donation party when it comes fall, and if I'm able to crawl I shall stay away from meetin', and that's what everybody says. You never see such a turduin' out as there was last Sunday, and, by the way, the minister prayed, you'd have thought 'twas all on account of the interest among the East End folks. But he! do you s'pose he didn't know all about it? He's a deep one, Brother Lovejoy is."

"To see her drivin' round with the minister, with her arm in a sling, is enough to make anybody feel as if there wa'n't no such things as saving grace even amongst ministers."

"They do say they're goin' to be married right after meetin' some Sunday, and take folks by surprise, and if I'm able to crawl I shall stay away from meetin', and that's what everybody says. You never see such a turduin' out as there was last Sunday, and, by the way, the minister prayed, you'd have thought 'twas all on account of the interest among the East End folks. But he! do you s'pose he didn't know all about it? He's a deep one, Brother Lovejoy is."

"Well, if they get married next Sunday, as I've heard on pretty good authority they mean to, I'll run over and tell you about it as soon as I get home."

"I hope you will," said Mrs. Jackson, earnestly. "I've been deprived of gospel privileges for a long time, and it is real consoling to have you drop in after meetin'."

The very next Sunday the Widow Peaseley dropped in after meeting, fairly out of breath with excitement.

"There never was such goin' on in this town, I do believe!" she exclaimed as soon as she saw the people. "You see, 'most everybody had heard that there was goin' to be a wedding to-day, and such a crowd as there was! The porch was filled and there was folks lookin' in at the windows. And there sat Rosey Bement, all in white, and her father in a Sunday suit—old man Bement dressed up, if you ever heard of such a thing! The minister had on a brand-new suit, and a terrible kind of a sheepish look, just like a bridegroom, and there was flowers on the pulpit, and on the sofa sat the presiding elder."

"He preached, the elder did, and he took Christian charity for his text, and he gave some pretty sharp hints; but nobody listened much, I guess, their minds were so took up with the wedding that was comin'."

"When he'd pronounced the benediction, the elder invited them that was interested to wait while the ceremony of marriage was performed. Nobody went out, I can tell you! The minister came forward, lookin' a little bluish and confused, but there was a kind of I've-got-you-now look about him, too! I noticed it before I had the least idea what was comin'. Rosey Bement went up, leaning on her father's arm, and met her, and the minister, he married Rosey to Jim Orrick!"

"If ever folks looked cheap in this world, it was the folks that had been making such a fuss about the minister and Rosey Bement!"

"At first they was for sayin' that the minister hadn't told the truth; but all he said was that he was goin' to marry Rosey, and so he did; he didn't say who to! And it turns out that Jim Orrick is going to study for the ministry, and that's what Brother Lovejoy meant by saying he hoped Rosey would make a good minister's wife in time! There's a good many folks in our society that feel meachin'. I can tell you, and it's no more'n they ought to, for Brother Lovejoy has been a much-abused man. But I always was one that stood up for him!"

Backache, stitches in the side, inflation and soreness of bowels, are symptoms of a disordered state of the digestive and assimilative organs, which can be corrected by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

—Here is a little story for the benefit of those who keep pet birds. I am told there is not far from where I am writing a tame magpie, which is accustomed to receive dainty little bits from the rosy lips of its fair owner. One day last summer it perched on her shoulders as usual, and inserted its beak between her lips, not as it happened, to receive, for, as one rood, turn deserves another, the grateful bird dropped an immense green fat caterpillar into the lady's mouth.—[Leads Mercury.]

CITY OF NEWTON.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.

The inhabitants of the city of Newton, and all other persons liable to pay taxes therein, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from May second to the thirtieth day of June next, true lists of all their polls (males 20 years old and upward), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempted from taxation.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executors, administrators, trustees or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

RETURNS OF PROPERTY HELD FOR LITERARY, BENEVOLENT, CHARITABLE, OR SCIENTIFIC PURPOSES.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1882.—All persons and corporations are hereby required to bring to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the thirtieth day of June next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, benevolent, charitable or scientific purposes, on the first day of May, 1887, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such person or corporation for said purpose during the year next preceding said second day of May; such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the Tax Commissioner.

MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE.

CHAP. 175, ACTS OF 1882, SEC. 1.

Any mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring to the Assessors of the town or city where such real estate lies, at the time specified for bringing in the list as provided in section thirty-eight of chapter eleven of the Public Statutes, a statement under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such real estate, and the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as a mortgagee and mortgagor. When such property is situated in two or more places, or when a recorded mortgage includes for one sum two or more estates or parts of an estate, an estimate of the amount of the mortgagee's interests in each estate or part of an estate shall be given in such statement. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate parts of such estates that are the interests of mortgagees and mortgagors, respectively, and shall assess the same. Whenever, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such real estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

SHIPPING.

Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9, of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property.

Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors, agreeably to the laws of this Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before the Assessors, on or before the thirtieth day of June, and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the board, notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—Pub. Stat., Chap. 11, Sec. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property in conformity to this notice, no statement of a tax assessed on personal estate to such person, can be granted unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent, the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent, the said amount, the abatement shall be only of the excess above the said fifty per cent.—Pub. Stat., Chap. 11, Sec. 73.

The Assessors will be in session at their office, in City Hall, in the City of Newton, on the 2d, 9th, 16th, 23d and 30th days of May, and the 6th and 13th days of June next, from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m.

Blank schedules will be furnished on application to either of the Assessors.

NEWTON CENTRE.

—See notice of rooms to rent and bicycle for sale.

—An account of the Union Memorial service will be found on another page.

—Mr. A. S. Woodworth has taken the Charles P. Clark estate for the summer.

—Mr. E. H. Mason and family have engaged rooms at the Lincoln, Hingham, for the summer.

—F. N. Bennett has gone to work for Mr. Brownell and given up his shop at the Highlands.

—Fred. S. Bates of Newton Centre has been chosen a member of the Harvard Banjo Quartet.

—Mrs. C. S. Cooper of Virginia, a relative of Jefferson Davis, is at the private hospital of Dr. Mary Bates in Newton Centre.

—It is expected that G. W. Walton, tenor, will sing in the quartet at Associates Hall Sunday evening.

—Dr. Hayden is making an addition to his house, recently bought of Mr. Clark, on Pleasant street, to make room for his office.

—Mr. William Cabot Loring and family removed to the country home at Chestnut Hill last week, and will remain until October.

—Mrs. A. L. Williams furnished lemonade again this year for the Memorial day parade, and her kindness was appreciated by all who took part in the procession.

—Mr. H. B. Wood, employed by Mr. A. H. Rolfe and having his home with him, removes to "The Highlands," occupying the tenement on Walnut street, corner Forest.

—Rev. M. R. Denning, Lyman street, for the past fourteen years General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, Boston, has resigned his office to enter on direct evangelical work in Boston.

—A lawn party for the benefit of the work of the Alice Christine Mission Band will be held at the grounds of President Hovey, Summer street, on Monday, June 6, from 5 to 9 p. m. If stormy, on Tuesday at same time.

—Messrs. Robert and Thomas A. Whitaker, of Shirley, brothers and both members of the graduating class on the "Hill," will receive ordination at Waltham, June 15, on which occasion Rev. J. M. English will preach the sermon.

—Bow-wow! Over $1,700 has been paid by citizens of Newton this year for licenses for their canine friends. Many of them are kept for guard duty, and woe betide meddlesome and ill designing persons.

—Mr. Henry Ferguson, Newton '87, who for the past year has been acting as pastor of the Temple Hall Church, Dorchester, has been recommended by a council convened at the church May 16 for ordination on the completion of his studies.

—On Wednesday, June 8, at 4 p. m., Dr. Henry S. Colby, of Dayton, Ohio, will deliver the address before the Association of the Newton Alumni at Associates Hall. In the evening Rev. Dr. George Dana Boardman, of Philadelphia, will address the Missionary Society at the same place.

—Mr. William M. Miller died Thursday afternoon, at his residence on Crescent avenue, after a long illness. Mr. Miller was for many years a ship chandler in Boston, retiring from active business some thirty years ago. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was identified with all the philanthropic interests of his times. Mr. Miller was 77 years of age, and had been a great sufferer for the last two years of his life. The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church.

—The Boston Baptist Social Union entertained the graduating class of the Newton Theological Institution Monday evening. Mr. Augustus Irving Scoville spoke for the class and Prof. Burton and Dr. Hovey spoke for the school. The latter said he should live and die in the belief that theology is an important study. He spoke of enlargement of the course of instruction at the Newton Institution, the increased knowledge now amounting to some $40,000, and in conclusion expressed the hope that the Social Union would continue its fraternal and paternal interest in the Newton Seminary.

—The following very excellent notice is posted in the Newton Centre postoffice: "I am authorized by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to offer ten prizes of $10 each and twenty prizes of $5 for evidence which shall convict persons violating the laws of Massachusetts by killing any insect-eating bird or taking eggs from its nest. I would ask all good citizens to aid in enforcing our laws by giving publicity to this notice. All communications should be sent to Capt. Charles A. Currier, Chief Prosecuting Agent, No. 19 Milk street, Boston. Signed, George T. Angell, President."

—The closing meeting for the season of the Young Men's Lyceum was held in the chapel of the First Church on Tuesday evening, John M. W. Farnham presiding. The musical programme consisted of a banjo solo by George A. Holmes; duet, Stephen Emery violin, Luther Paul cornet. Debate on the resolve that woman's suffrage is for the best interest of the nation. James F. Morton, Jr., Herbert B. Waters, affirmative; Maurice H. Wildes, Carleton E. Davis, negative. The remainder of the evening was devoted to sociability, cake and ice cream from Paxton's being served.

—A birthday party was given by neighbors and relatives at Mr. B. W. Kingsbury's, Homer street, on Thursday of last week, the occasion being the eightieth birthday of Mrs. Sarah H. Trowbridge. During the afternoon many of the ladies of the neighborhood met at Mrs. F. H. Scudder's, Bowen street, and surprised Mrs. Trowbridge by coming to congratulate her and bringing various useful and pretty love tokens, among which was a basket of flowers, a large birthday cake with eight dimes laid in the frosting, prepared and presented by Mrs. Clough, of Boston. There were also many useful and ornamental articles, including a handsome wicker chair from members of the Ward family. Among the guests were Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde, Col. and Mrs. L. F. Kingsbury, Mrs. Albert G. Brown, of Abundant, Mrs. Latham, of Cambridge; Miss Trowbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Clough, of Boston. Mrs. Trowbridge is a native of Maine, widow of Mr. Charles Trowbridge, of Portland. She has been a resident of Newton for a number of years, and by her continued good health, cheerful disposition and sprightliness of manner is able at four-score years to be useful and enjoy the labors and pleasures of life.

—Mr. Russell S. Sargeant, Newton '87, received at ordination at Ruggles Street Church, Boston, on the 18th. Mr. Sargeant goes to Minnesota in the service of the American Baptist Home Mission Society.

—Repairs are in progress about the base of the spire and roof of the First Church. The workmen discovered a large swarm of honey-bees with their honeycombs secreted below the bell deck, just above the main roof. The colony had evidently had possession of this elevated retreat several years.

—On Wednesday evening there was celebrated at the residence of Mr. Charles F. Thurston, Beacon street, by Rev. T. J. Holmes, the marriage of the eldest daughter, Miss Alice Thurston, and Mr. George M. Rice, eldest son of Mr. Marshall O. Rice, Centre street, with whom he is connected in business in Boston. Miss Thurston formerly resided in Cambridge. Mr. Rice is a grandson of Hon. Marshall S. Rice, for a long series of years clerk of the town of Newton and active in promoting all her movements for the public good. Mr. and Mrs. Rice will have their home with their home with Mr. E. M. Fowle, Lake avenue.

—The anniversary of the Newton Theological Institution will be held Thursday, June 9, in the Congregational Church, at 10 a. m. The procession of members of the Institution Alumni and friends will leave Colby Hall at 9:30. Of the graduating class the following are to give addresses: Henry Franklin Dexter, Boston, Colby University, '84; John Marshall Foster, Colby University, '77; Augustus Irving Scoville, Bridgeport, Conn., Brown University '84; Robert Woodie Van Kierke, South Strabane, Penn., Princeton College '84; Robert Whitaker, Shirley, John Brainard Wilson, Peabody, Harvard University '84; William Jacob Clones, Boston, Brown University '84, was appointed, but has been excused. The class numbers twenty-three.

CHESTNUT HILL.

—The exhibition of water color sketches in the school house hall drew a fair attendance Wednesday night, in spite of the storm, and it was decided to continue the exhibition on Thursday, when the attendance was much larger. The affair was a very pleasant one and quite successful.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mr. S. C. Cobb has returned to Florida for a short sojourn.

—The Chataqua Club met this week on Tuesday, with Mrs. S. D. Whittemore.

—Mrs. C. H. Forge of Portland has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. F. Hayward of Centre street.

—The Chataquans met on Monday with Mrs. S. D. Whittemore, and adopted a very interesting plan for next year's work.

—The ladies of St. Paul's church will hold a Strawberry Festival in the chapel Wednesday evening next at 7 o'clock.

—Much comment is made on the placing of those ugly Electric Light poles to those poor Judgements are the positions assigned?

—The Railroad folks have made a great mistake in making the driveway from Walnut street to their depot so narrow at one point.

—Is it not time to see some spring repairing upon our streets? We hear of the Highway Committee riding about, but see no good results from it.

—Mr. Alvin W. Coombs of West Medway was the organist at the Congregational church last Sunday. He will be the organist for next Sunday.

—We hear that Mr. Crane has contracted with the Howard Clock Co., to put a clock in the Congregational church tower, and that they will put it up immediately.

—Mr. T. B. Wiggins and Mr. J. H. Hatch of post office block, have removed to Needham. We understand that Mr. Hatch will retain his position as sexton at the Episcopal chapel.

—We notice in the other wards of the city that the Electric Light Company have cleaned up the surplus earth thrown out by post setting. Why not in Ward Five?

—Miss Gould, one of the Hyde School teachers, has been granted a leave of absence on account of ill health. Miss Jewett has been selected to fill the vacancy.

—It has been reported in our village that Mr. E. S. Little has bought the estate leased by him of Miss Dunclee for the past three years.

—On three of the darkest nights of last week, no street lamps were burning in this ward. When the moon goes back on us is the time that the light department should be vigilant.

—The late movement to get a water cart upon our streets brought the rain from above in good time, but the sprinkler will have a chance before the summer is ended. Its first trial was on Thursday last.

—Two of the four stand pipes for the accommodation of the watering carts have been placed in position on Walnut street, near the corner of Lake avenue, and on Boylston street, near the "Old Mile Stone."

—Now that the Boston & Albany Railroad Company are grading the station grounds so finely, it is hoped that the Improvement Association will make an effort to have the Fuller lot make a better appearance, and now seems to be the proper time.

—The Ladies Sewing Circle met with Mrs. Strong at Waban Thursday afternoon. The weather was unpropitious, but a large number were present and spent a pleasant afternoon and evening. Preparations were made for a garden party to take place June 17, at which there will be for sale aprons and fancy articles.

—The final meeting for the season of the Progressive Euchre club was held at the residence of Mrs. C. E. Galace, Walnut street, Tuesday evening. The feature of the occasion was the "canning" of Mr. F. W. Manson by Mr. Alex. Tyler, who, on behalf of the club, presented him with a handsome cane, silver mounted, marked with his monogram. Mr. Manson's punishment was made necessary by his success in winning the most games during the winter. Refreshments were served, and with music the evening passed off pleasantly, and the club adjourned to next season.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Eugene Fanning has gone to New York on a business trip.

—Memorial day was observed by our citizens in a manner befitting the occasion.

—Mr. Charles H. Noyes has moved into the house of Mr. C. L. Bird on Boylston street.

—The poles for the electric lights are not yet in position, although they are strewn along the streets.

—Some of the members of Perseverance Lodge, I. O. G. T., enjoyed a ride to Natick last Saturday to visit the Good Templars of that place.

—The members of Grand Army Post of this village attended services at Newton last Sunday evening, Spear's large being the means of transportation.

—The employees of the Pettee Machine Works are to have a half holiday on Saturdays, the lost time being made up during the week.

—The ladies of the Methodist church are making arrangements for a strawberry festival to be held on Wednesday evening of next week, in the vestry of their church.

—Mr. Curtis, who for a long time has been in the employ of the Pettee Machine Works, is quite sick, and has gone to his home for rest and treatment.

—An interesting union temperance meeting was held at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, being addressed by the Rev. Mr. Peterson and by Rev. B. L. Whitman of Providence, R. I.

—On Memorial day there was quite a narrow escape from a serious accident. In attempting to cross the street in front of a passing team, a young son of Mr. Thomas Greenhead was knocked down and run over, but fortunately escaped without serious injury.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Mr. Henry Swallow started on Wednesday for a visit to England for the benefit of his health.

—We are pleased to note that Mr. Allen Jordan has so far recovered from his serious fall of last winter as to be able to walk to the cemetery on Memorial day.

—Mr. Perry Hare, formerly of Albany, New York, has entered the service of Mr. Frank Freeman, and may be found at his drug store.

—The exercises held here on Memorial day were very brief and after the usual decoration of the graves the post and band immediately took their departure for Newtonville.

—Mr. Elijah Wetherbee invited the Pine Farm school boys, and also the boys of this place who took part in the procession to a dinner on his grounds, which was contributed by the ladies of the vicinity.

—Mr. Geo. Smith has resigned as superintendent of the Dudley Hosiery Mills, being about to retire from business and make a trip to Europe. His place is to be filled by Mr. C. F. Ford, who will be promoted from the position of clerk.

—The alarm from box 5 on Wednesday, was occasioned by a fire in the picking room of Cordingley's Mills. Hose 6 was promptly on hand and got the fire under control, and in connection with the chemical engine extinguished the blaze.

—The base ball game played on Memorial day between the paper-makers and Hosiery men, resulted in a victory for the latter. That between the Boston and Albany brakemen and the Newton Centre store clerks was witnessed by a large crowd of interested spectators, and the brakemen came out victorious.

—Mr. G. L. Smith having severed his connection with the Dudley Hosiery Mills, Mr. Fred Ford has been appointed agent to succeed him and has entered upon his duties. Charles A. Fitton, lately connected with Freeman's drug store, has accepted the position of book-keeper, formerly occupied by Mr. Ford.

NONANTUM.

—James B. Murphy has purchased the old Saxton estate on Watertown street.

—A little four year old son of Jeffrey Forrest died suddenly last Saturday.

—Mrs. Wm. Ellory and family will leave this village and make their future home at Lawrence, Mass.

—Dr. P. Vincent has changed his residence to the corner of Crescent and California streets.

—On account of the dullness in business James Hainsworth severs his connection with the Nonantum Mills this week, and goes to Providence, R. I.

—Mr. Arthur A. Coe, superintendent of the primary department of the Sabbath school, has been confined to his home several weeks with throat troubles.

—Children's day will be observed at the North Evangelical church next Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Lamb will address the children as well as the parents. The ordinance of baptism will be administered, a choir of 20 children will sing, and on the whole an unusually interesting service may be expected.

WABAN.

—Arthur H. Norris, nine years old, fell a short time since and sustained a fracture of the right arm. Dr. Utley is attending him and he is doing well.

—Mr. W. R. Dresser's house is rapidly approaching completion, and will soon be occupied by him. He is now having the grounds graded, and when completed his residence will be one of the finest in this section of the city.

An Explanation Desired.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

In common with many other citizens who are interested in the High School and have had pupils under Mr. Cutler, I would like to hear from the eleven members of the school committee some explanation of their action. What were their reasons for voting against him, and why do they not take a mainly part and give them? Were they of so little weight that they are afraid to make them public? This seems the only inference to be drawn, under the circumstances.

CITIZEN.

Next Saturday at 3 o'clock p. m., the Athletics will play the second league game at Cambridge. They will leave here on 1:50 horse car.

THE OPPOSITION'S PLANS.

SOME INSIDE HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT AGAINST MR. CUTLER.

The following was written (by one some distance from Newton) previous to the indignation meeting and withdrawal by Mr. Cutler of his resignation, but was not received until after his resignation; hence it was not published at the time it was received, but since the action of the School Board, at their last meeting, we are requested to publish it.

Editor of the GRAPHIC: The Alumni of the Newton High School, wherever they may be, will learn with sincere regret the announcement of Mr. Cutler's resignation. This is especially true of the classes that have come under his personal supervision. They admired him for his scholarship and ability as a writer and thinker, loved him for his kindness, courtesy and unflinching interest in their welfare; esteemed him as a friend and respected him as a man and as a perfect gentleman. To those qualities of mind and heart that make a successful and beloved teacher was added in him a rare scholarship that commanded the respect of his associates in the educational world.

But it has not been in his school alone that Mr. Cutler has made friends. During his five years' residence among us he has won the respect and friendship of his fellow citizens, and the regret is widespread that the city should lose so faithful and able a teacher and a respected citizen. Mingled with this regret is a feeling of indignation at the manner in which the resignation was brought about. To one conversant with the inside history of our school affairs for the past two years the outcome is not surprising. A certain set in the School Board have subjected the Head Master of the Newton High School to petty annoyances that have at last driven him to resign. The trouble, so far as an outsider can judge, began with the "two session plan," our worthy Superintendent's pet hobby, and the defeat of which seems yet to rankle. Our readers will remember that this was the scheme so roundly condemned by Dr. Morry, Col. Homer B. Sprague and other prominent educationalists. Mr. Cutler, as desired by the Committee, gave his opinion before them, and opposed the plan. This was the only part the Head Master took in the proceeding, but apparently it was sufficient to arouse the enmity of the promoters of the measure. It was unjustly charged that he had incited the pupils to opposition to the plan. The next move was an attempt to punish the High School Review for its share in the proceedings, and also to place Mr. Cutler in a disagreeable position by compelling him to examine the proof sheets before publication. The good sense and justice of the Board would not consent to this, however. These are specimens of the attempts made to make the Master feel that his incumbency of the Mastership was objectionable to a certain portion of the Board.

We regret that Mr. Cutler saw fit to resign, for we believe that the vast majority of the people desire him to remain, and feel grateful to him for his past services. Those who have children particularly regret his resignation.

Envy and enmity have done their work. Now let them look to their explanation to the public. "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones," and some of our esteemed school officers may find themselves thus domiciled. The appointment of a new Head Master will be watched with interest to see whether or not he is a personal friend of certain school officers. It is rumored that a certain teacher, who is suspected of playing a double game, thinks he holds the trump cards for the new deal. We shall see.

WM. MAVERICK.

The Fete Champêtre.

All articles solicited for the Fete Champêtre in aid of the Country Week and Fresh Air Fund should be sent to Mrs. E. C. Fitch, Newton, or if notice is sent the article will be called for. All ladies who have not been solicited and desire to help along this worthy charity can send their contributions to Mrs. Fitch or any of the matrons in the different wards. This is to be a Newton affair, embracing the whole city, and the object is such a worthy one that it is hoped there will be a generous response and a large attendance. It will be the social event of the season, and full particulars are given in the advertisement in another column.

Active Stocks.

Messrs. Peabody & Brooks have published a descriptive list of the New England, Railroad and Miscellaneous stocks, listed on the Boston stock exchange, which will be found very convenient by those interested in stocks. The firm are members of the Boston Stock Exchange, and as their advertisement in another column states, they will give prompt attention to orders by mail. Those who contemplate investments will find Peabody & Brooks a reliable firm to deal with.

The Woodcliff, at Fort Point, Stockton, Maine, is a charming place. It is pleasantly situated on a large estate on the Penobscot Bay, is very healthful in all its surroundings, which include beautiful grounds, pine groves, flower gardens, grassy lawns, and pleasant walks and drives. Every variety of amusement for persons of good taste is provided. The proprietor this year is Mr. E. S. Douglass, a capable, experienced and popular hotel man, who may be depended upon to make his guests comfortable and happy. Mr. Douglass may be seen until June 18th at 31 Milk street, Room 19.

NEWTON.

—Edwin F. Smallwood is enjoying his vacation of three weeks in the woods of Maine.

—Mr. S. A. D. Sheppard has been chosen one of the vice-presidents of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.

—Rev. Mr. Titus arrived home from Minneapolis, Minn., in time to preach last Sunday morning.

—The last meeting of the Tuesday Club for the season was held this week at Mr. Sawyer's, Chestnut Hill.

—Rev. George Batchelor will preach next Sunday morning at Channing church. There will be no evening service.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Greenough of Boston Highlands are spending a few weeks with her father, Dr. D. K. Hitchcock.

—Dr. Keith has returned from London, where he was called to attend Judge Gardiner, who is still in a very critical condition.

—The Independents of Brighton would like to arrange a game with any Newton team averaging 18 years. Address J. E. Hannigan, manager.

—Mrs. Timothy Jackson and Miss Jackson have removed from Mrs. Knowles' on Richardson street to Newton Highlands, where they will board at Mrs. Waitings.

—The Massachusetts Bicycle Club has voted to disband and give up its club house. Its finances have for some time been in a critical condition.

—The Appalachian Club go to New Hampshire the 17th and 18th, and will visit Dublin, Jaffrey, and Mt. Monadnock. A large number of Newton people will join the excursion.

—Mr. S. C. Smith has leased his house on Fairmount avenue for the summer, to Mr. Conant of Boston, and will spend July and August with his family at Old Orchard Beach.

—All of the members of the class of '90, Institute of Technology, who graduated from the Newton High School, received honors in their annual examinations. The records of some were unusually good.

—The Nonantum Cycle Club has called an all day run to Wayland for June 17th, and the program includes dinner at the Pequot House. On July 2 there will be a run to South Natick, leaving Newtonville at 3.30, and having supper at Bailey's.

—'Summer Evenings on Practical Questions,' a series of discourses, will be given by Dr. Calkins, every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in Eliot Hall. Next Sunday evening: "The Choice of Business or Profession."

—The Eliot Sunday school will celebrate its anniversary on Sunday morning, at which Rev. Dr. Calkins will make an address. Sunday evening Rev. Dr. Calkins will begin a series of practical discourses, on the subject, "The choice of a business profession."

—Rev. Dr. Calkins, Rev. Pleasant Hunter and the other Congregational ministers of Newton, together with members of the Suffolk West conference, were entertained Wednesday by Rev. Dr. Webb, at his pleasant residence in Wellesley.

—The High School Review for May is interesting. The final article on Mediaeval Literature is one of the most interesting of the series. "L. C." is heard from in Leipzig. The story and the Rime of the Modern Editor are well written and very enjoyable.

—William Swan, a carpenter employed by H. F. Ross, fell some 25 feet from a staging on L. B. Gay's new house on Franklin street this morning, and struck his head on a pile of brick. His head was badly cut and his right leg was bruised. Fortunately no bones were broken and his injuries are not considered dangerous. He was taken to his boarding place at Mrs. Nattings', and Dr. Field attended him.

—The Payson estate in Belmont is soon to be converted into house lots, and is now in the hands of the Payson Park Land Company, of which J. C. Elms of this city is one of the trustees. A large company of Boston capitalists visited it on Monday, among whom were Messrs. Geo. S. Bulfinch, Chas. E. Billings, N. W. Farley, E. C. Burage, F. G. Barnes and others of Newton.

—Mr. J. Francis Bothfield, formerly of this city, and a graduate of the High School, has taken the degree of C. B. in the Boston University School of medicine. This degree requires an average of 90 per cent for the course, and has not been taken before since 1872. Mr. Bothfield's average was the remarkable one of 96 per cent for the course. He will spend two years in hospital work in Boston, and then probably continue his studies in Europe.

—The last sociable of the season took place at the Baptist church Thursday evening. The twilight recital arranged by Mr. Gow took place in the early part of the evening and consisted of four-hand music, songs, after which there was a social hour, and strawberries and cream and cake were served. The last of the twilight recitals will be held next week, Thursday evening, in the auditorium of the church, at 7.30 o'clock.

—Children's Day will be observed one week from next Sunday, June 19th, at the Methodist church. Preaching in the morning by the pastor, and Sunday School concert in the evening will constitute the services, together with the regular session of the school. New music of unusual merit is being rehearsed, and the concert promises to be a good one. It will probably be at five o'clock in the afternoon, but notice will be given next week. The school is prospering, and has recently had the pleasure of adding quite a number to its members.

—The annual meeting of the Eliot Sunday School teachers was held Tuesday evening in the room regularly occupied by the primary department in Eliot Hall. A large number of the teachers were present. The report of the Treasurer, Mr. Byers, was read and accepted. Of the money remaining in the treasury, some was voted to the Pomeroy Home and some to the Young Ladies' Aid Society. F. L. Gay was appointed Librarian in the place of Edward Chase, who resigned. The following were appointed to constitute a committee A co-operate with the officers of the Sewing Circle in arranging for the June Festival, Mrs. Potter, Miss Robinson, H. E. Cobb, and Mr. Byers. The election of officers was postponed until January, in which month the annual meeting will hereafter be held.

—Mrs. S. A. D. Sheppard returned from attending the Baptist anniversaries at Minneapolis on Wednesday.

—Vice Grand Twichell of Waban Lodge has resigned and Mr. H. Eugene Fleming of West Newton has been elected to fill the vacancy.

—The Fete Champetre next Wednesday, in aid of the Country Week and Fresh Air Fund, will be a very pleasant affair, and many attractions are advertised.

—Mr. Orlando K. Foote, a prominent architect of Rochester, N. Y., is at Hotel Hunnewell with his bride, on a visit to Alderman and Mrs. Harwood.

—Alderman Harwood, Councilmen Chadwick and Burr of the Sewerage committee and City Engineer Noyes paid a visit to Chelsea last week, to inspect the admirable sewerage system of that city. They were hospitably shown about the city by the Chelsea officials.

—The Morse Field drainage problem seems likely to receive some attention from the city government. A plan was presented in the board of aldermen, Monday night, by Alderman Harwood, drawn up by the city engineer, by which the whole territory would be well drained. The plan is to have the authorities of Watertown act with those of this city, and the expense to Newton would be about $10,000. The matter has been laid on the table for further information. The people of that section certainly need relief, and the matter has already been delayed too long.

—Mr. Melvin I. Cox, baggage-master and American express agent at the Newton station, was married Wednesday afternoon to Miss Martha Wight of Dedham. In the evening a party of eleven of the friends of Mr. Cox went over to Dedham to attend an informal reception at the bride's home, and presented the bride and groom with two handsome easy chairs. The happy couple received a large number of presents, and have gone for a short wedding trip to Albany and down the Hudson.

—The Electric Light Company has put an exhibition light in the "square" at Watertown this week. The company has also made a proposition to furnish the streets of the town, agreeing to furnish the lights at the rate of 50 cents per night for each one, and 24-candle power incandescent lights, in place of the gas company's 16-candle lights, for the same price—$15 per annum. The right to locate the poles and wires, which has been given by the selectmen to D. J. Flanders, has been transferred by him, with the approval of the selectmen, to the Newton Electric Lighting and Power Company.

—A lady who has always taken a great interest in educational matters writes a private note to the GRAPHIC, in which she says: "I must say to you how thankful I am that through you we are able to have a paper in which subjects pertaining to the interest and good of the people can be made known. At last something has happened in the schools, which I know will arouse the mothers and sisters to a performance of their duties by which such errors can be prevented, namely: Be registered, pay their tax; contribute and vote for a school committee who will be true to the interests of teachers, parents and children. Will you do what you can to further this, as I know you see the need of it."

—The annual picnic of the Ladies' Psychological Institute of Boston was held at the residence of Mr. Charles Holmes on Channing street on Thursday. Quite a number of children were present, and the games and other amusements were evidently thoroughly enjoyed. The hospitable mansion was thrown open and an excellent collation served. Remarks were made by the president of the society, Dr. Helen B. Leary of Boston, and recitations were given by Mrs. Dora Bascom Smith and Miss May B. Cornack. Among those present was Mrs. John Hobbs, the only living charter member of the society, now in her 80th year. There were over 60 persons present.

—There was a very pretty wedding at the church of Our Lady Wednesday morning, when Miss Ray M. Harris was married to J. P. Cronin, proprietor of the Japan Tea Store of Watertown. A nuptial high mass was celebrated, and appropriate music was finely rendered by the choir. Rev. Father Dolan officiated, and some five hundred guests were present. Miss Annie Connor was bridesmaid and Mr. O'Rourke of Waltham was groomsmen. The bride wore a very handsome dress of soft white material, richly trimmed with lace, and a long tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by Paxton at the residence of John T. Burns on Pearl street, the rooms being handsomely decorated with flowers. About fifty of the intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. In the afternoon the happy couple left on a wedding trip to New York and Washington. On their return they will board in Watertown for a few weeks, until they can complete arrangements for buying a house in this city. They received a large number of presents, the groom's gift to the bride being a valuable gold watch and chain.

—Hon. John C. Park suffered a stroke of paralysis last Friday afternoon, and his condition has since excited serious anxiety, as from his advanced age it is feared that he will not recover. His mind remains as clear as ever, but his left side is paralyzed and he is only able to speak with difficulty. There have been many anxious inquiries during the week and his physician, Dr. Reed, has been besieged with questions. Judge Park has been one of the most popular citizens of Newton, and was as earnestly interested in all public questions as any of the younger citizens. He has always been ready to respond to demands made upon him, and in the public schools especially, he has many warm friends, as he always was interested in young people, and his pleasant talks to the pupils will be long remembered by those who heard them. His genial manner and great fund of anecdotes and reminiscences made him always a desirable guest at public gatherings, and he has a great number of warm friends who feel great sorrow over the news of his illness, and hope for his recovery. He is a citizen whom Newton can not easily spare. His long and honorable record at the bar, his uprightness of character, and his unusual ability, have given him a reputation of which any man could well feel proud.

—Mr. E. W. Converse accompanied the Boston Commercial Club on its trip to Chicago and the West.

—Just glance at Mr. Glines' advertisement to redeem one hundred club tickets a week at his Newton studio.

—The boom has fairly started with the Newton Lodge, A. O. U. W., and they are receiving a large number of applications at every meeting.

—The Newton Boat Club are to give a series of four orchestral concerts at the Club House, on June 11, and the three following Saturdays.

—Saturday the Newton Club take part in the Eastern road race over the Dorchester Club course. The Newton club team will be E. P. Burnham, C. F. Haven and Kike Corey. The races are to decide which club can make the best average time.

—There will be a meeting of the Newton Club next Monday evening, to elect the new members whose names have been proposed, and to transact other important business. The place of meeting is the Roberts mansion at Newtonville.

—The Baptist Sunday School will observe Children's Day by a service of song and recitations by the children next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. All who love the little ones will be interested. The exercise will be in charge of Mr. H. F. Bent, superintendent of the primary department.

—Mr. H. B. Wells and family have removed to Plainfield, N. J., one of the most delightful suburbs of New York City. Mr. John T. Wells, who has been in Europe attending to the buying of foreign goods for the well known crockery firm of Abram French & Co., of Boston, is expected home soon, and will occupy his brother's residence on Hunnewell avenue.

—At the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Sunday Mr. Tucker opened the exercises and spoke instructively upon the subject "Christ the Bread of Life." John vi. 35, drawing a lesson from the abundance provided for all. The theme called out many varied speakers, and good was derived from the meeting. Next Sunday the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society from the Eliot church will take entire charge of the meeting and a good time is looked for.

—We understand that arrangements have been completed for the performance of the Oratorio of "Emanuel," at the next Chataqua Assembly, to be held at Lake View, Framingham. The concert is to be given on Saturday, July 23d, at 2 p. m., by a chorus of 200 to 250 voices. Soloists and full orchestra, conducted by Prof. W. F. Sherwin. This will be a good opportunity to hear again this musical work, about which so much has been said and written, under very favorable circumstances, in one of the most lovely summer resorts in the state. The audiences at these gatherings number from 3000 to 5000 persons. We also understand that a contract has been signed by the largest music publishing house in the country, Messrs. Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, to publish the new Oratorio, and a new edition will appear on the market in the course of a few weeks. A large sale is predicted during the next musical season.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

ELIOT LODGE CELEBRATES ITS TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

On Monday evening Eliot Lodge, 638, K. of H., celebrated its tenth anniversary at its lodge room in Newtonville. A large company were present, fully half of whom were ladies, and a very pleasant program was prepared for this entertainment. Mr. J. P. Cobb was down for three songs, but he was encoored each time, and his humorous sketches kept the audience convulsed with laughter. Mr. Cobb can make his face as expressive as Sol Smith Russell's, and his fine voice lends itself readily to any sentiment he undertakes to express. Miss Addie Evans of Malden, a very graceful young lady with a finely cultivated voice, was also down for three selections, and her readings were so excellent that more were demanded. Her selections were fresh and varied and charmed the audience. Miss Gertrude Harris Cook gave two songs and received an encore each time, at which she sang some ballads in an exquisite manner. Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich accompanied the singers on the piano. Mr. E. Granville Pratt, Grand Dictator of the grand lodge of Massachusetts, gave a short address, in which he dwelt upon the remarkable growth of the order, the good it had done in distributing some $20,000,000 in death benefits, since its formation 14 years ago, and the excellent work it was doing in a social way, which is one of its chief features. After the program was finished refreshments were served in the banquet hall, at which every seat was filled. At the close of the supper Mr. A. S. Bryant was called upon for a speech and responded by giving a humorous song in which he brought in the name of every member of the lodge, with some good natured hits that were fully appreciated.

The Craigen-Putnam Theatricals.

The appearance of Miss Maida Craigen and Mr. Boyd Putnam at City Hall, West Newton, next Tuesday evening, will not only be a dramatic treat, but also a social event. Miss Craigen and Mr. Putnam have been among the favorites this season at the Boston Museum, and the desire to see them as stars will bring out a number of society people from Boston, as several theatre parties have already been arranged. A most interesting program is advertised.

Over 1,000,000 copies of Rev. E. P. Roe's novel have been sold, proving him to be the most popular American novelist of to-day. His latest and greatest story, "The Earth Trembled," a romance of the rebellion, will begin in the next Boston Sunday Globe, and everybody will read it.

Sale at Newtonville.

The former residence of Dr. Jones, Newtonville, will be sold at auction next Thursday, by S. K. Knights & Co. Particulars can be learned of J. C. Foster, real estate agent, Newtonville.

City Government.

The board of Aldermen met Monday evening, Aldermen Harwood, Johnson, Nickerson, Pettie, Grant and Hollis being present, Mayor Kimball presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Business from the Common Council was disposed of in concurrence.

The list of jurors for the year 1887-8 was received and ordered printed and posted, after which it will be revised by the Council. The list is made up of 31 jurors from each ward.

D. L. Furber and 30 others asked for a gravel sidewalk on Cedar and Mill streets, stating that this was a thoroughfare for a large number of the High School pupils; referred to the Highway Committee.

The report of the school board committee on ventilation of the High School building, detailing what had been done there, and asking for money to put in ventilators in other school buildings during the summer, was received and referred to the committee on public property.

H. L. Brown and 14 other residents of Ward 3 asked for a fire alarm signal box on Webster Park; referred to the fire committee.

A communication was received from Mrs. Ida H. Blaisdell, complaining of the unlawful use of her land by the city for drainage, and asking for the payment of $131, as compensation for damages. The land has been so used since last November, and is situated on Homer and Cedar streets; referred to the Highway Committee.

Grauville Fuller asked for concrete sidewalks in front of his property on Boyd street, promising to pay one half the cost; referred to the street committee.

Alderman Grant read a petition for the establishment of public bath houses, and asking that a sum be appropriated for that purpose. It was signed by D. C. Heath, Ex-Governor, Clann, A. E. Upton, F. A. Jewson and about 50 other prominent citizens; referred to the public property committee.

Alderman Harwood read the report of the special committee on the Mayor's Message, endorsing its recommendations, and recommending that that portion, referring to an amendment making the terms of service two years instead of one be referred to a special committee. The public play ground plan was heartily endorsed, and that for public bathing houses was referred to the Board of Health.

The recommendations for having names painted on the school houses; for laying out the street leading to the Lower Falls Foot bridge as a public way; for high service in the water department; for incandescent lights at City Hall; in regard to the city farm, etc., were referred to appropriate committees.

Alderman Nickerson reported from the Highway Committee, that the Newton Street Railway had declined to accept the conditions submitted by the committee.

Alderman Hollis moved that the report lay on the table till the next meeting of the board, June 20, and that 8 o'clock on that date be set for the consideration of this subject. Alderman Pettie endorsed this motion, as he said a number of the members were not present at the hearings last fall, and therefore might not understand the matter. The motion passed.

Alderman Nickerson submitted a communication from the Highway Committee, recommending that when any person petitioned for numbers on their dwellings or stores, the city engineer be authorized to furnish them, and the owner be required to put them up, the figures to be of such size as to be plainly seen and not less than 2 inches in length. The general plan of numbering to begin at the east and north ends of any street, the even numbers on the right and odd numbers on the left, and allowing 25 feet to each number.

The contracts with the Electric Light and Gas Companies for the coming year were submitted and filed.

STREET LIGHTS.

The committee on street lights presented a report on the petitions for street lights they had received, giving unsuccessful applicants leave to withdraw, and ordering the following lights: One cluster gas lamp on Park street opposite Tremont, and one cluster gas lamp on the West end of Washington Park, Ward 2, both to take the place of a single light; one gas lamp on Trowbridge avenue, Ward 2; one on Rice street, and one on Prospect street, Ward 3, opposite Mrs. Van Vuree's; 3 oil lamps on Crescent street, and 3 on West street, Ward 1; 1 on Oliver, opposite East street; one on Cottage place; one on is accepted street, off River street; 2 on Freeman street, 4 on Grove street, and 5 on Fuller street, Ward 4; one on Beacon, between Chestnut street and the Railroad bridge; 3 on S. outh street, Cold Spring village, Ward 6; one on Rice, and one corner Knowles and Ripley streets, Ward 6.

FOURTH OF JULY.

An order was passed granting permission to all parties to use fireworks on their own premises, during the day and evening of July 4th, and authorizing the granting of licenses to responsible parties to sell fireworks from now to July 5th.

An order was passed authorizing the mayor to have the flags displayed on all public buildings, July 4th, and have the bells rung in the several wards, for one-half hour at sunrise, noon and sunset, July 4th.

An order was also passed authorizing the mayor to close City Hall on June 17th, and have the national colors displayed from the public buildings of the city.

A petition was received from John Stetson and four others, asking that the grading and paving of gutters, on Park street, Ward 7, be continued from opposite the Higelow school, where it was left several years ago, to Church street; referred to the highway committee.

An order was passed requesting the committee on ordinances to consider the feasibility of reporting an ordinance, creating the office of city forester and superintendent of street lights.

The bond of M. C. Laffie as private detective, referred to the finance committee, was reported back and accepted.

An order was passed appropriating $1,500 for the reconstruction of a portion of Pembroke street, Ward 7.

The water board was authorized to expend $700 in enlarging the stable at the pipe yard.

The petition for a fire alarm signal near the corner of Beacon and Centre streets was accepted, and a signal was recommended to be placed next year on Hose House No. 5, Anundale. The signal at the Superior Wax Paper company's factory, Upper Falls, has been erected there by private parties.

The order that the highway committee be authorized to co-operate with the authorities of Watertown, in constructing a system of drainage for Morse Field, as per plans of city engineer, and appropriating $11,300 for the same, to be charged to the taxes of 1888, was laid on the table till the next meeting.

The order authorizing the water board to lay 2,750 feet of 8-inch water main on Grove street, without a guarantee, to serve as an auxiliary supply for Lower Falls, the expense not to be over $3,327, was passed unanimously.

Rev. Martin O'Brien was granted a license to build a private stable on Chestnut street, Ward 5.

Margaret McGrouty was granted a license to erect a wood building on Washington street, Ward 2, for stores and stables, 40 by 80 feet.

F. A. Smith of Cambridge was granted a permit to sell oleomargarine, and P. Quinn a license to deal in junk.

Martina Johnson of West Newton was granted a license to keep an intelligence office.

C. H. Graves gave notice of his intention to erect a dwelling house on Hovey street, Ward 1, 39 by 53 feet.

G. Wilkins Shaw was granted a drug-gist's license to sell liquor.

That Tired Feeling

Season is here again, and nearly every one feels weak, languid and exhausted. The blood, laden with impurities which have been accumulating for months, moves sluggishly through the veins, the mind fails to think quickly, and the body is still slower to respond. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just what is needed. It is, in a peculiar sense, the ideal spring medicine. It purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, makes the blood clear, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling, and imparts new strength and vigor to the whole body.

What! You don't mean to tell me, Keeping house? I didn't think he had money enough for that. What's that? Oh! yes, yes, instalments, I suppose. Where did you say? Atkinson & Co.'s. Oh yes; they are at 827 Washington street, Boston. I'm going to look at their stock myself.

Do not take quinine for malarial disorders. Ayer's Agree Cures contains none, nor any other injurious ingredient. This preparation, if taken strictly in accordance with directions, is warranted to cure all malarial diseases.

EDUCATION AND THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL.

At first thought every past member of the High School must regret and sympathize with its present difficulties and troubles. At second thought we may be glad that the way has been thereby opened for a needed reform.

Good is good all the world over. In its best sense beauty is but good in a higher state of development toward the perfect. Modern students of aesthetics have formulated the definition that beauty is a unity of variety. Beauty also is beauty all the world over, and in every case the definition fits. It fits in our High School. The beauty of a school lies in its being a unity of varieties, in its being a whole, every part fitting in to every other part, every energy at work for the good of the whole, every person and every department fulfilling his function; and in its making of its pupils individuals, each with his own strong special character, developed by a wise course of training suitable to his special nature. Educators do not wish to turn machine-made articles, all alike, out of any school. "If the unity can be preserved, the beauty is intensified by more and more variety."

In 1832 there was very little class or school feeling among the pupils of the N. H. S. The Head Master's discipline had been considered very severe. He had perhaps not fully adapted himself to the school. Every child is different from every other, and needs a different training. It follows that it is so with schools. Schools have their individual tendencies and influences as well as do children, and each has to be ruled in a somewhat different way. It is some time before a stranger can wisely train a child. It is logical that it should be the same in a school. It is a fact that no one will dispute that the loyal feeling in the High School at present is intense. School loyalty is a good thing until it is carried too far. Perhaps it is in danger of being carried too far in this school, if so, it should be considered. For the present, it is a fact, and how did it come about? Several influences were at work. The Head Master, as he understood the school better, was growing more and more popular. Pupils who have a common feeling of respect for the man who has the most power in a school become united. There was more social intercourse outside of school between some of the pupils. Social intercourse in a school can be carried too far; but there was not enough then to be harmful, and it did its work in creating school feeling. In 1885 appeared the two session plan. It will not be discussed in detail here. It is, however, a fact that the school feeling was then sufficient to unite the boys of all the classes into an organized body to oppose it. They had the sympathy and good-will of the girls. The plan failed to obtain support and did not go into operation. How much the boys did to defeat it, does not bear upon this subject; but it resulted in making the school, as far as the Head Master and scholars were concerned, a whole in feeling. Opposition has always done this in history. What made the English a united people, instead of so many Normans and so many Saxons, was having a common enemy in the French. Other events have aided in strengthening school feeling, and in bringing it to its present state. They are so recent that the effects must be familiar to all. The calisthenic drill was one event; the controversy about military drill another. The feeling has reached its height with the action of the school committee in regard to retaining the services of Mr. Cutler as Head Master.

I have intimated that the opposition of committee, parents and pupils to the two session plan had to fight an enemy of school good. We wish to think that those who supported that plan acted from the most honest motives, and were simply mistaken, from a failure to see what was best for the school, and a lack of knowledge as to modern methods of education and philosophy. The two session plan strikes at the basis of school good, inasmuch as it is a death-blow to unity. Any one can make the application. The pupils who oppose it could not have argued it, perhaps, but they felt instinctively that it was an evil, that it was an evil that affected them, and they opposed it. Who will deny their right?

This trouble at the High School has brought matters to a pass, where the policy of the committee must be examined by the citizens. I have pointed out the fallacy in the two session plan. It did not pass the committee but it can be ascertained what members favored it, what is their present policy and whether their authority as an argument in the recent decision is unshadowed and undoubted. Another minor matter must be again recalled to mind—for straws sometimes show the direction of the wind. That is the attempt to curtail the freedom of the Review editors, introduced into the committee, I think, by Mr. Philbrick. The last statement is open to correction. It is unnecessary to say that that strikes at the foundation of Democratic principles, and would be a harmful idea to inculcate in the minds of boys who are supposed to be training for citizens of the United States. Neither is it necessary to follow the moral drift of such an idea. Any person can see that it is a mistaken one.

The only members of the committee who can judge of the state of the school from constant personal observation, from 1882 to 1887, are Mayor Kimball, Dr. Shinn, and Mr. Fisher Ames. This is chiefly because they have entered into the interests and life of the school, heartily and wisely; and this can be proved, inasmuch as they were the only members who were known by sight by the majority of the scholars. During the past year, it is said, this has been changed, that especially in November several other members were frequent visitors, notably Mr. Barton and Mr. Philbrick. Once a year or thereabouts the committee in a body spend about four minutes in each room. It was impossible, however, for all to know and remember who was who. There are several members whose very slight connections have been most pleasant, and whom many pupils have wished would take more interest in High School matters. I have detailed this that the citizens may understand that the majority of the committee came to their decision upon second-hand information.

The reasons for the decision have not been officially made public. Competent authority has given three, two of which are, if true, nonsensical reasons; the other in a measure, contains a true statement of the state of the school, and will lead directly to the real cause of the growing evils in the school. I refer to the charge of poor discipline.

Public school education has two principal aims, moral training and intellectual training. As the demand increases for practical education, a third branch is being added to these, industrial training.

Moral training is discipline. Wise educators—Miss Alice E. Freeman is one—will say that the basal necessity of discipline is respect. The gentleman visitor who peruses the wrong page in Herodotus and looks intelligently first at the pupil translating and then at the text, does not gain the respect of pupils or teacher, not because he cannot read Greek—there are other ways of disciplining the mind besides Greek study—but because he is not honest enough to say so. The teacher who cannot gain the respect of his pupils as a man, can have no right to be in authority. Children are often good judges of character because their instincts are pure. The man who lets his physics or chemistry class behave with marked disorder for the first portion of a term, even encourages them by a bright, witty saying quite often, and then on a morning when he is not feeling very well, descends upon the whole class, telling them they know it is a rule of the school never to whisper, and excludes half of them from further recitation till they apologize, does not gain any respect by so doing. It is a notorious fact among High School pupils that this has been the case, not only once, but several times in classes of the sub-master, and yet it seems to be unknown to Mr. Philbrick. The teacher who tells a boy after some disobedience that the matter is settled, and he will say nothing about it, and goes directly to the Head Master and demands that it be reported to the boy's parents, and after making several appointments with them, fails to keep any of them, loses the respect of the boy, the teacher and parent. A Head Master's position in such cases is not an enviable one, especially if the sub-master is "the only person in the High School who has the courage to open his mouth against anarchy," and has shown in many little ways that he is opposed to his superior. Mr. Cutler, with his profound insight into character, and with the justice that does not always condemn the pupil as necessarily wrong, has in these cases and many others shown the greatest tact. Mr. Cutler's discretion is perfect. Any member of his senior classes who have known the circumstances can witness it. This one of the secrets of the poor discipline in the High School. There is another which, I am sorry to say, is due to the girls in the lower classes who, puffed up considerably by their advance in life, not only encourage little acts of impoliteness and disorder toward lower teachers—who are perhaps near-sighted and more occupied with the lesson than their pupils—but tell of the silly acts at home as a bright or cute thing, thereby influencing parents and citizens who do not know the school intimately. The girls or boys get over this in a short time; but it is quite a fever while it lasts, as, having been one of the foolish girls in the fourth class, I have reason to know. A third secret (?) is a more important cause of disorder than may seem at first glance. That is the lack of a sufficient recreation ground. This can best be illustrated by a particular case.

It is a beautiful day in May. Recess, spent in promenading the streets, is just over. Every one feels that it is rather too bad to be cooped up in an ill-lighted, ill-ventilated room with a hundred scholars, and to have to recite on one of the driest of Bacon's essays. The teacher is a fine English teacher, but she dislikes excessively to be obliged to interrupt her recitation to stop disorder on the back seat. Now put yourself in the place of the teacher and judge if the following action is not provoking. Every boy member of the class is particularly interested in a place on the ceiling. A boy recites and for a moment pays attention to his book, but as he finishes up go his eyes toward the same spot. You look cautiously, but can see nothing; you take off your glasses and wipe them and then look, and the school is amused, for after all that is just what they wanted you to do, for there was nothing there in the first place. If any one does not see the fun, and doesn't think that it takes energy to look at one spot in the ceiling for half an hour, let him try it. I am far from upholding such an act of impoliteness, but some of that superfluous energy might have been exercised at recess, and the blame for such a scene does not lie wholly with pupils or teacher. I also believe that this is a fair example of the worst discipline in Miss Rich's classes.

Any wise educator or thoughtful person will say that there are two kinds of teachers who have a right to teach; one, the born teacher who will teach anything well, and the other the specialist who knows more of his subject than his fellows. The specialist may or may not be a good disciplinarian, may not be able to teach practically the principles of moral philosophy. That is the one fault liable in a special education, that it does not tend to develop the mind most systematically, every power alike. There is room and work for all good teachers. The greatest teacher is the born teacher who is the fine scholar at the same time. Miss Caroline Spear is such a teacher. Mr. Cutler, with his rare scholarship, is another. Any unprejudiced member of the committee, citizen or who cares to investigate the matter, will find that this is the truth. Any thoughtful graduate or under-graduate of the school, of the last five years, will agree with me.

Miss Evelyn Rich is a superior teacher in English, the only (regular) superior English teacher in the school—in her line she is a specialist. But she has not a talent for governing 50 scholars, in a miserable atmosphere, at one time, other than making them interested in their study—which they have learned to dislike in lower classes,—and in gaining the respect due to a woman of a true character from every scholar. The committee will pardon us who, as seniors, have so often had her help and advice, and have been met half way, and heartily, if we think they have made a second mistake in not reappointing her to the position.

The great object of intellectual training is to obtain original thinking from the pupil. How many scholars in the High School like original problems in Geometry? How many like to write compositions? If the majority do not, the teaching is at fault. The whole tendency of the century is for every man to progress by his own thinking. In that lies the only possible solution of the labor question. It is in every movement. The atmosphere is full of it. The very children have caught it. In the High School, this energy should be applied to lessons, that is a function of a school. If the teaching is poor, this is no done. What is the result in the Newton High School to-day? The answer is very clear. Undue prominence given to Military Drill by the students because there is an opportunity to plan; an unusual impetus given to social life,—there is always opportunity for original work there with a certain class of students, as of parents; the formation of a school paper, with which other papers from schools of the same grade cannot be compared, a paper which has even troubled members of the school committee; and the rise of a school lyceum of the highest order. Energy in boys and girls is a good thing. It is the duty of parents, of committee, of teachers, to wisely direct it.

Citizens cannot reform the school by striking at the drill, or the social life, or the paper, any more than a tree can be destroyed by cutting off some of the branches. You must dig at the roots.

Students of the High School have always stood among the first rank in college or in the Technology. The college course in Newton is excellent; it is under Mr. Cutler's personal direction. I am far from saying that the other departments are so poor that a boy with an object in view, cannot go into the Technology or any other school well prepared. It hurts any member of my class of '80, to have to say one word of faultfinding with "our" school. Some of us are attached to even the apparent weaknesses, like the atmosphere of Mr. Davis's room, and the newest old Gazetteer published some twenty years back. It will seem unnatural to us to have it all changed. The majority of the school committee have decided on the question of retaining Mr. Cutler as Head Master, without personal knowledge, and on second-hand information. It is not for me to judge further. The premises are supplied, let Newton intelligence deduce the conclusion. I have wished to establish three propositions; one, that there is need for a reform in the High School, another, that the committee's action toward that reform has been so far unwise, and last, that the truest test of a master's character and ability lies in the opinions and affections of his pupils and the alumni.

One of the most sensible reasons for reform in the school, notwithstanding some of its unmy aspects, was given by a West Newton gentleman, who had never had a child in the school, and knew nothing about it personally—who said that he objected to the boys of Newton "running the High School," and that he didn't see why the citizens didn't elect them as committee, and be done with it. That hits the nail right on the head. The parents and the committee should be acquainted with the school, the boys ought to be getting their lessons. But consider the situation, and then let us say that, if the boys are in the right and the committee in the wrong, the right shouldn't run the school?

I would apologize for the questionable taste of expressing opinions on this subject, which is undoubtedly the province of the school committee; I would apologize to the parent who thinks that it is not for boys and girls "to criticize or suggest improvements in the conduct of the school system," except that this matter has gone beyond the question of taste. The committee should have thought of that in taking at least a polite notice of the "partisan" meeting and its results. Loyalty, like good, is always made out of the same stuff. Loyalty to one's country strikes the keynote of Decoration Day. Will boys who are intensely loyal to a living issue, fail in their loyalty to their country, should a vital need arise? Proper regard and respect, like all other regards in the world, must be based on worth.

There has been no reason given for Mr. Cutler's dismissal. Politeness never derogates from dignity. At the same time that this is true, the pupils of the High School and the citizens must not forget the gratitude they owe to the good sense of those committee members who opposed the two session plan, who were just in the matter of military drill, and I have heard that Mr. Barton was one, who have done the best that they could to secure the much needed new High School building. But the question of Head Master as it stands, is not one of "personal opinions," it is a question of right and wrong. Many times in history the instincts of the nation have proved better than the knowledge of statesmen.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar curative powers. No other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other instead. It is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

AN INSIDE VIEW.

The High School question continues to be the most exciting topic of conversation, and it is surprising to find how little support the majority of the committee receive from citizens who have had children at the High School in recent years, or who have any personal knowledge of the school.

In order to show the situation from the standpoint of those who have been through the school, and who have since been able to compare its excellences and defects with schools of a higher grade, we give in this issue a rather long but extremely well-written and thoughtful paper from Miss Cora L. Stewart, who graduated last year and is now a pupil of Wellesley College. The writer has evidently made a not entirely unsuccessful effort to be fair and impartial, and to treat all parties in the contest without prejudice. The article deserves a careful reading by all who are interested in our High School.

Among the many excellent points made by the writer is this, which should be borne in mind by those who wish to fairly understand the situation: "The only members of the committee who can judge of the state of the school from constant personal observation are Mayor Kimball, Dr. Shinn, and Mr. Fisher Ames." "Until the present year, they were the only members who were known by sight to the majority of the scholars." It is very significant that these three gentlemen voted for the retention of Mr. Cutler, while the majority of the committee, who knew nothing of the school except what they learned from "second hand information," voted against him, but have so far failed to give any explanation of their action. One of them when asked to do so, replied that it would do no good. "The public were too prejudiced and heated." We are sorry that the majority of the committee entertain such a low opinion of the Newton public.

THE course of certain Boston papers in regard to the West End Land company does not offer much encouragement to capitalists, who desire to build up and develop the resources of their own city. Here is a company whose stock-holders are gentlemen of the highest respectability and character, and who see or think they see an opportunity to benefit both the public and themselves by improvements on the most liberal scale. When any reasonable objection is made to any details of their project, they have shown the most perfect willingness to alter it, and yet certain papers treat them as robbers and pirates, and exhaust all the arts of the demagogue to stir up public prejudice against them. No one denies that the street railway system of Boston is one of the worst in the world, that at certain hours of the day the delays of cars are such that hours are spent in going from one point to another, when minutes ought to suffice, and yet when a company with abundant capital proposes to solve the problem of rapid transit, it is treated as though it had been guilty of every crime in the decalogue. The West End Land company may not be an entirely philanthropic scheme, but it should be given fair treatment.

THE BOSTON HERALD says that the cause of public education would be greatly benefited if every intelligent parent would make it a rule to visit the schools in which he has children and make the acquaintance of the teachers. There is no doubt of this, and it should be the duty of the parent to make such visits and become acquainted with the merits and demerits of the schools. They are then able to talk intelligently of the school and of the teachers, and are not obliged to take their information at second hand. People who find the most fault with our public school system and its details, are apt to be those who have never been inside of a school building since their school-days, and who do not even know the teachers by sight. It is very easy for such people to be mistaken, to put the case as mildly as possible.

ITEMIZED bills of official entertainment and junketing committees ought to be prohibited by law, as they always lead to trouble. As long as the citizens of Boston only knew in a general way of the great sum of money expended in entertaining Queen Kapiolani, they could endure it with resignation, but the publication of the specific sums spent for roses, champagne and other luxuries has caused no end of fuming. Things were carried to such a ridiculous extent that the whole country is laughing at the revelations made. Boston, under its present city government, is a great place for visitors who want to enjoy a high old time at the public expense.

MESSRS. WOOD AND WALWORTH both voted against the salary grab bill, which was defeated in the House of Representatives on Tuesday.

THERE is considerable surprise that the soldiers' exemption bill secured such a large majority, especially as the veterans themselves have not asked for such a violation of all the principles of civil service reform. It is urged forward solely by those who wish to make themselves "solid" with the soldier vote. The old soldiers are not to be bought so cheaply, however, as the politicians will find out in case Gov. Ames does not interpose a veto.

NEWTON is credited with 986 persons ten years of age and over who can neither read nor write. In the whole state the number is 121,572. Here is quite a field for educational societies.

Band Concerts.

The Newton City Band will give a band concert next Wednesday evening, June 15th, on the vacant lot in the rear of the Methodist church, Newtonville, which has been kindly offered to them for the purpose by Mr. Bridgman. It is proposed by Newtonville people to buy this land, and after laying it out as a park, present it to the city. The concert will be a sort of dedication of the project, and the music will probably attract a large number of citizens to the vicinity. The band has made remarkable progress in a musical way, and deserves to be encouraged; it would be an excellent plan to get up a popular subscription and have band concerts during summer in the different wards, and it is hoped arrangements will be made whereby Newton people can enjoy band concerts without having to go out of town. A little effort in this way would add much to the attractions of the city during the summer. Newton Centre has already set a worthy example by engaging the band for an afternoon and evening concert on the Fourth of July.

Field Day to Marblehead Neck.

It is proposed by the Newton Natural History Society to hold a Field Day to Marblehead Neck on Saturday, June 18th. The start will be from the depot of the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine Railroad, Causeway street, at 8.30 a. m. The return will be on the train that leaves Marblehead at 4.55 p. m. Should the 18th prove stormy the excursion will take place the following Saturday, June 25. If the number on this excursion exceeds one hundred the railroad authorities will give a special train in the morning at 9.05. This, however, is contingent upon one hundred or more notifying Dr. J. F. Frisbie, by Thursday, June 16th, of their intention to go. Tickets for the round trip from Boston to Marblehead and return fifty cents. Being an all day excursion lunch will be taken. Any one wishing to accompany the society is cordially invited to do so. Applications for tickets should be made to Dr. J. F. Frisbie as early as possible to ensure complete arrangements for the trip.

Christ Before Pilate.

Munkacsy's great painting "Christ Before Pilate," is now on exhibition in the Cultural Hall, Boston, and was painted by the distinguished Hungarian artist, Michael de Munkacsy, in 1880 and 81. The canvas, exclusive of the frame, measures 14 x 21 feet, and contains thirty-eight life size figures. It illustrates the moment when Christ stood before Pilate and the latter asked Him, "Art thou the King of the Jews?" The picture has been exhibited in Paris, London, Vienna, Berlin, Stockholm, Budapest, Amsterdam, Brussels, Liverpool, Manchester, and other European cities, where it was visited by over two millions of persons. It was brought to America last year and placed on exhibition at the Twenty-third Street Tabernacle, New York, Nov. 17. The exhibition closed May 31, and during these six and a half months nearly two hundred thousand persons went to see the painting. It has been characterized "the most impressive religious picture ever painted."

Two Excursions to the Yellowstone National Park.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's announcement of two excursions to the Yellowstone National Park should attract the attention of summer tourists. A liberal allowance of time for rest and recreation, a certainty of pleasant companionship, and an entire freedom from the ordinary cares and annoyances of traveling serve to render these trips especially inviting. The tour of the park will be very thorough and twice the usual length of time will be devoted to all the great centers of attraction, including the Mammoth Hot Springs, the Falls and Grand Canon of the Yellowstone, Yellowstone Lake, and the Norris, Lower and Upper Geyser Basins. The journey will take the traveler over the picturesque Northern Pacific railroad for upwards of 1,000 miles, and through other interesting sections of the great northwest. Send to W. Raymond, 236 Washington street (opposite School street) Boston, for a descriptive circular.

—Children's Sunday is to be celebrated in the Universalist church June 19.

—The Rev. Pleasant Hunter has rented the Loring place on Central avenue.

—Mr. Arthur W. Carter sailed for home on Wednesday, on the City of Rome.

—Miss Susie Dickinson has been spending a few days in Williamstown, Mass.

—Miss Mary Hackett has been spending week with Mrs. M. G. Davis in Westboro.

—Mr. H. B. Parker's family go to their cottage at Nantasket next week for the summer.

—Miss Fanny Page has had a week's outing, but is back again in her place at Mr. Sullivan's.

—Mrs. James L. Richards has gone to Springfield, Mass., to her father's home, for a month or more.

—Messrs. E. Smead and J. E. Allen have placed over 1,200 loads of loam on their land on Central avenue.

—Dame Rumor says that Mr. A. P. Curtis and Miss Lillian Lancy are to be married the 30th of this month.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gaudelet and two children are spending a few days at the Mountain House, Princeton, Mass.

—Mr. R. C. Bridgman sails to-day (Friday), on the Umbria from New York, to spend a few weeks in England.

—Information is wanted of Mrs. Mary Mansfield, who is said to have lived in this village at one time. See advertisement.

—Mr. W. H. Mendell has bought of Mr. Stover the place on Washington Park, which he has occupied for several years.

—Mrs. Charles T. Pulsifer and daughter are to sail for Europe July 9, from New York, to be gone a year and a half or more.

—Mr. H. B. Parker is enjoying the unconventionalities of camp life with the first brigade at South Framingham this week.

—Mr. Joseph W. Stover has recently bought quite a large piece of land, upon which are several cottages, at York, Maine.

—Tickets for the High School reunion can be had of Miss Ellen S. Tewksbury of this ward, who is one of the executive committee.

—Dahousie Lodge, F. & A. M., held its annual meeting, Wednesday evening, and the former officers were reelected for another term.

—Mr. Smead and family have vacated their house, which is rented by Mr. Fitzgerald, and at present will board with Mrs. Joseph Bird.

—One of our distinguished Newtonville gentlemen has composed a march dedicated to Gethsemane Commandery, which is soon to be published.

—Mrs. G. W. Pope, Jr., who lost a valuable watch about a week ago, was fortunate enough to find it through Mr. Patrick of West Newton.

—At the last meeting of the Ladies Society of the M. E. church, it was voted to hold a fair next fall on the 30th of Nov. and 1st and 2d of Dec.

—Mr. John Beals has finished off a handsome dining room in one of the stores in his new block, which will accommodate a large number of people.

—The Guild meetings are over for the season. The meeting of the executive committee was held this afternoon at Mrs. L. R. Thayer's on Court street.

—Next Sunday will be observed as children's Sunday at the Central Congregational church. Special preparations have been made for the floral concert at 6:30 o'clock.

—The Rev. G. L. Butters and Rev. Pleasant Hunter, Jr., were the guests of Mr. William Claffin and the senior class of Wellesley on their trip to Plymouth, on Monday.

—Some fifteen young ladies had a very jolly hayrack ride Tuesday evening; they procured the turn-out from J. T. Hill's stables, and after driving about the city visited Waltham.

—Mr. Charles T. Pulsifer sailed from New York on Wednesday for Liverpool, on one of the Bremen steamers. He will be absent until September, making the trip for pleasure and his health.

—Mrs. D. S. Simpson entertained the Martha Washington club of Boston on Tuesday afternoon and evening at her home on Newtonville avenue. About 45 of the club were present, and genial hospitality and good cheer made the occasion a pleasant one.

—A number of small boys were arrested and tried in the police court on Thursday, for thefts from a barn on Washington Park, where Mrs. Norton has a quantity of household goods stored. One of the boys was discharged and three had their cases continued during their good behavior.

—Mention was made last week of the fact that the citizens of Ward Two were considering the plan of buying the land opposite the station and adjoining the Methodist church for a public park. The plan is meeting with great favor and a meeting will be held next Wednesday evening in the parlors of the New Church chapel on Highland avenue, to devise ways and means. It is hoped that success will crown their enterprise.

—The troubles of the High School Battalion are not yet over, it appears. Mr. Brown, the military instructor, was not satisfied with the apology drawn up by the school authorities and demanded a personal apology from the officers, under penalty of reducing them to the ranks. Two of them were too high-spirited to submit, and Mr. Brown reduced them to the ranks, a proceeding which has caused considerable comment, as his authority for taking such action is disputed. The matter is to come up before the High School committee this (Friday) evening, and it is said that the parents have engaged counsel to represent the degraded officials. The whole affair is very unfortunate both for the battalion and the instructor, and all trouble might have been avoided by the exercise of a little tact.

WEST NEWTON.

—Mr. Edward Fleming of Waltham street is quite ill.

—Mr. Frank W. Wise is building a handsome new house on Prince street.

—The wedding of Mr. John Avery and Miss Peabody is announced for Wednesday, June 15th.

—Dr. Thayer has bought a part of the McCullough estate, and contemplates building thereon.

—Mrs. Fred. Garry of Yonkers, N. Y., formerly of this place, is visiting her friends here.

—Mayor Kimball has so far recovered that he is able to resume his official duties at the City Hall.

—Mr. Josiah Bacon of Prospect street starts soon to enjoy six week's salmon fishing in Canada.

—Rev. O. D. Kimball officiated at the Ritchie-Chamberlain wedding in Roxbury, Wednesday evening.

—Ex-Alderman Seccomb has nearly recovered from his recent severe illness, and is able to be out again.

—Miss Craigen and Mr. Putnam will be the guests of Mr. Wm. F. Lawrence during their engagement at City Hall.

—The concrete walk which has been laid on the westerly side of Putnam street, is a great improvement to that street.

—Mr. Henry H. Mather of Auburndale, associate justice, is taking Judge Park's place in the police court during his illness.

—Mr. Sumner Robinson of Chestnut street took the second prize for juniors in the prize drill declamations at Tufts College this week.

—Mary Pendergast's case came up in the police court last Saturday, for the illegal sale of liquor, and as evidence was lacking she was discharged.

—Severance Burrage and Arthur Howland of the High School, passed the Technology examinations without conditions, and the five pupils of the Allen School who applied, also passed without conditions.

—The delegates from this place to the South Middlesex Unitarian Conference held at Framingham Wednesday, were Mr. and Mrs. George Homer, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Tolman.

—The Improvement Society has planted a large number of maples along River street from Elms to Lexington street, greatly improving the appearance of the street, as it hitherto has been very bare of trees.

—James F. Perry, a colored man, was masquerading as a policeman near the Woodland Park Hotel last Saturday night, displaying a base ball badge and threatening to shoot two couples whom he met, and whom he pursued for some distance with a revolver in his hands. He was arrested, and in the police court on Wednesday his case was adjourned for a week.

—The annual picnic of the Women's Educational club will be held in Leland's Grove, Farm Pond, Sherborn, next Thursday. The trip will be made in barges, and the club will stop at Natick to visit the Indian Museum and Natural History rooms, and on the return trip will stop at Hunsell's to view the Rhododendrons. At the grove a short account of Eliot and his work among the Indians will be given.

—Judge Park, we are sorry to learn, had a paralytic shock last week and still lies quite feeble. Fears are entertained that he will not resume his official duties again. His sister-in-law, Mrs. John Bliss, who was stricken with the same disease several months since, passed away last Sunday. Her funeral was attended Tuesday, June 7th, Rev. Mr. Jaynes reading the scripture, and Rev. Mr. Tiffany making the prayer. She was a woman in active life and leaves a large circle of friends and acquaintances to mourn her loss.

—The adjourned meeting of the Unitarian church was held Monday evening last, a large number being in attendance. The requisite amount for the enlargement of the church edifice being obtained, it was unanimously voted to go ahead. The seating capacity will be increased by fifty additional pews; also a ladies' parlor added to the present one, to give accommodation to the sewing circle and teachers' meeting, to be built exclusively by the ladies. It was voted to purchase the Stone estate adjoining the church for the society for the sum of $11,000. Since the meeting, some complications have arisen, and the purchase has not been consummated. Work on the church will be commenced at once.

AUBURNDALE.

—Miss Edith Farley leaves on June 20th for New York. She is to be away about a month.

—Mrs. J. F. Foss and children of Minneapolis, Minn., are at Captain Barker's on Central street.

—Dr. H. R. Bellows has been chosen vice-president of the New England Association of Cornell University Alumni.

—Mr. D. S. Emery and family of Concord Square, Boston, have arrived at their summer home on Central street.

—Measles are prevalent here, there being six cases at the Missionary Home, but all are doing nicely and will be out soon.

—Mr. Wm. H. Richards was stricken with paralysis Saturday afternoon, but it proved to be a slight shock, and he is rapidly improving.

—Gen. Joseph R. Hawley was the guest of Hon. R. M. Pulsifer the other day, and was taken for a ride to inspect the beautiful views in the city and vicinity.

—The address before the Lasell Alumnae Association will be given by Mrs. Abba Gould Woolson in the Seminary chapel on Wednesday, June 15th, at 3 p. m. Subject, American Women Abroad and at Home. The public are cordially invited.

—The grounds of Mr. C. B. Kendall on Woodland avenue were brilliantly illuminated Wednesday evening, June 8th, the occasion being the annual strawberry festival given by the ladies of the Methodist church.

—The commencement concert by the pupils of Lasell Seminary, took place in the gymnasium Thursday evening. The program embraced vocal and instrumental music. The choruses by the Orphean club, under the direction of Mr. J. W.

Davis, were well balanced and harmonious. The orchestral accompaniments were supplied, on a second piano by Prof. J. A. Hill.

—Miss Lillie Mansfield Packard, daughter of Dr. L. D. Packard of South Boston, has been appointed to the department of mathematics at Lasell Seminary. Miss Packard is a graduate of Lasell and Boston University, at which latter institution she took, also, a special course in mathematics.

—At the last meeting of the Gamma Zeta at Miss Plummer's on Woodland avenue, the members were entertained by a presentation of Howells's farce of the "Mouse Trap" by the following cast: Willie Campbell, Esq., H. H. Haskell; Mrs. Somers, Miss Farley; Mrs. Curwen, Miss Angier; Mrs. Bemis, Miss Annie Plummer; Mrs. Miller, Miss M. Stewart; Jane, Miss Howland. The whole farce was presented in a most creditable manner, and the impromptu ending was thoroughly enjoyed by spectators and actors.

—A concert was given at Lasell Seminary last Saturday evening by the Orphean club, assisted by Mr. S. C. Bartlett, tenor soloist; Mr. Willie E. Norrell, violinist, and Mr. George M. Norrell, pianist. A fine program was rendered and there was a very large attendance. The concert was given in honor of Prof. and Mrs. Bragdon's return. An informal reception was held in the chapel at the close of the concert, and they were warmly greeted by many friends.

—The 25th anniversary and children's day of the Methodist Sunday school, was one of the events of Sunday. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers. In the morning Rev. Mr. Newhall preached an eloquent sermon appropriate to the day, and in the evening occurred the exercises of the Sunday school. The report of the superintendent, Mr. F. F. Davidson, showed the school financially in good condition with 128 members, including the primary department and Bible class. Recitations, dialogues and music by the children comprised the program, which closed with an address.

NONANTUM.

—Wm. Burt's new house is progressing rapidly.

—Mrs. Derby of Lowell is visiting Mrs. Thomas Jewett.

—Miss Carrie Gilman is visiting her sister, Mrs. Bigelow.

—Master Bert Frye of Peterborough, N.H., is here for the summer.

—A. H. Bedell and wife made a flying visit to this village Monday.

—Rev. W. A. Lamb contemplates a voyage to Europe at an early date.

—H. F. Foss has removed from Mr. Towne's house to that of Mr. Tupper on California street.

—Complaint has been made to the board of health of the bad sanitary arrangements of the new Bemis depot.

—John Farrell has the job to put in two large cellars for the Hall Rubber company's new houses to be built by J. Nevins.

—Rev. H. J. Patrick of West Newton will speak at the 25th anniversary of the North Church Sunday school, Sunday evening at 6:30.

—A children's entertainment will be given at the North Church Saturday afternoon and evening. There will be a unique and amusing program.

—Posters announcing the Victoria jubilee picnic at Oak Island Grove, Revere Beach, June 21, are displayed at several places in this village. It is expected that there will be a large delegation from this village.

—Miss Kate Sullivan, who has lived in this village since she was a small girl, died at her home near Aetna Mills last Sunday evening, of slow consumption. She has been sick for two years. Her remains were carried to New Jersey for interment.

—Mr. G. F. Ballou, the well-known mechanic of Waltham, has completed arrangements with the Nonantum Worsted company to manufacture his Universal engine lathe and other tools upon which he recently received patents. The Nonantum company have every convenience for the manufacture of machine tools on a large scale. Mr. Ballou's contract dates from June 1.

—Last Sabbath was children's day at the North church. The church was very nicely decorated with spring flowers, the designs being emblematic of childhood. A choir of 30 children under the direction of Mr. Geo. Hudson and Mr. H. E. Foss, sang very beautiful selections. Rev. Mr. Lamb preached from the words, "Suffer Little Children to Come unto Me." The anniversary of the Sabbath school takes place next Sunday. The annual picnic of the Sabbath school will be held on July 4th.

The Proposed Street Railway.

Editor of the GRAPHIC:

As a subscriber to your people's paper, which has always evinced a disposition to promote the best interests of the masses, rather than the classes, I would like to know when your street railway is to be put in operation?

Surely the thousands who would be benefitted by the horse cars in Newton, are not to be deprived of this source of pleasure because of the futile objections of the comparatively few who are rich enough to own a team?

Newton has heretofore been singularly exempt from snobbery. Let it continue so. Every other city of our size gives its citizens the advantage of such a convenience, if not a luxury. And since we have men of public spirit, energy and means to consummate this great need, if the city government is disposed to be capricious or illiberal, just mark the men for new honors!

What advantage would a street railway be to the people? Answer: A general advantage to all transacting business or making social calls between the villages, attending church meetings, lectures or concerts, High School, City Hall, Public Library and depots; and a special benefit to invalids and children too poor to patronize a livery stable and who could at seasonable times, for a "nickel," enjoy the blessings of an "open car airing." Move on.

Resolutions.

At a recent meeting of Local Assembly 3398, Nonantum, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Divine Providence to take from our midst our late associate, Martin P. Mulverhill;

Resolved, That while we humbly submit to the Divine will, we deeply deplore his absence from our midst and recognize the loss of a brother who had won the esteem and respect of all who knew him.

Resolved, That we tender his bereaved widow and orphan our heartfelt sympathy in this, their hour of affliction; and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon our records and also that we send a copy to the family of the deceased.

THE WAY OF IT.

This is the way of it, wide world over:
One is beloved, and one is the lover;
One gives, and the other receives.
One lavishes all in a wild emotion;
One offers a smile for a life's devotion;
One hopes, and the other believes.
One lies awake in the night to weep,
And the other drifts into a sweet sound sleep.

One soul is aflame with a god-like passion,
One plays with love in an idler's fashion,
One speaks, and the other hears.
One sobs, "I love you," and wet eyes show it,
And one laughs lightly and says, "I know it,"
With smiles for the others' tears.
One lives for the other and nothing beside,
And the other remembers the world is wide.

This is the way of it, sad earth over:
The heart that breaks is the heart of the lover,
And the other learns to forget.
For what is the use of endless sorrow?
Though the sun goes down, it will rise to-morrow,
And life is not over yet.
Oh! I know this truth, if I know no other,
That Passionate Love is Pain's own mother.
—(Ella Wheeler Wilcox.)

PRINGLE'S FLAT.

"You will have a beautiful day, my dears," said Mrs. Hope, as she looked admiringly first at her son Dick, who was driving up to the door in his new buggy, then at her daughter-in-law, Mary Hope, whose honeymoon was at its full.

"I am so glad!" said the young wife. "What lovely weather we have had ever since I came here! not at all like what some of our friends predicted when they said we ought to spend our honeymoon in the East."

Dick Hope at that moment sprang out of his buggy lightly, and gallantly extended his hand to his wife.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Mary Hope, "I am not such a helpless creature that I can't get in myself," and she stepped lightly into the buggy with a merry laugh.

Mrs. Hope, the elder, gave an approving nod. "It's just as well to let Dick know you can help yourself. These western men—"

"Need managing like other men," interrupted her daughter-in-law with another laugh.

Old Mr. Hope, coming down from the stables at that moment, eyed the horse, buggy, and harness (Dick had expended seven hundred dollars on that turnout), then stood patting the horse's neck kindly. He was an admirer of fine horses, and his judgment was sought far and wide on all points of horse-flesh. "There's fine mettle here, Dick."

"I know it," said Dick, proudly. "Cheap at four hundred," said Mr. Hope. "Have you tried her yet?"

"I think she's good for two twenty-one without much of an effort."

"Why, isn't that a fast horse, Dick?" asked his wife, whose curiosity was aroused.

"Just middling," answered her husband. "We have them out here faster than that."

"It is fast," said his father. "We used to think it impossible, but we have got so far now there's no telling what's in a horse. I like this mare very much. If it was anybody else's I'd—"

"Come now, what would you give, father?" said Dick, banteringly.

"It's all in the family, so I'm saved a hundred dollars, at least."

"A hundred more wouldn't buy her, father. Just say to anybody that covets my new mare I wouldn't take a cent less than seven hundred dollars. Why she goes like the wind."

"That reminds me, Dick; you'd best take the road round by Drake's."

"And lose a good half hour?" said Dick.

"That's a long way round, father," said the elder Mrs. Hope.

"You take my advice," said her husband. "I mean coming back. It doesn't matter going. If it should blow you will find it safest."

Dick, who was adjusting a strap looked off east and west, smiled in a satisfied way, and observed, "I don't see any signs of a storm."

"Nur I," said his father; "but no one knows anything about the wind here. I'll never forget the sweep I got twenty years ago coming over Pringle's Flat."

"That is where we are going, isn't it, Dick?" Mrs. Dick Hope looked the least trifle anxious as she turned to her husband.

"Was it so bad, Mr. Hope?"

"Bad! Bad's no name for it. Why it blew my wagon as far as from here to the bar,—blew the horses off their feet, tore up trees, and lodged me against a rock that saved my life."

"That must have been terrible," said Mary Hope.

"Don't let them frighten you," said Dick smilingly; "lightning never strikes twice in the same place. I'm all right you see. The only time I was blown away was when I went East for you. Are we all ready now? Basket in, mother?"

Mrs. Hope nodded gayly, Dick lifted the reins lightly, and away the new buggy with its happy occupants sped over the prairie.

It was early morning. The fingers of the dawn stretched upward, dissolving the shadowy mist that hung over the prairie and the thin line of woodland that lay away off in the west like the fringe on a neatly cut garment. The young wife inhaled the perfumes exhaled from the flowers, filling the atmosphere with rich odors. There were lines upon lines of variegated tints above the horizon. Such a sunrise Mary Hope had never looked on except among the mountains. There were tints of crimson, amber and gold; and above all white pillars rolled majestically—palaces more magnificent and stately than any that the human eye could conceive.

"How grand!" she said, as Dick looked smilingly at her.

"The mind of man cannot measure all its beauties," said Dick, as he settled himself for some "solid enjoyment."

As the red and golden glories stretched above the horizon, a light breeze sprang up, fanning Mary Hope's cheek, caressing her hair lightly, and sighing through the thin selva of trees which Dick's father had planted along the roadway before his son was born. The god of day wheeled his chariot aloft, radiating as only the summer sun can the rarest tints of amber and crimson and gold, until the purple glories rolled aloft like great billows, gradually arching themselves into the semblance of a gateway, through which Mary Hope caught in fancy, glimpses of the celestial city. She did not speak but sat perfectly quiet, drinking in the beauties of the most beautiful morning Dick Hope had ever witnessed in the West.

"There is Pringle's Flat," said Dick, suddenly pointing ahead.

"Surely we have not come seven miles, Dick?"

"Scarcely. How far is that ahead?"

"It is a mile, Dick."

Dick laughed loudly. "It's nearer, four."

"I don't understand it."

"That's what the smart hunters from the East say when they shoot and miss their game. It's the atmosphere, Mary."

"It's a small place," said his wife as she looked forward to Pringle's Flat, lying a little below them. Beyond it there was a ribbon of molten gold, made by the sun's rays falling upon the river. "And that is the river."

"We'll be there in twenty minutes," said Dick Hope, "when I want to introduce you to some of the nicest people in this end of the State."

The people Dick referred to received the couple in a manner that made Mary Hope's cheek glow with gratification. Her husband was a man universally admired—as fine a specimen of his kind as was ever produced west of Pringle's Flat. The bride, during the two hours they remained in the town, created a ripple of talk. There was something about Dick and his wife that made people turn to look at them. When they drove away, a score of friends waved good wishes and tossed kisses after them.

"Now for Dan's Rock," said Dick, as he gave his mare the rein and cast a backward glance at Pringle's Flat. "Pretty, isn't it?"

"Pretty!" said his wife, "why, Dick, it's lovely! See the light on the church windows; it looks as though it were really on fire. The houses are so pretty, too, the streets so wide and there is such an air of peace and comfort about it! Why, it is like a town that has grown up in the night, it is so wonderfully clean and neat—just what a painter would make if he were painting towns to please people."

"I'm glad you like it. That reminds me, do you see that house above the church to the left?"

"It looks charming—the prettiest house there."

"Glad you like it."

"Why, Dick?"

"It is yours. I bought it before I went East for you. We'll look inside of it when we return, if we have time."

That was Dick Hope's way. The drive to Dan's Rock occupied an hour. "Now for a trial of your strength," said Dick, as he tied his horse to a tree at the base of the great rock and assisted his wife to the ground where they were to lunch.

"Must I climb up there, Dick?" said Mrs. Hope.

"That's the program which we came out for to-day. You've heard so much of the view from Dan's Rock that you want to see for yourself. Do you know you remind me now of Parthenia fetching water from the spring?"

"Parthenia tamed her husband, didn't she, Dick? I'm glad your mother saved me the trouble."

That was a lunch Mary Hope often recalled in after years. Dick persisted in forcing all kinds of dainties upon her, "Irish fashion," as she said afterwards. It was the first time she had ever had him to herself in the glad day with no curious eyes to peer on them, and subjected her lord and master in her turn to such straits that he gladly cried quits as he put his hair out of his eyes and viewed his tormentor.

Then they slowly mounted the massive heap called Dan's Rock. Such a view! A sweep of forty miles in one direction, east, and almost as grand a view to the west.

Dick sat down and handed his wife the glass as he lighted a fresh cigar. "Do you see that hill away off to the left there?"

"Hasn't it a curious shape?"

"There's where the wind comes from. They manufacture it up there."

"What do you mean, Dick?"

"There's a valley back there that extends full forty miles northwest, where you come to prairie land like ours back of Pringle Flat, only there is ten times more of it. The wind rolls down the valley and plays the very deuce with things on the river about that point. Sometimes it rains, and then you'd think the heavens were emptying; all the waters in the valley sweep down below us here, fills the valley where it narrows there like the neck of a bottle, and then—look out for trouble. I saw it once; that is all I want to see."

"Is it so awful, Dick?"

"It is really awful, Mary."

"And now it looks like—the plains of Egypt. I can't conceive of anything disturbing the perfect peace of this beautiful scene. See that cloud away off there, Dick."

"About the size of a man's hand? I see it."

"It's the only speck in the sky," said his wife.

"It's not like our sky, then," said Dick, as he kissed her standing on the very top of Dan's Rock. "Do you know it is time we were moving now?"

"We have only been here a little while."

"It's three hours since we stopped at the foot of Dan's Rock."

"My goodness, Dick!"

"That's what I'm always saying to myself when I think you took me before all the other fellows."

"It can't be."

"Look for yourself," said Dick, holding out his watch.

"It's the grandest day of my life, Dick. I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

He gave her his hand and helped her down the rough places. Once in a while Mary would stop to gather bits of moss and flowers as mementoes of a red-letter day. At least an hour was consumed in the descent. Then they got into the buggy and turned homeward, but not on the road leading past Drake's.

"We want to see all that can be seen, don't we?" said Dick.

"By all means," answered his wife, as she tied her hat loosely and prepared to enjoy the drive home. "But didn't your father tell you to go home by Drake's?"

"The other is the better road."

"You know best, Dick."

Dick's mare's went at a slapping pace. "She smells oats," said Dick.

"Look at Pringle's Flat, Dick."

"Pretty, isn't it?"

See if you can find our house over there, Mary?"

There was a long silence, then the young wife gleefully pointed out the house, and there was another long silence, which was broken by Mrs. Hope saying suddenly, "What is that curious sound I hear?"

"I hear nothing."

"There! Do you hear it now?"

Dick inclined an ear. They were fairly clear of the rough land at the base of Dan's Rock now, and the mare was trotting rapidly. Suddenly her driver's firm hand brought her upon her haunches. Dick listened intently. His wife was right; her ears were keener than his. There was something in the air.

At that instant Mary's hand clutched his arm convulsively as she cried out, "Oh, Dick, what is that back of us!" She was looking back with horror-stricken eyes and pale lips.

Dick turned. A cloud like a black wall was rushing down on them; it seemed to Dick Hope's eyes as black as ink. An awful fear possessed him. There was a hush, a stillness in the air as chilling as the terrible cloud behind them. "Go long!" he exclaimed desperately, cutting the mare fiercely with his whip.

The mare shot out like an arrow, and at that moment another sound smote their ears—a sound that was like the crash of worlds. The mare plunged, reared, then resumed her onward course. Her owner had lost all control over her.

But one thought animated Dick Hope as he clasped his wife with his right arm while he held fast to the reins with his left hand, shutting his teeth like a vice. "That thought was, 'Pray God we reach the river bottom!'"

The earth groaned under their feet. A sound like the rush of a million locomotives deafened them. Dick Hope instinctively turned and clasped his young wife in his arms. He did not see the mare; he saw nothing but his wife's face, and something struck terror to his heart. His own was ashy gray at that moment as his young wife's when she turned her last appealing look upon him and moved her lips. His own prayer was that they might die together. It seemed to them that all the sound in the air and earth was condensed and gathered into one awful shriek. Earth and sky were obliterated. Dick Hope felt himself lifted up and flung like a flake through the air.

When he recovered his senses he was lying where he had prayed to be—in the river bottom, with his wife close beside him. The awful storm did not divide them. The tornado, like a raging beast, had simply taken them up in its teeth, so to speak, tossed them aside, and pursued its path. Where they were lying the water was so shoal that it scarcely covered them.

Dick set up and spoke to his wife. She did not answer. Then he put one hand up involuntarily, in a weak, helpless way. There was blood on his face; he could not see; his eyes were full of sand. He struck himself in despair, and, again grasping his wife, said in a hoarse voice, "You are not dead, Mary?"

Whether it was the water from the river he dashed into his face or the gush of tears that came to his eyes, Dick does not know to this day, but suddenly his eyes became clear, and he could see his wife lying with her long hair over her breast. He lifted her up. He felt her hands, her cheek. Then suddenly he summoned all his remaining strength for one supreme effort, and dragged rather than carried her up to the dry chelving beach under the bluff.

Mary Hope slowly opened her eyes and looked at her husband. Then she slowly put her hands up to her face and covered it.

Dick saw the tears coursing down her cheeks. "Don't—don't, Mary!" he said.

"I can't help it. I am not crying with pain or grief; it's because you are living, because we both are spared."

Dick's strength returned to him. He stood up and looked about him. Until that moment he did not know that he was coatless and without vest or shirt; he was naked. He pressed his eyes with his hands and down on him like one awaking from a dream. He looked at his wife, still sitting with her face covered with her hands; "Mary, we are almost naked. There is nothing on me, and your dress is in ribbons."

He looked up and down the river in a helpless way, still pressing a hand to his heart. "I don't see—any sign of—the buggy or horse." Then he cast his glance at the bluff back of them. "Come, let us go up on the bank."

He had to carry her.

"It is a horrible sight, dear Dick. I'll soon get over it," she said, when he set her down gently on the level ground.

"Mary, look over there. Do you see anything? My eyes are so full of sand, so sore, that I can't make it out quite. Everything looks so blurred."

She did not answer him. It was not because her eyes were not clear. As she looked wonderingly, her hand, that had never relinquished her husband's from the moment he seated her on the prairie, clasped his convulsively. Then she uttered a loud cry.

"I—I expected as much," said Dick, speaking more to himself than to his wife. "Nothing—nothing man ever made could stand before that storm."

"Oh, Dick," she exclaimed sobbingly, "there is nothing left of the town—not a house. I can only see a heap here and there—something like fallen chimneys, and smoke and fire."

"That's the end of Pringle's Flat, Mary."

He looked back over the prairie—back to the fringe of trees that skirted a portion of the road near the base of Dan's Rock but a little while since. He could not recognize the place he had looked on a hundred times. The trees had disappeared, they had been swept from the face of the earth. Then he shaded his eyes with his hand and looked across to where Pringle's Flat had stood in all the pride of a new western town. Dick Hope suddenly knelt by his wife's side, still holding her hand, saying, "Let us pray."

Among all those who witnessed the awe-inspiring tornado that swept Pringle's Flat until not one stone stood upon another, killing, maiming all living creatures in its path, none had such vivid recollections as Dick Hope and his wife. When they refer to their experience on that terrible day, they speak in a low tone, reverently, as though standing in the presence of the dead.

LOOSENEED TEETH.

Treated and Tightened by

—Among the stories told at the New England dinner in New York was the annexed: "There was an old preacher once who told some boys of the Bible lesson he was to read in the morning. The boys, finding the place, glued together the connecting pages. The next morning he read on the bottom of one: 'When Noah was one hundred and twenty years old he took unto himself a wife, who was—then turning the page—'140 cubits long, 40 cubits wide, built of gopher wood and covered with pitch inside and out.' He was naturally puzzled at this. He read it again, verified it, and then said: 'My friends, this is the first time I ever met this in the Bible, but I accept it as evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made.'"

"Can't eat a thing." Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, regulating digestion, and giving strength.

How Unpleasant

it is to see a beautiful child's face disfigured with vile humors, bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches, and sores, and sadder still, when the young and innocent are laughed at and twitted in all such cases. Parents should give them that good and pure remedy, Sulfur Bitters, which will search and drive out of the blood every particle of humor.—(Health Gazette.)

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

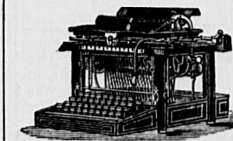

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CITY OF

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.

The inhabitants of the city of Newton, and all other persons liable to pay taxes therein, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from May second to the thirtieth day of June next, true lists of all their polls (males 20 years old and upward,) and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempted from taxation.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executors, administrators, trustees or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

RETURNS OF PROPERTY HELD FOR LITERARY, BENEVOLENT, CHARITABLE, OR SCIENTIFIC PURPOSES.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1882.—All persons and corporations are hereby required to bring to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the thirtieth day of June next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by such persons and corporations, respectively, for literary, benevolent, charitable or scientific purposes, on the first day of May, 1887, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such person or corporation for said purpose during the year next preceding said second day of May; such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the Tax Commissioner.

MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE.

CHAP. 175, ACTS OF 1882, SEC. 1.

Any mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring to the Assessors of the town or city where such real estate lies, at the time specified for bringing in the list as provided in section thirty-eight of chapter eleven of the Public Statutes, a statement under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such real estate, and the name and residence of every holder an interest therein as a mortgagee and mortgagor. When such property is situated in two or more places, or when a recorded mortgage includes for one sum two or more estates or parts of an estate, an estimate of the amount of the mortgagee's interests in each estate or part of an estate shall be given in such statement. The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate parts of such estates that are the interests of mortgagees and mortgagors, respectively, and shall assess the same. Whenever, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such real estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

SHIPPING.

Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9, of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property.

Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors, agreeably to the laws of this Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before the Assessors, on or before the thirtieth day of June, and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the board, notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—Pub. Stat., Chap. 11, Sec. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed on personal estate to such person, can be granted "unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the said amount, the statement shall be only of the excess above the said fifty per cent."—Pub. Stat., Chap. 11, Sec. 73.

The Assessors will be in session at their office, in City Hall, in the City of Newton, on the 2d, 9th, 16th, 23d and 30th days of May, and the 6th and 13th days of June next, from 2

DR. HOVEY'S ADDRESS

TO THE GRADUATES OF THE NEWTON THEOLOGICAL INSTITUTION.

Dr. Alvah Hovey, the President, delivered the Baccalaureate Sermon to the graduates of the Newton Theological Institution, Sunday morning, in Associates' Hall. The graduates this year number 25, a larger class than usual. A very large congregation was present. The text was Romans viii. 29: "For whom he did foreknow he also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of his son, that he might be the first born among many brethren." The preacher said:—

Our spiritual sense is not keen enough to measure the sovereign purpose of God and the moral freedom of men, to understand all the mysteries, but the proximate and to be attained, as set forth in the text, conformity to the image of His Son, and the divine purpose will be accomplished when men become Christlike. Form signifies the outward, and some thought Paul in these words meant a likeness to Christ in our glorious spiritual bodies; but the reasons are wholly insufficient to justify this restrictive view, and figurative language is often the strongest way in which spiritual truths are set forth in the Bible. At times even the vagueness of imagery is dropped and God, whom none can see, is spoken of as having hands and eyes, while Christ is spoken of as the image of the invisible God. Having Christ formed in us is similar to being conformed to him. What is it, then, to be Christ-like? It is to have character, feeling and purpose like his. Moral character is instinct with life, a movement of feeling and purpose that will never rest, a holy, energetic, self-sacrificing love such as the Saviour exemplified in his life, a clear distinction between right and wrong, obedience and sin, a fellowship with the lowly and true. The holiness of his love was terrible to unbelievers. It puts godliness above happiness. This will be regnant in those conformed to his image. It seeks the real good of men, is far-seeing and patient, aims to secure permanent good and sees in the suffering of men in Christ a promise of their reigning with him. Such character is called stern, but there is nothing more tender. Its wrath with sin is because sin is destroying all that is good. Even faith is less energetic than love. The luxury of doing good was a daily experience to Christ—love brought him to earth and was perennial, unfulfilling in its influence. It is, therefore, to have this energetic love, to make life attractive and the incentive strong to do good.

His love that makes our cheerful feet

In self obedience move.

Love is self-sacrificing. "All that a man hath will he give for his life," is as true a mark as Satan ever made. In the person of Christ, love was crowned upon earth. He humbled himself, became obedient unto death—an example of self-sacrifice which shows the omnipotence of God. Some men have much of this same spirit, but many are not up to the point of habitual self-sacrifice, yet time is bringing them. It is probable our bodily likeness to Christ will be made more complete at the resurrection, although we are in ignorance as to our heavenly bodies, yet our likeness to the Son will be mainly a spiritual likeness. The object of this conformity of men to Christ is stated in the text: "That ye might be the first-born among my brethren." In this union we see, first, a blessed family relation. There is nothing stronger on earth than these natural affections and kindred ties of family life, and the scriptures show the purity of the Hebrew family union. Second, we observe that in this family Christ is spoken of as the first-born and men are predestinated to be in his image. In the heavenly brotherhood no face will be so radiant as that of Jesus—no form so commanding as that of the Son of God. Third, it classes the adoption, through the mercy of God they are received—an adoption purchased by faith. If we endure we shall reign with him. Can this be credible? 'Tis a prophecy—certain as the destiny of God. Is it easy to reach a higher plane than this? Nobler ends than those proposed by God cannot be reached, and we can only aid his purpose by moving in divine currents. Our religion is distinguished from all others by its motive power. When man goes about offering eternal life through Christ, God is at his side. What would man be alone against races, nations and organized prejudices? A breath against a cyclone, a zephyr confronting a tornado! The power of sin was never more restless or daring than it is at the present time. There is not a revered principle which is not assailed. Yet there is no occasion for despondency. The opportunity is great because minds are unsettled. Self-interest cannot be made to do the work of love. I cannot refrain from congratulating you, my brethren, who are preparing for the ministry. Be strong in the faith, put on the whole armor of God, take the helmet of salvation and sword of the spirit. If you heed this counsel your warfare will end in victory. Consider the end of your calling, which is to make men like the Son of God, and fear not to enter upon a service at once the most worthy and difficult.

What is a cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine rhinitis, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which, when unchecked, it certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "break" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes seated and ends in obstinate catarrh.

AYER'S PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va.

NEWTON CENTRE.

—On Monday night, Ward Six had its first experience with electric lights.

—Rev. Dr. David Gregg of Park street church, Boston, was in the village on Monday.

—Rev. T. A. Whitaker of Newton, '87, will fill the vacancy at Aberdeen, Minnesota, caused by the resignation of Rev. E. M. Bliss.

—Rev. Dr. and Mrs. S. F. Smith arrived at their home on Centre street last week, from a long trip through California and the north-west.

—The Waltham Methodist church has been celebrating its semi-centennial this week, and Rev. B. K. Pierce of this ward delivered an address Thursday on "Fifty Years of Methodism in New England."

—Rev. Erastus Blakeslee, formerly residing on Summer street, now settled as pastor at Fair Haven, Ct., has been unanimously chosen by the faculty of the University of Atlanta, Georgia, as its president.

—Prof. Hincks of Andover Theological Seminary, preached at the First church on Sunday morning. His discourse, which was most excellent, was founded on 1st John, 2:17, setting forth the sure abiding of the soul that doeth the will of God.

—The excellent work done by the Improvement Society is seen since the fine rains have "with verdure clad" the well kept common. Among the latest of the glad surprises are the pretty triangle at the junction of Centre and Cypress streets, and the long neglected corner of Sumner and Willow streets.

—On Tuesday afternoon the chapel, which has been moved from the corner of Beacon and Centre streets, was successfully placed on the foundation prepared for it, on Pleasant street. The audience room will be fitted up as a school room, additional light being introduced, and will be occupied by Misses. Friend and Cook for their private school in September.

—The lawn party given by the Alice Charline Mission Band on Monday afternoon, on President Hovey's grounds, was enjoyed by a large company. The tables were placed on the tennis court, Japanese lanterns and lights illuminated the surroundings, while the full moon wading through fleecy clouds enhanced the effect. The music by the High School Orchestra, who occupied the piazza, was excellent, their selections and execution very gratifying to the audience.

—From the Daily Pioneer Press of Minneapolis, Minn., May 30th, we quote: "The Rev. Dr. Henry F. Colby of Dayton, Ohio, graceful, deliberate and impressive, delivered the sermon before the Missionary Union in the afternoon. Dr. Colby had a large audience. Although he spoke entirely without notes, his dictation was of the purest and most polished order." Dr. Colby, on Wednesday afternoon, delivered the annual address before the Association of the Alumni of the Theological Institution at Associates Hall.

—Mrs. Love Brackett, Robbins will be remembered by our octogenarians. She was a native of Newton, born in 1804. In 1832 she was baptized by Father Grafton and united with the Baptist church. In 1835 she left Newton, having married Rev. Gilbert Robbins, whose faithful companion she was through nearly 50 years of ministerial life, and whom she survived but a single year. Her death occurred May 25th, at her home with her daughter, Mrs. R. N. Brackett, Boston Highlands, from whose residence she was borne to her burial at Mount Hope cemetery, Rev. Dr. J. C. Foster officiating at the service.

—The Denver Republican of June 4th contains an account of the Cortez and Dolores Valley Railroad, which will run from Hite into the Montezuma Valley, Colorado, and of which Mr. B. L. Arbecam of this village is president, and one of the directors. The road is to form a connection between Cortez and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe System, and will make Cortez the grand distributing point for Southern Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. Mr. Arbecam has been in Colorado for some days looking after his business interests there.

—The executive committee of the Newton Centre Improvement Association have appointed a special committee to make arrangements for a home celebration on the Fourth of July. The Newton band, 25 pieces, have been engaged for an afternoon and evening concert. On the afternoon of the common and in the evening on Crystal Lake, A. Legerle will perform for children. There will be bicycle races etc., and the day will close with a fine display of fireworks and illuminations on Crystal Lake. The success of the affair will depend upon liberal subscriptions from our patriotic citizens.

—"Give me a great thought to refresh myself with," was the saying of a German poet. Such a thought was given to all who heard Dr. Hovey's Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning. The senior class was present and occupied the front seats of the middle of the hall. The music by the quartet, Mrs. Manfield soprano, Mrs. Gould contralto, Col. Kingsbury tenor, Mr. Barrows bass, was inspiring. Upon the platform were large bouquets of field flowers, in which the royal fleur-de-lis, pink Hawthorne blossoms, the rich foliage of the purple beech with a pale green flowering plant and peonies were massed with effect. An extract from the sermon will be found on another page.

—Mr. William N. Ward of Lowell, formerly of Ward street, Newton, has received the contract for constructing the monument to be erected on the battle-field at Bennington, Vt. Three years ago the general government appropriated $40,000, Vermont $25,000, New Hampshire $5,000, Massachusetts $10,000 for this purpose. The monument will be a plain pillar or obelisk, with an elongated dome, 300 feet in height. The architect is Mr. J. P. Rinn of Boston. The base will rest on a natural ledge of dolomite or magnesian lime, of which material the shaft will probably be built. The battle of Bennington was fought Aug. 16, 1777. The corner stone will probably be laid on this, the 100th anniversary of Gen. Stark's immortal rallying call: "There are the red coats. Before night we must conquer them, or Molly Stark sleeps a widow."

—Newton will soon have another resident from Boston, and another fine house on Oak Hill. Mr. Wm. G. Lee, a brother of George C. Lee of Chestnut Hill, has bought through Mr. Thorpe, real estate agent, Mr. Samuel Pulsifer's farm. Mr. Lee will use a number of acres of the north part of the place for building drives, walks, ornamental trees, &c. It is one of the finest locations in Newton. Near and in sight of Dr. Bigelow's, Hon. Levi C. Wade's, Ivory Harmon's, Wm. Wiggins and other residences, and commands a view of Blue Hill, Wachusett Mountain, Waltham Hills and other hills and church steeples from various towns. Mr. Pulsifer has owned and cultivated the farm for 28 years, but became of rather poor health and decided to sell.

The Seminary Commencement.

The address before the graduating class of the Newton Theological Seminary was delivered in Associates' Hall, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, by Rev. H. F. Colby, D. D., of Dayton, O. The speaker dwelt upon the temptations in the ministry resulting from culture and education.

After the address, the alumni dinner took place in Sturtevant Hall, and Prof. Brown read the list of members of the alumni, who had died during the year.

At the meeting of the trustees the present president and faculty were re-elected. Prof. Burton was excused for one year. He will go abroad for study. A permanent organization of the graduating class was perfected, and the following officers were elected: President, A. E. Scofield; secretary and treasurer, S. Matthews; alternate secretary, R. H. Ferguson.

The students and visiting clergymen assembled in Associates' Hall, Centre street, at 7:30 p. m., and listened to an address before the Society of Missionary Inquiry by Rev. George Dana Boardman, D. D.

On Thursday morning the 62d anniversary exercises of the graduating class took place in the Congregational church. The program opened with music, followed by prayer, after which the addresses by the members of the graduating class were delivered. After the exercises a lunch was partaken of in Associates' Hall, and the trustees' dinner was served in Mason Hall. President Hovey presided at the trustees' dinner, and addresses were made by members of the alumni.

CHESTNUT HILL.

—Mr. A. D. S. Bell accompanied the Boston Commercial club on its trip to Chicago and the west.

—Collector Saitoussall has been chosen first vice-president of the Massachusetts society for promoting agriculture.

—The little exhibition of water-color sketches by pupils of Mrs. Ross Turner in the school house at Chestnut Hill, from the 1st to the 4th inst., was quite a success. The receipts amounted to nearly $100. This is to be supplemented by other gifts, so that the "knights of the brush" will soon be able to exhibit our chapel in fresh oil colors.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Miss Mary E. Hyde is spending a few days at Saratoga.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Ayer have returned after an absence of a few weeks.

—Mrs. Phipps, after a serious illness of several days, is much better.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dudley of Newton Centre are boarding with Mrs. S. C. Cobb.

—The organist at the Congregational church next Sabbath is Mr. S. Harrison Lovewell of Wellesley.

—It is expected that the portion of Floral avenue between Walnut and Boylston streets will soon be graded. This is a work that is much needed.

—Four electric lights have been located at the Highlands. They were lighted for the first time on Tuesday night, and made a very brilliant appearance.

—The Episcopal society held their annual strawberry festival in their chapel on Wednesday evening, and was much enjoyed by all present.

—Mr. S. W. Cobbett and Miss Antoinette S. Church were married by Rev. Mr. Meredith on Tuesday evening. They will reside at Newton Upper Falls.

—Hon. W. C. Strong of Waban has sold his old mansion house for a summer residence. Mr. Strong will remove to his new house near by.

—Mrs. Pottle is having her late residence put in thorough repair and will lease the same, as she has taken up her residence with her daughter, Mrs. A. R. Cook on Floral avenue.

—The ladies of the Congregational society will hold a "Garden Party and Strawberry Festival," on Wednesday, June 22d, from five to ten o'clock, on the grounds of Hon. J. F. C. Hyde.

—The G. R. Collins estate near Waban station has been sold to Mr. Cass, lately a member of the firm of F. A. Kennedy & Co., cracker bakers, Cambridgeport, who will make his residence there.

—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen, with four of their children, have removed to New Haven, Ct. Miss Grace Allen will make her home with Mr. E. J. Hyde for the few weeks remaining of the school term.

—Mr. E. S. Chapin and his two grandsons left the Highlands on Tuesday morning, and will reside with a sister at Northfield, Mass. Miss Mary Chapin and her little niece will remain for a few days longer.

—The new railroad station was opened to the public on Sunday last. The grounds about the station are being handsomely laid out, and the north side of the track from the station to Hyde street is also being finely graded. We expect soon to see the old station removed from its present location.

—The Sunday School Choral Service seems to have become a regular feature at St. Paul's the first Sunday in the month at the four o'clock service. The address by the rector is always interesting and instructive, as well for the parents as for the children.

—There will be an exhibition of mind reading at Richard's Hall at Newton Highlands, Tuesday evening, June 14th, at 8 o'clock, by Mr. T. P. Pitman of Boston. This gentleman gave an entertainment at Mr. C. F. Johnson's house on Lake avenue a short time since, which was very enjoyable and successful, a large number being present.

$10.00 Suits.

Spitz Bros. & Mork offer a remarkable bargain in all wool $10 suits in their advertisement today.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Dr. Hildreth is in a fishing excursion to Rangeley Lakes.

—Mr. W. C. Frost is on a business trip through the West.

—Mrs. J. A. Gould, Jr., has gone to her home in Gardner for a few days.

—It is getting pretty well along into the month of June and no electric lights for our village yet. What is the trouble?

—The city government of Boston visited Echo Bridge on Wednesday afternoon on a tour of inspection of the Boston Water Works.

—There are a few cases of scarlet fever in this place, and words of caution to those having children that are exposed to this disease cannot be too often repeated.

—The ladies of the Methodist Society gave a strawberry festival in the vestry of their church on Wednesday evening. The entertainment given in the audience room at 8 o'clock, consisted of vocal and instrumental music, readings, and the reading of an original poem by a well-known citizen, Mr. S. G. Curry, all of which was well received by the audience.

—On Friday evening of last week the members of the Piano Stock Company, with their friends were very hospitably entertained in Prospect Hall, by Mr. G. F. Francis. The social was the last of the season. The party numbered about 40. Music was furnished by Messrs. Sturtevant, Billings, Mansfield, Lovell and Newell, and was of a high order. Songs were rendered by Mr. Lovell and Mr. William Chum of Newton Highlands. "Ezekiel's Courtship" was also presented as a part of the entertainment, the several parts being well sustained.

—For a number of years past the Baptist churches throughout the United States have observed the second Sunday in June as "Children's Day," for the Sunday School work of the American Baptist Publication Society. On Sunday evening, June 12th, at 7 o'clock, the Baptist Sunday School of this place will for the first time observe this early summer festival by an appropriate concert exercise prepared especially for this occasion. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to unite with the school in the observance of this "Children's Day" festival.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Much comment is heard on the location of the electric lights in this place. Probably some change will be made in time, which will increase their efficiency.

—Mr. B. B. Vassall is missed from his usual place behind the counter, being confined to the house by illness.

—Dean Gray of Cambridge preached at Wellesley Sunday afternoon, at the request of the bishop of the diocese. The rector of St. Mary's has taken temporary charge of the mission at Wellesley.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Wellesley Mission will hold a sale and sociable at the residence of Mr. T. A. Willard Wednesday, June 16th, from 4 to 9 o'clock. The friends of the mission in adjoining towns are invited to be present.

—An unusually large congregation attended St. Mary's on Trinity Sunday morning. The service for the day, always impressive, was made doubly so by the fine Te Deum, a very sweet anthem during the offertory, and the noble Trinity hymns. The rector preached from Revelation, 4:8: "They rest not day and night, saying Holy, Holy, Holy." The Rev. N. G. Allen of Auburndale assisted in the Holy Communion.

—It is very encouraging to the people of our village to see the improvements projected by the Boston and Albany railroad. The new station will no doubt be a thing of beauty, in a not very aesthetic surrounding, and a solid comfort for those who take the trains from either village. There seems to be also a wave of improvements and repairs running through the community. New additions, new paint and new piazzas have greatly changed the exterior of some of our residences. The dwellers on Concord street, however, feel that they have a grievance which has not been reached by new sign boards at the crossing. The increase of trains and the almost constant passage of cars going to and from Riverdale, have made a crossing, never safe, absolutely dangerous. Shall we wait for some serious accident to enforce the necessity of flagmen or gates?

Mock Trial at the High School.

The exercises at the meeting of the High School Lyceum held last Saturday evening, took the form of a mock trial. Long before the meeting was called to order the room filled, and later arrivals filled every available place for standing. It was estimated that the audience numbered 400.

A Great Injustice.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

The action of the school committee, in rejecting Mr. Cutler as principal of the High School, is worthy of the utmost condemnation. Have the pupils of the High School, have their parents, have the citizens of Newton any rights which the school committee is bound to respect? Eleven men say they have not. In the calmest manner these committee men have utterly ignored the rights of those whom they were elected to serve. It is certainly time to demand an explanation for this action.

They admit that Mr. Cutler is a man of spotless character; that his knowledge of the classics and of all the important branches of study is unsurpassed; that he is well skilled in imparting to others the knowledge which he himself possesses; that the discipline in his own classes is excellent; and that he has secured to himself the affection of all his pupils. And this man, with such qualifications for his position is to be turned off because some other teachers in the school are poor disciplinarians? It is absurd and unprecedented to turn off a man of such ability and so well fitted for the position, on such frivolous pretexts. Considering the crowded state of the school, the insufficient number of teachers, the insubordination of the teacher next him in authority, Mr. Cutler deserved much credit that the discipline is not in far worse condition than is actually the case.

There must, then, be some other reason for removing Mr. Cutler. If it were a good reason, it is inconceivable that the committee should not have made it known, especially since they perceive the state of the feeling of the public. Since they have not done so, we are forced, not only by their ominous silence, but by the date when the hostilities to Mr. Cutler began, by utterances of certain members of the school committee at the time, by several things which happened at that time, to believe that the defeat of the foolish and insane two-session project is the true cause of Mr. Cutler's discharge.

It is to be hoped that the citizens of Newton will not forget this insult to themselves, but will testify at the polls that the rights of the people cannot be shamefully violated with impunity by those who are elected to be their servants.

PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs at law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Chapin Howard Carpenter, late of Newton, in said county, deceased, greeting:

Whereas, A certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, by George R. Hovey, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, one of the executors therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond pursuant to said will and statute, the other executors having declined the trust.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said county of Middlesex, on the fourth Tuesday of June next, at nine o'clock before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Newton Graphic, printed at Newton, the last publication to be two days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George M. Brooks, esq., Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty seven.

—A. A. Glines advertises that he will accept club tickets of the Boston photographers.

—Those who pay their gas bills promptly will hereafter only have to pay $2 per thousand.

—The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York has paid $15,700 to the family of the late Henry Claffin of this city.

—The Newton Bicycle Club held their monthly meeting at W. W. Stall's in Boston, Tuesday evening, and elected three new associate members.

—Harry and C. E. Whitmore, Jr., who have been spending the winter at the south, are expected to return to Newton during the first part of July.

—Lieut. Robert B. Edes, inspector of rifle practice for the Fifth regiment, won his twentieth medal at the shoot held at Bear's Den, Maiden, Memorial Day.

—Mr. Andrew Cobb, brother of Mr. H. E. Cobb of this city, is expected to arrive in New York from Calcutta, on Saturday. It is two years since he has visited this country.

—Mr. Henry E. Cobb and a party of eight, which included Mrs. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. March, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Potter, formed a coaching party to Bedford Springs this week.

—Mr. E. H. Cutler has been invited to deliver an address at the dedication services of the public library to-day, (Friday) on the "Relations Existing Between the Public Schools and the Library."

—The flower mission has started up this year in a very encouraging manner. Every Tuesday and Friday mornings a large quantity of flowers are sent away from the station to the poor and sick in Boston.

—Next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock the Sunday School of the Newton Methodist church will hold its annual Children's Day Concert. An interesting program has been prepared and the hour being early the youngest can come. All are welcome.

—The Newton Club team were tied with the Chelsea team for third place, in the road race of the Eastern Road Association last Saturday. Corey made 12 1-2 miles in 44 minutes and 30 seconds, and the 25 miles in 1 hour, 38 minutes.

—Judge Park has had several favorable days this week, but Wednesday night he did not rest well, and Thursday his condition was not as favorable. It is thought, however, that he has made some improvement over a week ago.

—The Ladies Foreign Missionary society of Eliot church met at the residence of Mrs. C. E. Billings on Franklin street, Thursday afternoon, and listened to an address from Mrs. E. E. Bliss of Constantinople.

—The Newton Natural History society will hold the second "Field Day" this season at Old Concord, early in July. Further information will be given next week. Those wishing to accompany the society on this Field Day are requested to notify Dr. Frisbie.

—Eliot church has been furnished with a large number of new hymn books. They were edited by Rev. Chas. D. Robinson, D. D., and printed by the Century Co. for the use of the Eliot church, until their meeting house can be completed.

—The Christian Nation says: "The honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity has been conferred upon the Rev. David Gregg by the University of New York City." The honor is one richly deserved, and Boston people and the Boston papers recognizing this fact, have, from the first, persistently D. D.'d him.

—"The Athenian" of the Boston Advertiser visited the Fete Champetre, and writes a half column description of his experiences in his charming style. Speaking of the union of the whole city in the affair, he says, "Newton divided against itself shall not stand, but Newton in the name of unity is a picturesque power."

—It is expected that the Reverend Joseph Cullen Ayer, a grandson of the late Mr. John L. Roberts of Newtonville, will preach in Grace church on Sunday night. Mr. Ayer was at one time in the Newton High School, and has just graduated with honors from the Theological school at Cambridge. At a special examination recently held there he won his degree of Bachelor of Divinity. His old friends in Newton, and the friends of his esteemed grandfather, will be interested in hearing his first sermon.

—Children's Day was observed at the Baptist church by a Sunday School concert in the evening. The services opened with the children of the school marching in, singing "We march, we march to victory," and it was done well. The baptistry was flooded over, and seats arranged upon it, and a pretty and touching sight it was to see so many bright children's faces, and to realize as the superintendent, Mr. Moore, said in his address, that the future of our country depended upon the children and the way in which they were moulded and taught. Some antiphonal scripture reading by the boys in the gallery, and the children on the platform, was given in a clear distinct manner, and in perfect unison. Master Newcomb and Miss Emily Titus gave addresses of welcome, and Miss Ethel Lentell read a selection which showed in a very striking way what a lonely, dreary place this earth would be "Were there no little people in it." The singing was done entirely by the children, and showed careful training. In fact the whole concert, with the exception of the addresses by Mr. Stephen Moore and Mr. H. F. Bent, was by the children, and largely by the primary department. Its superintendent, Mr. Bent, had, at the earnest request of the superintendent of the main school, taken the entire charge of the concert, and the way in which the program was arranged and carried out reflected great credit upon his efforts. The decorations were unusually pretty, and a large banner suspended in the centre, with "God is Love," made of different colored flowers, was particularly fine, and made very effective a recitation by six girls: "His banner over us is Love." Mr. Bent closed his remarks by extending a cordial invitation to all who were not attending any sabbath school, to come and join the Baptist school.

—The Read fund picnic will take place next week Saturday, at Spy Pond grove.

—The High School Alumni reunion on the 23rd is expected to be a very interesting meeting.

—Mr. Otis Childs arrived this week from Savannah, to make a visit to his son and his old friends here.

—The cards are out for the wedding of Miss Emma L. Graves, daughter of Mr. C. H. Graves, and Mr. W. H. Emerson, which will take place on the 25th.

—The closing exercises for the summer of Channing Sunday School, will be held in the church next Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. There will be addresses by the pastor, and by Rev. Edward E. Hale of Boston. All are cordially invited to be present.

—H. G. Crocker of this city won the 50 mile bicycle race at Crawfordsville, Ind., on Monday, after a close and exciting contest. His time was 3 hours, 34 minutes, and 55 seconds; Rhodes was two seconds later. Crocker would doubtless have won the 100 mile race, but he was prostrated by the heat and unable to finish.

—On Saturday will occur the field day of the Natural History Society at Marblehead. Parties have written to join it from Malden, Boston and other places, and it promises to be quite as successful as the excursion to the same place two years ago, when Rev. Dr. Shinn read a paper on the history of Marblehead. A special train has been secured.

—The pupils of the Bigelow school gave an exhibition of sewing Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 4 o'clock, which was very creditable to both scholars and their teacher, Miss Grant. The work was arranged on tables and against the walls in the upper hall, and included aprons, sashes and various garments, besides specimens of mending and embroidery. Some of the boys in Miss Shelton's class not to be outdone by the girls, exhibited some of their own work, and it was greatly admired.

—Eliot Hall was well filled last Sunday at the 4 o'clock service conducted by Mr. C. A. Lummus. The subject chosen was the Christian Life: "Faith in Christ for its beginning and its growth." The Society of Christian Endeavor from the Eliot church was represented, and imparted great interest to the meeting. Quotations from Scripture were freely given, bearing upon the topic discussed, and appropriate hymns were sung. Next Sunday the exercises will probably be the last for the season in Eliot Hall, as the open air meetings are usually held by the last Sunday in June, and Mr. Hiram Leonard will conduct the meeting.

—The historical correspondent of the Saturday Evening Gazette, who signs himself "Franklin," says that "the recent High School unpleasantness in Newton recalls to many of the old pupils in the Boston schools the famous school controversy of forty odd years ago, between the famous thirty-one Boston Schoolmasters and Horace Mann and his colleague, Wm. B. Fowle." There is this difference, he says, between the two cases, then the parents were indifferent, but "in the Newton case there sprang up a simultaneous feeling of indignation when it was learned that Mr. Cutler had sent in his resignation because the people knew, intuitively, that to preserve his dignity and self-respect was the only reason for resigning a position which he could not hold and maintain them. Then, again, the pupils past and present. Few school teachers have ever received such an ovation as Mr. Cutler has from his pupils since the division of the committee was made known. The matter is likely to enter largely into the future politics of the city as it already has into its social affairs."

Field Day.

As announced last week, the Newton Natural History society will hold a Field Day at Marblehead Neck on Saturday, June 18th. The requisite number (100) having been secured, the Boston & Maine railroad officials will give the society a special train, which will leave the Eastern Division depot, on Causeway street, at 9:55 a. m. Those unable to take that can take any following train, as the tickets are good on any train going or returning during that day. It is expected that the party will reach Boston in season to take the 6:30 p. m. train for Newton. All persons wishing to accompany the society are cordially invited to do so. The price of round-trip tickets from Boston to Marblehead and return is 50 cents. These tickets can be obtained at the ticket office in Boston on the morning of the 18th, or of Dr. J. F. Frisbie on the train. Should Saturday, the 18th, prove stormy, the excursion will take place on the following Saturday, June 25th. The party will leave the train at Devereaux, and walk to the beach which will be followed till the bluffs and rocky headland is reached. Lunch will be taken in the vicinity of the little chapel. Those who wish to explore Marblehead can go there and take the return train from Marblehead depot.

For Every-one in General and Yourself in Particular.

Money is always valuable but it is doubly so to one spending the summer away from home at some seaside or country resort. Here there seems to be no end to the number of ways in which money can be spent, the only difficulty being to find the money. Under this state of affairs the more money one takes with one the better. Those owning Newton Supply Company tickets can take the most, because they do not have to spend so much for their outfits. They buy their goods at a certain per centage less than the regular price. They obtain on trunks and bags a discount of 10 per cent., on tennis and sporting goods 15, on fishing tackle 10, on guns 10 to 25, on tennis and yachting shirts 10, on amateur photo outfits 10, and on artist's materials 20 per cent. Those who stay at home can also save money. Besides saving on the above goods they also save on many other articles; for example, they can save 10 to 25 per cent. on lawn mowers, 5 on gasolines, 10 on lamps and gas fixtures, and 7 to 10 on hats. Of course these are not all, not one-tenth in fact, but we must not write any more at present. We would, however, call your attention to the fact that we guarantee all our statements to be true, and that one holder of our tickets has saved in the last ten days fully $5. Remember our tickets cost $1, are good until July 1, 1888, and entitle holders to each and every discount given in the present catalogue or in any additions that may be issued. For tickets, catalogs and further information address, enclosing two cent stamp,

The Fete Champetre.

The fete champetre was a charming idea, as it gave the people from all parts of Newton a chance to meet together, and at the same time to help along two worthy charities. The spacious grounds of Messrs. J. Howard Nichols and E. C. Fitch on Sargent street were visited by large numbers, and in the evening especially a large crowd was present to listen to the concert by the American Watch company band, and to see the brilliant illuminations. The Electric Light company kindly furnished several lights, and rows of bright colored lanterns were suspended from the trees. The many special attractions did a large business and the result will be a generous sum for the two noble charities, "The Country Week" and "Fresh Air Fund." The Art Gallery with its "Gems of old and young Masters," was an especially popular feature, and caused much sport among the visitors. The fancy tables, the flower bowers, the candy booths, the Japanese tea house, were all popular, and in the afternoon and early evening the outdoor sports and Punch and Judy claimed the attention of the younger visitors.

Rev. O. W. Waldron, city missionary of Boston, under whose direction the Fresh Air Fund has done so much good, was present, besides a large number of guests from out of town. The entertainment was conceived by Misses Nellie Nichols and Mamie Fitch, who thought that a little out of door entertainment might prove both pleasant to their friends and helpful to the two charities; the idea proved so popular that it soon outgrew the original plans, and became a city affair; it was first talked of about three weeks ago, and shows what Newton can do when all the young people take hold of a worthy cause.

The officers were Miss Helen Emery, president; J. Howard Nichols, treasurer; Fred S. Converse, secretary; Henry Brooks and J. Howard Nichols, executive committee. It is estimated that the net receipts will amount to about $1,200, which is certainly a very gratifying result. The returns are not all in yet, so that the exact sum can not be stated. The greatest crowd was on the grounds at half-past eight, and the number at that time was fully 3,000. The receipts from the sale of tickets of admission was over $225.

Mr. Cutler's Private School.

Mr. Edward H. Cutler, late Head Master of the Newton High School, has been requested by many prominent citizens to establish a private preparatory school in Newton. It is said that he has consented to consider the matter, and would like to hear from those who would patronize such a school if established. It would be a fortunate thing for Newton to have such a school established here, if Mr. Cutler could be induced to remain and take charge of it. One of the most prominent educators in Massachusetts said to a representative of the Graphic this week, that he could not imagine what Newton people could be thinking of to allow Mr. Cutler to retire from his High School. He did not know him personally, but he had long known him by reputation, and considered him one of the best teachers in the state. Such words from such a source was a flattering tribute to Mr. Cutler, but it will not surprise the majority of the citizens of Newton, as it merely expresses their own opinion.

The Public Library Dedication.

—The Newton Free Library will be dedicated on Friday, the 17th inst. at 7:30 p. m. Admission will be by ticket. It is intended to have a half hour's examination of the library building, and the dedicatory services to take place at 8 o'clock. The library will be open for the inspection of visitors on Saturday from 2 to 8 p. m., and for the delivery of books on and after Monday the 20th inst, from 10 to 12, and from 2 to 8 o'clock.

Commencement Day at Lasell.

Commencement Day at Lasell attracted a large number of alumni and friends. The exercises took place in the Methodist church, which was filled to overflowing. At 10:45 the exercises opened with orchestra music by members of the American Watch Company band. Rev. B. K. Pierce offered prayer. Singing by a male quartette followed, and then Arthur Gillman, M. A., of the Harvard Annex, gave the commencement address, "Education and Progress" being the subject. He traced the advance made in the instruction of women, showing that during the past century this had been most rapid, until women have now an opportunity to fit themselves thoroughly in practical and literary culture. The "Good-by for the class" was pretty rendered by Miss Blanche Maie Lowe, and then diplomas were presented to the graduates, the titles of their essays being given with the names. Following is the class of graduates:

Florence Evelyn Bailey, Erie, Penn.; Lizzie Brainard Burnham, Essex, Mass.; Emma Bruce Civill, Coeymans, N. Y.; Carrie Salome Foster, Waltham, Mass.; Sallie Head, Hooksett, N. H.; Agnes Cole Kingman, Bridgewater, Mass.; Blanche Maie Lowe, Norristown, Penn.; Anna Mitchell, Martinsville, Penn.; Jane Nide, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Mary Frances Noyes, Natick, Mass.; Hattie Lavinia Robbins, Union, Me.; Grace Irene Semberling, Akron, O.; Mervy Stevens Sinsbaugh, Washington, D. C.; Rose Marie Welt, Rockland, Me. Graduates in pianoforte, Winifred Rebecca Adams and Jane Nide.

For the broad makers Prof. Bragdon awarded a small gold loaf as first prize to Miss Louise Dietrick, and a silver loaf as second prize to Miss Mamie Heck. In the afternoon the Lasell Alumnae Association held its annual reunion in the chapel of the college, and Mrs. Abba Gould Woolson read an interesting treatise on "The American Woman Abroad and at Home." She eschewed the prevalent idea that American women were considered vulgar by their European sisters, ridiculed the practice of our fashionable women aspiring to the ways and manners of English women by fearing to move in their native land without a chaperone, and trusted the day would never come when the freedom and independence of our girls would be hampered by a spy as watcher of their actions. After several vocal selections the hymn composed for the occasion by Mrs. Ada L. Collins, of the class of '83, was sung by the audience. The officers for the ensuing year are: President, Miss Lizzie Whipper; vice-president, Miss Nellie Packard; treasurer, Miss Martha B. Lucas; secretary, Mrs. Nellie Ferguson Count. Prof. and Mrs. Bragdon's reception Tuesday evening was a brilliant affair and very largely attended.

SEVERAL articles of great interest on the High School question, and a good deal of other interesting matter is crowded out this week, on account of the pressure upon our advertising columns. Advertisers evidently appreciate the paper that has the largest list of paying subscribers.

City Government.

The board of common council met Monday evening, President Coffin presiding. Other members present—Councilmen Kennedy, Tyler, Powell, Burr, Pond, Reed, Dix, Fiske, Redpath, Moody and Chadwick.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. President Coffin called Councilman Burr to the chair, as he had an engagement.

Business from the board of aldermen was disposed of in concurrence.

When the resolution requesting the committee on ordinances to look into the advisability of establishing the office of City Forester and Superintendent of Street Lights, and reporting an ordinance to that effect, came up, Councilman Redpath said that he hoped the committee would carefully consider the matter. If a competent man was secured, he would find an abundance of work to do in the two positions. The work of looking after the street lights had grown far beyond the power of the street light committee to attend to, and he illustrated this by stating that the other evening he and the chairman of the committee took a ride about the city to see the condition of the lights. On some streets they found the foliage so thick on the trees that the gas lamps were of very little use, and either the trees needed trimming or the lamps should be moved. They found five or six of the oil lamps in very poor condition, and all the oil lamps needed looking after. If there had been such an official as a superintendent of street lights, the city could have accepted the offer of the Gas company to furnish gas at so much a thousand, and enough money would have been saved to pay the official's salary.

Councilman Tyler asked if it was contemplated to establish the office this year, as the gas contract had already been made. The question of establishing such an office was a very important one, and such an official was needed. There were a number of parks in the city to be looked after, and the young trees there needed careful trimming, to keep them in shape and prevent them from growing up into ugliness. It was even more important in Newton to have such an official to look after our parks and young trees on the streets, than it was to have such an official in Boston, where the trees were older and so needed less care. The question should be thoroughly understood and canvassed, although he did not favor establishing the office the present year.

Councilman Redpath said it was not contemplated to appoint an official this year, but only to have the committee look up the matter and see what ordinances were needed. Nothing could be done before another year. The matter was referred.

The order for a second water main to Lower Falls through Grove street, without guarantee, was explained by Councilman Dix, who said that the work should have been done last year, when the main to the Boston & Albany round house was laid, as the guarantee from the railroad would have been ample to cover the whole work. The order passed unanimously.

A report from the board of assessors was received, recommending that the assessment of $17,000 made by the county commissioners on the assessment of the Newton Mills be made, and that $247.10 be returned to the proprietors. Such a course had the approval of the city solicitor, and an order to that effect was passed.

Councilman Reed presented a petition from residents of Appleton and Knowles street, asking that the first street be laid out, graded and accepted by the city, and the second as far as Chase street; referred to the committee on highways.

A petition was read from residents of Boylston street, asking that a plank sidewalk be laid from the Brookline line as far as the Jamaica Pond Ice company's house.

A petition was received from A. S. Glover and other residents of Prince street, asking for three street lamps on that street. Councilman Redpath from the street light committee reported in favor of granting the petition of Charles H. Burroughs for one oil lamp on Kingsbury street, Ward 6, and that of Chas. F. Rana for one gas lamp on Richardson street, in front of Eliot Place. The gas lamp on the opposite side of Richardson street, was ordered removed to a position nearer Centre street.

Councilman Kennedy reported from the public property committee on the petition of the school board for the purchase of a lot for a school house in Thompsonville, that the committee had examined several lots near the junction of Jackson and Station streets, but found difficulty in getting a lot of the right size, as the owners held them at fabulous prices. They had finally found three lots on the right side of Station street, going towards Jackson, each 15 by 24 feet, and containing some 32,000 feet, which could be bought for $25.50. An order was passed appropriating that sum. At present a building owned by the Theological Institution is used for a school house, but it is too small to accommodate the increasing numbers of pupils in the school.

Councilman Kennedy also reported from the public property committee, an order appropriating $2,000 for the improvement of the sanitary arrangements at the bigelow school house, Ward 7. He said that the committee for the past three years had included money for this improvement in the annual appropriations, but other more pressing work had been done in place of it. The work must be done during the summer vacation, and the need for it was imperative.

Councilman Redpath asked if the committee had received any bid, so that they could tell just what the work would cost.

Councilman Kennedy said the committee had been so unfavorably criticized for getting bids in advance of the passage of an order, that they had not asked for any bids. They had, however, obtained the estimate of an architect.

Councilman Tyler said that this school was the last work of the lamented Dr. Bigelow, who had caught cold in planting trees in the yard, which had resulted in his death. That was 21 years ago, and since then nothing had been done to the school buildings except to give them a coat of paint at intervals. It was one of the largest grammar schools in the city, and the improvement had long been needed.

The order was adopted, after which the council adjourned.

Eliot Sunday School Anniversary.

The Eliot Sunday School observed very pleasantly its 42d anniversary last Sunday morning in Eliot Hall. At a quarter of eleven the members of the school, 400 in number, led by the Superintendent and the Young People's Choir, marched in singing "Onward Christian Soldier," and took the seats reserved for them in the centre of the house. The Young People's Choir occupied the place of the regular choir.

After all were seated the pastor, Rev. Dr. Calkins, welcomed in a few words both the scholars and the teachers. The anthems by the choir were splendidly sung and showed that Mr. Cobb had not been idle.

The report of the Superintendent, Mr. H. E. Cobb, was interesting. It showed that there were 388 present members of the school, and 42 teachers. The average attendance for the year was 262. The contributions amounted to $458. Only 2 deaths are recorded.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. Calkins, then addressed the children in his usual interesting style. His text was in Mark 12th, chapter, 1st verse. He said that in this country there were no hedges. What we call hedges are merely evergreens or some other tree trimmed and valued for ornament. In England the hedges are stout thick shrubs, which twine and intertwine as they grow older, and the thickest allow no passages for even a field mouse. A friend of his, he said, went out west some twenty-five years ago. He bought a large tract of land which had a valuable growth of black-walnut. This black-walnut he cut down and split up to make a fence. His fence was good enough for a time, but now it had rotted away. If he had planted a species of hedge which grows in England he would now have a fence becoming stronger every year, and also his valuable timber. The vineyard which Christ plants and builds a hedge about is the Home. This hedge is the mother's affection. It keeps the children from straying away. Dr. Calkins went on to say that while addressing an audience of French working people in Paris he wanted to use the expression "Come Home." Turning to a friend with him he asked for the word home. He was surprised to find that there was no such word in the French language. To illustrate how valuable he considered the home he explained to the audience its meaning, and taught them to repeat after him the English word "home."

Dr. Calkins' address was interesting and well adapted to impress the children with the value of home and home influences.

Just before the benediction the primary department of the Sunday School rose, and each member received a geranium plant, a gift from the superintendent, Mr. H. E. Cobb.

The next anniversary of the school will be celebrated in January, as it has been decided to change the time from June to that month.

The need of merit for promoting personal cleanliness, is due to J. C. Ayer & Co., whose Hair Vigor is a universal beautifier of the hair. Harmless, effective, and agreeable, it ranks among the indispensable toilet articles.

The "Hub" Wraps & Drawers.

(Pat. Aug. 8, 1871.)

Have many superior advantages over all others. Letter F, in cut, shows the PATENTED SUSPENSORY GORE, which prevents chafing, and removes all disagreeable points, such as seams, extra cloth and tightening over the knee; it removes the unpleasant feeling experienced in all others, both for men and domestic, and is indispensable for large men that appreciate comfort. Also the wrap-opening in front—gives it a superiority of adjustment; it is in fact, as it remains, in position and is not so oppressive in warm weather as the high weights of merino fabric (and for winter wear has a chest protector attached which prevents colds and neuralgia, catarrh, pneumonia, &c.), as thousands will testify to its value. Tourists' Shirts, Lawn Tennis and Base Ball Suits; also a full line of Foreign Flannels. Those wishing to order by mail, send tailor's measure of pants and coat.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL.

The prosperity of the GRAPHIC is evidently not a pleasant subject of contemplation in the Journal office. We regret, for the credit of Newton journalism, the pitiable exhibition of bad manners the Journal made last week. Any publisher who allows such an article to appear in his columns owes an apology to his readers. As far as the GRAPHIC is concerned, it can never again speak of the Journal as its "esteemed contemporary" unless an abject apology is made.

The statement of facts made by the GRAPHIC was a modest one, and inside of the truth. It has a larger number of paying subscribers upon its books than the Journal can exhibit, and not only this, but the average circulation of the GRAPHIC does not differ largely from the paid circulation of the Journal. We do not send out boys with big bundles of papers to distribute free, and our exchange and free list is less than half that of most papers of our circulation. These facts we are prepared to prove.

If the GRAPHIC has grown at the expense of the Journal, it is only an exemplification of the "Survival of the fittest," as the GRAPHIC has for some time been conceded to be the ablest paper in Newton.

One reason for the GRAPHIC's remarkable growth is that it does not publish "five and one-third columns of new advertisements a week." It is easy enough to fill up a paper with advertisements, if the prices are put low enough, but few readers buy a paper solely for the advertisements it contains.

As for the Journal's statement that "it is absolutely impossible for anyone to even approximate with any degree of accuracy the circulation of any paper in the absence of any facts," we would only advise our neighbor to put such facts in the possession of himself and his agents at once, so that they may not make such wild and conflicting guesses at its circulation, when talking with possible advertisers. Such guesses would prove embarrassing if they should get into print.

It is as impossible for a publisher to conceal the exact size of his circulation, as it is for an ostrich to hide by simply burying its head in the sand. Some indiscreet employee is sure to let out the secret, and the Journal's statement that all the facts of its circulation "are known only to us" will merely call out a smile at its simplicity. The facts are and can be known to any one who cares to take the trouble to find out. Honesty is the best policy for newspapers as well as for other people, and for this reason, if for no higher one, the GRAPHIC has always contented itself with giving the exact figures, and has instructed its agents to do the same. Such a plan gives a publisher a very comfortable feeling, and he is never afraid to let strangers enter his work-room, or to let his employees have confidential talks with outsiders.

We have stated the facts about the relative circulation of the two papers merely to protect ourselves. The Journal has asserted that the GRAPHIC's circulation "is not quite one-third the average circulation of the Newton Journal," and asked advertisers to govern themselves by this. The statement may possibly have been true years ago, but it is very far now from being the truth. We do not care whether the Journal estimates its own circulation correctly or not, it is not our mission to correct that, but when the claim is publicly made that "the Journal's circulation is more than double that of any other publication," see Blue Book and Directory, we are called upon to defend our rights by stating the truth.

Merit generally wins in the end, and judging from the experience of the past year it will not be many months before the GRAPHIC takes its place at the head of the procession in regard to circulation, as it is already conceded to have done in other respects.

In conclusion we would tender this free advice to our disturbed temporary: Be sure and put up iron shutters over your glass house before you throw any more stones.

A NEEDED OFFICIAL.

The recommendation made by the Street Light Committee, in regard to a City Forester and Superintendent of Street Lamps, was an excellent one, and the committee on ordinances will do well to make provision for such an official. It is too late of course to have the office created this year, but another year provision should be made for it. On the gas contract alone, it is said that the saving would be sufficient to pay the official's salary, and he could then see that all the street lights were in good order and kept lighted during the regular hours. At present, what is everybody's business is nobody's business, and many complaints are being made.

The time required for the street light committee to look after the lamps and their location, to see that the lamps are not obstructed by foliage, and the thousand and one details, is an unfair tax upon them, and consumes altogether too much of their time. Business men can not afford to serve in the city government, if their duties are so arduous, and as the city grows, the duties will increase until it will be impossible to get good men to accept an office.

The care of our parks is another duty that such an official could assume. At present, the parks are assigned to the councilman who lives nearest to them, and he has to spend a large share of his time in seeing that they are kept in order. The young and growing trees ought to be carefully trimmed under the supervision of a skilful man, and, as Councilman Tyler said, for this reason a City Forester is more of a necessity in Newton than in Boston. The young trees along the public streets also need looking after, the older trees should be trimmed to a proper height above the street and sidewalks, and if such an official is appointed, he will be one of the busiest men in Newton.

Alderman Hollis, Councilman Redpath, and the other members of the street light committee, endorse the proposed movement, and all who are acquainted with the demands made upon their time, realize the necessity of creating such an office.

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

We would like to ask a few simple questions of our "irritated contemporary." Why should it get angry at any increase of the GRAPHIC's circulation, unless its own is falling off? What does it know about papers being "distributed free each week or fortnight?" Its experience might give a brother editor, who has an "elephant on his hands" some valuable points. So far, we have found that white paper costs too much for us to afford to distribute free copies to any extent. With its professed high regard for truth, and its fear lest "well-meaning people will be misled," why does it not quote from the GRAPHIC correctly? We did not say that we had a "larger circulation," but only a larger "subscription list." Lastly, if it doubted our statement, the polite and gentlemanly way would have been to have challenged us to compare subscription books, which we are perfectly willing to do at any time. We have taught the Journal a great deal during the past year, as its close imitation of every new feature started in the GRAPHIC has proved, but we did not think we should have to teach it the first principles of good manners. "Lie" is not a word used by newspapers which make any pretence to respectability. The Journal should buy a dictionary and look up some synonymous term which is allowed by polite usage. We would suggest prevaricate or exaggerate, as expressing the same idea, or if a more round-about term is desired it might say "troubled with a too vivid imagination," or "mistook his wish for the fact," but "lie" is hopelessly vulgar and smacks of the gutters and the back alleys. The Journal has improved so much during the past year under our tuition, that we really hoped that in time it would become quite a respectable newspaper, but its outbreak of last week was very discouraging, and we fear that its case is hopeless.

The Republican city committee of Newton has organized by electing C. Bowditch Coffin as chairman; E. W. Bailey, secretary; James T. Allen, treasurer. The announcement is also made that a committee was appointed to organize a Republican club. The Republicans of Newton have shown so far little interest about this work, as clubs have been already formed in most of the cities and towns of the state, but there is yet plenty of time for all the political work that will be necessary this fall. American people as a rule do not care for politics all the year round, but like it served up hot in the last few months or weeks before an election. The few "faithful" ones can keep their enthusiasm on tap the year round, but they are the exception and not the rule. If a club is formed here, it is to be hoped that it will make a clear and frank statement of its objects and purposes, and that it will be conducted on a higher plane than some of the so-called Republican clubs which have been formed in other places.

The legislature made short work about the bill for the supervision of schools, it being defeated in the house by a vote of 2 to 1. Representative Wood spoke in its favor, but the sentiment was too strongly against it. The general feeling seems to be that there is altogether too much red tape now about our school system, and that the results are not as good now as they were when more simple methods were in vogue. Representative Upham of Salem spoke very strongly against the bill and said that his city had abolished superintendents, and did not believe in them. They would produce irritation, and the bill would merely provide places for superannuated teachers. A somewhat remarkable fact was that the daily press of the state was almost unanimous against the bill.

The soldiers' exemption bill has passed the senate and now awaits Governor Ames' signature or his veto. He would find a good deal of practical wisdom if he should re-read Governor Robinson's veto of last year. The Newton Civil Service Reform association has sent a strong protest against the bill to Governor Ames, on the grounds that it is contrary to reform principles, that it is an covert attack on the civil service law, and that it will really benefit, if enacted, very few veterans.

The salary grab bill has passed the house, although by only one majority. Both Messrs. Wood and Walworth voted against it.

—Mrs. Fitch has returned from her Connecticut visit.

—Mrs. Fayette Shaw is visiting friends among the Berkshire Hills.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Sladen are to be congratulated. It is a son.

—The Parlor Literary Union make an excursion to Marblehead on the 17th.

—Miss Lillie Keith goes to Le Roy, New York on Friday for a prolonged stay.

—Miss Fanny Tewksbury has gone to Salem, Mass., for a couple of months.

—Mrs. William Tewksbury has gone to Portland, Conn., for a two week's visit.

—Mrs. Roberts has been in Salem for nearly a week, to visit a sister who is ill.

—The Universalist Sunday school have their annual picnic June 30, at Downer's Landing.

—Mr. John Crane has come out to take up his customary abode with his brother for the summer.

—Miss Annie Call and Mrs. T. B. Lindsay have gone to Jaffrey, New Hampshire, for a week's change.

—Mr. Smead made a flying trip on business the first of the week, to Northern New York and back.

—Mr. F. A. Dewson, who accompanied the Rev. John Worcester on his trip to Detroit, Mich., has returned.

—We understand that Miss Belle Blodgett and Mr. Elias Jones are to be married next week. The wedding is to be a quiet one.

—Miss A. M. Beecher and Mrs. C. A. Shedd and Miss Kittie, are spending a few weeks at the Shirley House, Ocean Spray.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Morse and family, accompanied by Miss Brainerd, sail for Europe in July to be gone two years or more.

—Mr. Alex. Chisholm, while walking about an unfinished house last Saturday, fell and bruised himself, very narrowly escaping serious injuries.

—Mrs. Grenville Macomber gave a very enjoyable lunch party to some lady friends from out of town last Saturday, at her home on Watertown street.

—Mr. A. E. Pennell of Boston has rented one-half of the Richards house on Newtonville avenue, and Mr. W. J. Holand of Boston has rented the other half.

—The cards are out for the wedding of Miss Florence Hoogs and Mr. Albert Brackett, which will take place June 20th, in Grace church, Newton, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

—The exhibition of the sewing done in the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th grades of the public schools during this year was given in the hall over the Congregational church on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

—Mrs. J. Wesley Kimball and daughter will sail for Europe on the German line steamer Eider, from New York, July 9, and will spend a year in Germany. Mrs. Chas. T. Pulsifer and daughter sail on the same steamer.

—The engagement of Mr. Adams D. Cladin and Miss Agnes Walker, daughter of Mr. J. H. Walker of Worcester, is announced. Mr. Cladin graduated at Harvard in '86, and is the youngest son of ex-Gov. Cladin.

—The cards are out for the wedding of Miss Lillian Lancy and Mr. Alonzo Curtis, which will take place in the Methodist church, Thursday evening, June 30, at 8 o'clock. A reception follows immediately after the ceremony at Mr. Dustin Lancy's on Washington street.

—It will be with pain and sorrow that the many friends of the Rev. E. Frank Howe will learn of his failing strength and health. The memory of his pastorate here will be tenderly cherished by all denominations, in whose hearts he will always hold a place of affection and respect.

—The eighth class of the Adams school with its teacher, Mr. Spinnay, and the ninth class of the Cladin school of the same place, with its teacher, Mr. Sylvester—51 in all—visited Fort Warren last Saturday, and enjoyed a basket picnic. They went on the steamer Gen. Lincoln.

—The children's concert given in the Congregational church last Sunday evening, was very interesting and enjoyable. One especial feature was giving a plant to each member of the school by the superintendent, Mr. Frank Gaffield, and an extra large one was presented to the pastor.

—The Band Concert on the proposed public park, on Wednesday evening, was a very enlightening feature in the events of the out-door life of the week. A large number of people congregated in the vicinity, and the only drawback was the chilliness of the evening, which suggested October rather than June.

—Next Sunday being children's Sunday in the Universalist church, the morning service will be devoted to the children, and largely made up of recitations and songs by the little ones, and the usual evening concert will be done away with. The hour will be 10:45 as usual. A number of infants will be christened. All are invited.

—The meeting of citizens to discuss the project of buying the land in the rear of the Methodist church for a public park, was postponed from Wednesday night to next Thursday evening, when it will be held in the waiting room at the station. The Newton City Band will give another concert the same evening on the proposed park.

—The session of the High School committee last Friday evening would have been largely attended, had it not been an executive one. The trouble between the military instructor, Captain Brown, and the officers of the High School Battalion was settled by Captain Brown's accepting a modified apology, and the officers were reinstated. The affair has been a rather ridiculous one on both sides.

WEST NEWTON.

—Miss Hattie Avery contemplates going abroad early in July.

—Mr. Fred. Barker has returned from his long journey in Europe.

—Mr. Fisher Ames went to New York on Thursday to be absent until the first of next week.

—Mr. Sydney of Germantown, Penn., will occupy the house of Mr. S. N. Waters on Webster Park for the summer.

—Col. D. W. Wardrup, formerly of this ward, has been elected colonel of the Boston Light Infantry Association.

—Mr. A. S. Glover, A. F. Noyes and H. N. Hyde, Jr., have been in Manchester, N. H., this week, attending the convention of the New England Water Works Association.

—Mr. and Mrs. Severance have returned from their California home to spend a few months with friends at the East.

—Mr. H. Eugene Fleming was taken suddenly ill, Sunday, with angina pectoris, but has now nearly recovered from the attack, and is able to be out again.

—Mr. Edward Drew, who has been in the Custom Service in China, will soon return to West Newton and occupy the house of Mrs. Purdee on Templestreet.

—A Baptismal Service will occur at the 1st Baptist church, Washington and Perkins streets, next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Singing by a chorus choir from the Sunday School. Public cordially invited to be present.

—Mr. Geo. Sheppard of Elm street celebrated his ninetieth birthday last Saturday. He is in perfect health and spent the afternoon of his birthday in talking over old times with his venerable friend, Mr. Seth Davis.

—On Wednesday there was a great crowd in the police court, as the case of James A. Perry, the colored man who threatened a number of people with a revolver, was to come up. He was bound over in the sum of $300 for his appearance before the grand jury.

—A few of the little girls in the Sunday School of the Unitarian church held a fair this Friday, p. m. on the lawn of Mr. Geo. Homer, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the Cottage Hospital. A large number of tickets have been sold, and it promises to be a great success.

—By the resignation of Miss E. G. Bates the Newton schools lose one of their best teachers. She has been for eighteen years a teacher in Newton, is now principal of the Davis School, and has been very successful, not only in imparting knowledge, but in gaining the love and respect of her pupils.

—Mrs. E. N. L. Walton of Chestnut street entertained the young ladies of her Sunday School class very pleasantly last Saturday. Twenty-three were present to supper, and in the evening a musicale was held, in which Misses Lovett, Allen, Tyier, Stewart, Pratt, Coffin and Chase took part, and to which the parents were invited.

—The Floral Service at the Unitarian church last Sunday, was a very interesting occasion. The subject of Mr. Jaynes' address to the children was "Eye Service," making it instructive and interesting by a pleasing anecdote and illustration. The floral decorations were very fine, and the bouquets contributed by the children were taken in the p. m. to Boston by a benevolent gentleman, and distributed among the poor children at the North End.

—Sergeant Davis found the little son of John J. Jarvis, of Watertown, who strayed away from home Tuesday night. His father had taken him to have his hair cut, and then let him start home alone. He mistook the street, and was found about 8 o'clock in the evening by Mrs. Priest of Derby street, who took him in and cared for him. Searching parties were out all night, having traced him to West Newton, and the relief was great when Sergeant Davis discovered him.

—By the death of Mr. Geo. Fuller, West Newton loses one of its oldest residents. He was born in this place in 1811. At the age of fifteen he went to Charlestown and learned his trade. He conducted a large carriage and sign painting business there until 1856, and was a member of the Hancock Fire Engine Co. of that place. In 1856 he came to West Newton, and ever since has carried on his business here. He was a very expert painter and established a large business. He was a member of Dalhousie Lodge of Newton Royal Arch Chapter, of Waban Lodge, I. O. F., and of the Veteran Fire Association of Boston. He leaves many friends to mourn his loss.

—The annual exhibition of sewing took place in the hall of the Pierce School, Tuesday. The four schools of the village were united in the exhibition. Eight tables were filled with the work of the scholars, and a large number of articles were arranged around the side of the room. The materials for the work were given by the pupils, and the articles were returned to the owners after the exhibition. The sewing showed that great progress had been made during the year, the credit of which is due to Miss Grant and Miss Dix, the sewing teachers. The younger children especially showed great proficiency in the useful art. The hall was crowded with parents and friends from 2:30 to 5, and all expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied.

—Newton Lodge, No. 92, I. O. F., was instituted Wednesday afternoon and evening in Nickerson's Hall, by the grand lodge officers. The following are the officers elected and installed: E. O. Childs, N. G.; F. M. Dutch, V. G.; Robert Bennett, R. S.; G. D. Gilman, treasurer; W. H. French, P. S.; C. B. Lentell, warden; J. D. Henthorn, conductor; C. F. Haynes, R. S. N. G.; James Utley, L. S. N. G.; William H. Mardon, R. S. V. G.; A. Hudson, L. S. V. G. In the evening about 150 members were initiated, after which an adjournment was made to City Hall, where tables were set for some 400 persons, and every seat was filled, all present being members of the order, or candidates. Noble Grand Childs presided, and after supper came speeches from Deputy Grand Master Taber, Grand Warden Pinkerton of Worcester, Grand Treasurer Julius L. Clarke, Mayor Kimball and Dr. Albert Nott. It is now thought that the Lodge will have 280 members.

—A piano recital for graduation was given by Miss Emma I. Upham, daughter of Edward Upham, Esq., of this city, in the Sleeper Hall, New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, on Tuesday, June 14, at 3 p. m. Miss Upham is a pupil of Prof. J. C. D. Parker, and rendered the following classical program, assisted by Miss Mamie Hitch, vocalist, pupil of Prof. W. A. Daverport:

Beethoven.....	Sonata, Op. 53.
Donizetti.....	Romanza and Cabaletta.
Bach.....	Lucrèce Borgia.
Allegro moderato—Ariante—Presto
Mendelssohn.....	(a) The First Violin.
	(b) Spring Song.
Chopin.....	Nocturne, Op. 62, No. 1.
Schumann.....	Faschingsschwank in Wien.
	(First Movement.)

Miss Upham's execution was firm and clear, showing thoroughness in technique, the result of years of hard and persevering study. The difficult compositions of Bach and Beethoven were well rendered, and showed much musical appreciation of the themes as they appeared and reappeared in their relation. The lighter movements of Chopin and Schumann were also well performed, especially the Schumann composition. Miss Hitch possesses a clear and sweet soprano voice of great range, and sang with acceptance the selections named. The audience was appreciative, and the hall is a beautiful room for musical effects. Miss Upham is to be heartily congratulated on her successful debut as a pianist of much ability and promise.

—The Woman's Educational Club had forty-five members and guests at its Field Day on Tuesday, and they started off at an early hour in two large barges, and a wagonette, on their ride to Farm Pond in Sherborn. These gentlemen accompanied the party, City Auditor Otis, and Messrs. Chas. S. Davis and T. A. Fleu. They made their first stop at the Bacon Library in South Natick, where the officers, who had received notice of their coming, received them and showed them about the library, the rooms of the Natural History Society underneath, the old tree outside, under which Eliot preached to the Indians, the famous Bigelow house, the house in which the late Calvin Stowe was born, and which served as the scene of some of the events in "Old Town Folks." After about an hour had been spent in visiting these places, the party started on and reached Captain Leland's Farm Pond, where they found a beautiful grove, a house fitted up for the needs of picnic parties, and a large lake with row boats. After the basket picnic, to which coffee and ice cream were added, the party rested for a couple of hours, when they were called together to listen to a paper by Mrs. Walton, on the work of Eliot, the Indian Apostle. The facts about this remarkable man were stated, together with many stories and anecdotes, and the paper was an important contribution to the early history of this locality. Mrs. Martin followed with a paper in regard to the last descendants of the Indians to whom Eliot preached. She had known two of them, who were employed as domestic servants, and she repeated many interesting traditions gathered from them. At 3:30 the party started on its return trip, stopping at the famous Hunnewell gardens, through which they strolled. At Wellesley College the party stopped again to see the statue of Harriet Martineau, and also visited the Browning room and the library. They arrived home at 6:30, having had one of the most successful field days in the history of the club.

AUBURNDALE.

—Chief Engineer W. H. Harris, U. S. N., has been in town this week.

—Mr. W. D. Howells and family have left Lee's, and gone to Saratoga Springs.

The new concrete walk around the Methodist church is a great improvement.

—Miss Louise Imogene Quincy has a poem on "John Brown" in this week's Independent.

—Misses Mary and Clarice Howard of Seaverns street have gone to Richfield Springs, N. Y.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Robinson are registered as among the arrivals at the Lincoln House, Hingham.

—Prof. Dragoon's paintings, which he sent from Germany last winter, have attracted much attention from the guests at Lasell this week.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Luquien have left their house on Central street for the summer to Mr. W. P. Shreve of Boston, and gone with their family to South Duxbury, Mass.

—Mrs. Mary Grant Cramer, formerly of Auburn, sister of Gen. Grant, is one of the workers at a revival being held at the old Jones street Methodist church, New York city.

—Cards are out for the marriage of Rev. W. E. Strong of Auburn, to Miss Ellen Olmstead, to occur Tuesday evening, June 28, at Park Congregational church, Hartford, Conn.

—Miss Elizabeth J. Gardner, the distinguished American artist, who has resided in Paris many years, has received at the Salon exhibition this year the much coveted highly honorable medal. Miss Gardner is a native of Exeter, N. H., a graduate of Lasell Seminary, and the first American female artist ever honored in Paris as above mentioned. Her many friends will be delighted to learn of this crowning tribute to her unquestioned talent.

—The first of a series of four orchestral concerts, to be given on successive Saturday nights, took place at the Newton Boat club house at Riverside, last Saturday evening. About 150 ladies and gentlemen were in attendance. Rollinson's orchestra furnished a fine program of music, and dancing was enjoyed. Thirty boat loads enjoyed the music as it came to them over the water. The committee of arrangements were Messrs. H. C. Churchill and Frank M. Crehore.

—Children's day was very appropriately observed by the Sunday school and congregation of the Congregational church Sunday afternoon, at four o'clock. The church was handsomely decorated with plants and flowers. One of the features of the services was the baptism of four infants, and the presentation of bibles to about twenty children of the Sunday school who had previously been baptized. The children gave a delightful program of music, recitations, and an address was given by Rev. F. N. Poloubet of Natick, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

—The sad news came to us last week of the death of Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Chandler, at their home in Rushville, N. H. Laura will be remembered in Auburn, where her father was principal of the grammar school, as a bright, pleasant little girl of 12 years, and showing much promise. Her health began to fail before the family left Auburn, and it was hoped that the change to the west might benefit her, but it was not to be. She failed gradually and was at last called home. Her remains were brought back and laid at rest at Kingston, Mass. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of a host of friends throughout Newton.

Summer Cooking

An entirely new apparatus for summer use,

THE FAMOUS OIL RANGE.

Not an oil stove, but a Range, having four large holes, and possessing the capacity of an ordinary coal stove, and is run with greater ease and at less expense. The cost is about a cent an hour while in use. It is as simple as an ordinary lamp. Will do all the cooking and laundry work of a family of six to ten persons, making it unnecessary to use the coal stove during the summer. The "FAMOUS" is the highest grade Oil Cooking apparatus ever made, and those who want an Oil Stove that will do all kinds of cooking and last for years, will give it the preference. Ask your dealer for it or call at our warerooms and see it in actual use.

THE SHOT AT THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

A BULLET THROUGH LINCOLN'S HAT.—HIS CHARACTERISTIC STYLE OF TELLING THE STORY—HIS WISH TO KEEP THE AFFAIR QUIET—HIS COURAGE AND EQUANIMITY.

The attention of Mr. Ward H. Lamon having been called to an account given by Mr. John W. Nichols in a Washington paper, of the attempt on the life of Lincoln in 1862, while he was returning from the Executive Mansion to his summer residence at the Soldiers' Home, that gentleman furnishes the Evening Star of Washington with the following interesting narrative of the affair as given by Mr. Lincoln himself:—

In the spring and early summer of that year I persistently urged upon Lincoln the necessity of a military escort to accompany him to and from his residence and place of business, and he as persistently opposed my proposition, always saying when the subject was referred to, that there was not the slightest occasion for such precaution. Sometime, however, in the month of August, 1862, one morning he came riding up to the White House steps, where I met him. He had a merry twinkle in his eye that presaged fun of some kind, and I instantly saw that there was either music in the air or blood on the moon, and before he alighted he said: "I have something to tell you!" and, after going into his office with him, he locked the doors, sat down and commenced his narration. (At this distance of time I will not pretend to give the language verbatim of this interview, but will state it according to my best recollection.) Said he: "You know I have always told you I thought you an idiot, and ought to be put in a straight jacket for your apprehensions of my personal safety and danger from assassinations. You also know that the way we skulked into this city in the first place has been a source of shame and regret to me, for it does look so cowardly!" To all of which I simply assented, "Yes, go on."

"Well," said he, "I don't now propose to make you my father confessor, and acknowledge a change of heart, yet I am free to admit that just now I don't know what to think—I am staggered; understand me, I do not want to oppose my pride of opinion against light and reason, but I am in such a state of bewilderment in my conclusions that I can't say that the judgment of this court is prepared to proclaim a reliable decision upon the facts presented." He paused; I requested him to go on, for I was in painful suspense. He then proceeded: "Last night, about 11 o'clock, I went alone, riding 'Old Abe,' as you call him," (a horse he delighted in riding), "and when I arrived at the foot of the hill on the road leading to the Home grounds, I was jogging along at a slow gait, immersed in deep thought, contemplating what was next to happen in the unsettled state of affairs, when suddenly I was aroused—I may say the arousal lifted me out of my saddle as well as out of my wits—by the report of a rifle and seemingly the gunner was not fifty yards from where my contemplations ended and my accelerated transit began. My erratic namesake, with little notice, gave decided proof of dissatisfaction at the racket, and with one reckless bound he unceremoniously separated himself as well as myself from my eight-dollar plug-hat, with which we parted without any assent, expressed or implied upon my part. At a break-neck speed we soon arrived in a haven of safety. Erstwhile I was left in doubt whether death was more preferable from being thrown from a runaway Federal horse, or from the more tragic result of a rifle fired by a disloyal bushwhacker in the middle of the night."

This was all told in as spirit of levity; he seemed unwilling, even in appearance, to attach that importance to the event which I was disposed to give to it. He seemed to want to believe it a joke. "Now," said he, "in the face of this testimony in favor of your theory of danger to me personally, I can't bring myself to believe that anyone has or will deliberately shoot at me with the purpose of killing me; although I must acknowledge that I heard this fellow a bullet whistle uncomfortably at an inconvenient distance from these headquarters of mine which rested in the saddle." He then further proceeded to say: "I have about concluded that the shot was the result of accident. It may be someone on his return from a day's hunt, regardless of the course of his discharge, fired off his gun as a precautionary measure of safety to his family after reaching his house."

This was said with much sensibility. He then playfully proceeded: "I tell you there is no time on record equal to that occasion. The historic ride of John Gilpin and the memorable one of Henry Wilson's care-back display of equestrianism on the stray army mule from the scenes of the battle of Bull Run, a year ago, are nothing in comparison to mine, either in point of time made or in ludicrous pagantry. My only advantage over these worthies was in having no audience. I can truthfully say that one of the Abes was frightened on this occasion, but modesty forbids my mentioning which of us is entitled to that distinguishing honor."

"This whole thing," said he, "seems farcical. No good can result at this time from its publicity. It does seem to me that I am in more danger from the augmentation of my imaginary peril than from a judicious silence, be the danger ever so great; and moreover, I do not want it understood that I share your apprehension. I never have."

At this time Mr. Lincoln was to me a study. It would seem that he was always prepared for the inevitable and singularly indifferent in personality. He was then still suffering from his terrible domestic affliction over the loss by death of his favorite son, Willie. The death of this most promising youth almost crushed the great man. He doubtless at times acted an unnatural part in his endeavors to banish from the portals of his memory the disturbing recollections of his lost idol.

I often recur with mingled feelings of admiration and sadness to the wonderful simplicity and implicit faith and trust he always reposed and enjoyed—exemplified even on the occasion of his relation of his hazardous experience on the night above alluded to. He said: "I am determined to borrow no trouble, I believe in the right, and that it will ultimately prevail; and I believe it is the inalienable right of man, unimpaired even by this dreadful distraction of our country, to be happy or miserable at his own election, and I for one make choice of the former alternative of these rights."

"Yes," said I, "but they are a devil of a poor protection against a shot gun in time of war, for that fellow on the roadside last night was just such a philosopher as yourself, but acted from a different standpoint."

He exercised one of his supposed claims to inalienable rights by making himself happy and the country miserable by attempting to kill you as a military necessity, and unless you are more careful, prudent and discreet, and will be governed by wiser counsels than you derive from your own arbitrary and obstinate persistency in recklessness, in less than a week you'll have neither inalienable rights nor any other, and we will have no Lincoln. The time, I fear, may not be far distant when this republic will be minus a pretty respectable President."

An escort of cavalry was afterward reluctantly tolerated by him, which doubtless did much toward the preservation of his life during the intervening time between then and the fatal night of the 14th of April, 1865.

I may be pardoned for saying I have met many brave men in the course of my life, but I can conscientiously state that I never saw a man with truer courage and one so devoid of fear as Abraham Lincoln. If he ever realized the sensation of that attribute, it must have arisen from an apprehension of doing wrong.

Respectfully,
WARD H. LAMON.

What is a cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine rhinitis, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which, when unchecked, it certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes seated and ends in obstinate catarrh.

—Spring P's from the Tobias Tribune: Persons who patronize papers should pay promptly, for pecuniary prospects of the press, have a peculiar power in pushing forward prosperity. If the printer is paid promptly and his pocket book kept plenteous by prompt paying patrons, he puts his pen to his paper in peace; his paragraphs are more pointed, he paints his pictures of passing events in more pleasing colors and the perusal of his paper is a pleasure to the people. Paste this piece of proverbial philosophy in some place where all persons can perceive it.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Billious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va.

NEWTON CENTRE.

—Fife, the expressman, makes an important announcement in the business notices.
—W. Thorpe has a number of houses and rooms to rent, which are advertised elsewhere.
—As the boom in wheat and coffee has exploded, the local grocers have gone back to the old prices.
—Some twenty Odd Fellows went to West Newton Wednesday night, to assist in forming the new lodge.
—Rev. Mr. Applegrath of New Brunswick, N. J., is expected to preach next Sunday at Associates' Hall.
—Mr. George F. Richardson has bought a lot on Marshall street of S. D. Garey, and intends soon to erect a house upon it.

—Hon. R. R. Bishop's new street has opened up very pleasant building lots off Grant avenue and Beacon street.

—Notwithstanding the number of marriages here of late, it is said others will soon follow among well-known parties.

—Mr. Noah S. King has purchased Mrs. Kingsbury's farm on Oak Hill near Dr. Higelow's new house. The farm contains 30 acres, and is a valuable property.

—Rev. J. C. Jaynes of West Newton will preach in the Unitarian church next Sunday morning, in exchange with the pastor.

—Mrs. Thorpe's class for those who stutter and have other defects of speech, is now quite large, and fine progress is being made.

—The fire on Tuesday afternoon was in Mr. G. W. Ulmer's house on Bowen street. It was caused by a defective chimney. The fire department soon conquered the flames, and the damage done was about $50.

—The corner stone of the new Baptist meeting house will be laid early in July. It will be placed at the south east corner of the tower, fronting on Centre and Beacon streets.

—Mr. Albert S. Woodworth, for several years President of the Boston Young Men's Christian Association, will occupy with his family Mr. Charles P. Clarke's fine estate on Pleasant street for the summer.

—Mrs. W. N. Miller will make her home with her son, W. G. Miller, near Chicago. Henry Miller will remain with W. C. Knapp & Co. for the present. Mr. Mansfield rents Mrs. Miller's house on Crescent avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gross, Institution avenue, have returned from a three weeks trip to Minnesota, delighted with their visit. About 20 years ago they visited Minneapolis, which then had a population of 5,000. Now it is rounded up to 100,000.

—Mr. Fred Proctor of this village, recently married, takes a house at Newtonville off from Walnut street nearly opposite to Gov. Claflin's residence. Mr. Proctor is now a member of the well-known crockery firm of Jones, McDuffee & Stratton, Franklin street, Boston.

—The Newton Centre Improvement society wishes to call attention to the fact that Mr. E. F. Cushman's generous offer still holds good. Five per cent. of all sales to Newton Centre parties, at his store, 39 Temple Place, Boston, is given to the society, which makes it a patriotic duty of all Newton Centre people to patronize his store.

—A new tennis club has been formed in Newton Centre for ladies and gentlemen, and is expected before long to be in good running order. They have secured very pleasant grounds, and will proceed to set out four or five courts at once. The officers of the club are: President, Mr. J. A. Daniels; secretary, Miss M. S. Chester; treasurer, Mr. W. B. Peters, and an executive committee.

—Prof. E. D. Burton and Mrs. Burton and daughter, left on Thursday for a fifteen months sojourn in Germany, where the Professor designs to devote himself to Theological study in the line of New Testament interpretation, which has been his department of labor during the past three years on the "Hill," and which position he has filled with marked ability. Prof. Burton will be accompanied by his father, Rev. Mr. Burton, and other friends.

—The committee are hard at work making up a popular program for the Fourth of July celebration. Now let every one add their mite and bring about a celebration worthy of the day and our village. To this end money will be needed. With liberal contributions the committee hope to offer boat and bicycle races, children's entertainments, music and fire-works. Prizes are to be offered, and a unique display of both day and evening fire-works will be offered. It is hoped plenty of money will be forthcoming, that the committee may prepare on a liberal scale to get the best to be had.

—Old residents will remember Professor Charles Siedorf and Mrs. Siedorf, whose death occurred at Union Hill, New Jersey, May 30th. About thirty-five years ago Prof. Siedorf and wife resided in what is known as the Jepson house, on Centre street, near Roger street, and were well known and welcomed in society here. He had been professor of Chemistry in the University of Heidelberg, Germany, but here was known as a literary man, making translations, lecturing, teaching, etc. Since their residence in Jersey City, their means of support have gradually failed, and then he lost his little earnings by investing in a patent cooking utensil. They became very poor, living in two scantily furnished rooms. When it became necessary for them to go to the poor house, they committed suicide by taking cyanide of potassium. Their ages were 91 and 92 years. Prof. Siedorf had quite a collection of books which he leaves to Columbia College.

A CARD.

Having rented the house on Pelham street known as the Purple estate, I respectfully inform my friends and patrons that it is now my residence. In answer to the oft repeated inquiry if I make dental operations now, I will say that when not engaged in the general practice of medicine, I will devote some attention to the special practice of dentistry, and generally may be found in my office at the above named place in the afternoon.

J. F. BOOTHBY, M. D., D. D. S.

—The New England School of the American Institute of Hebrew will open its session for 1887 on Thursday, June 30th, at 2 p. m., and continue till July 29th, 5 p. m., at the Newton Theological Institution. Instructors, Prof. William R. Harper, Ph. D., Yale University, New Haven Conn.; Mr. C. E. Crandall, M. A., Correspondence School of American Institute of Hebrew, New Haven, Conn.; Rev. Dr. Willis J. Beecher, Auburn Theological Seminary, Auburn, N. Y.; Mr. W. R. Wright, M. A., Fort Ann N. Y.; Mr. M. Lindsay Kellner, M. A., Episcopal Divinity School, Cambridge, Mass.; Robert F. Harper, Ph. D., New Haven, Conn.; Prof. Charles Rufus Brown, Newton. As a result of the active interest in the work displayed by certain of its friends, Rev. James M. Rawlings, University of Virginia, Rev. H. M. Jackson, D. D., Richmond, Va., Benjamin Douglass Esq., of Chicago, and others, no tuition fee will be charged at any of the Summer schools of the Institute held in 1887. Furnished rooms may be had in the buildings on "the Hill," charge being made only for care, etc.; table board in private families at from $3.00 to $4.00 a week. The Philadelphia school will be held from June 15th to July 15th, at the Episcopal Divinity School. The Southern school, July 28th to Aug. 26th, at University of Virginia. The Chicago school at the Biblical Institute, Morgan Park.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—We hear that the Episcopal society will have a picnic on Saturday, and that they will go to Dover.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lancaster have gone to Canada to spend a few weeks, and later on will go to the sea shore.

—The Highlands were quite well represented at the "Fete Champetre" for the benefit of the "Fresh Air Fund."

—The family of Mr. D. C. Fisher of Hartford street, are spending a few days at Webster. Their residence is offered for sale.

—Deacon Cushing of the Home Missionary society and family, have taken up their residence with Mrs. S. C. Cobb for the summer.

—The family of Officer Moulton have gone to Ellsworth, Maine, for the summer. Mr. Moulton will spend his vacation with his family.

—A petition is in circulation, and numerously signed, for a new school house fronting on Lincoln street, to have four rooms, to be used in place of the other house, the old one to be architecturally improved and to be used when needed.

—The location of the stand-pipe on Walnut street near the corner of Lake avenue, is causing much comment, it having been placed so near the corner, there is great danger of carriages coming into collision with the watering cart while standing there.

—On Wednesday, at the residence of her father, Miss Susie A. Beal of the Highlands was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert O. Beale of Cohasset. Rev. Wm. Bacon of Westhampton, assisted by Rev. G. G. Phipps, were the officiating clergymen.

—Be sure and not forget the "Garden Party and Strawberry Festival" to be given by the ladies of the Newton Highlands Congregational society on the grounds of Hon. J. F. C. Hyde on Wednesday, June 22d, from three to ten o'clock. The grounds will be illuminated with Chinese lanterns and other "great lights."

—On Tuesday the Monday club were guests of Mr. H. A. Thorndike of Abundant. Mr. Thorndike met the party at Riverside and took them by boat to Roberts' Point. From this place parties visited the site of ancient Norumbega. After lunch, followed by an essay and a poem on Norumbega, the party took the steamer White Swan, and spent the afternoon on the beautiful Charles.

—Last Sunday was observed as Children's Sunday at the Congregational church. The rite of baptism was administered to three infant children. Rev. Dr. Furber preached the sermon. The Sabbath school concert in the evening was of much interest, much "good seed" having been sown. Mr. S. Harrison Lovewell of Wellesley was the organist, and will also preside at the organ next Sabbath.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—A musical and literary entertainment will be given at the Methodist church next Tuesday evening, by students from the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston. Strawberries, cake and ice creams will also be served during the evening.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—It is rumored that Mr. Geo. L. Smith, who recently resigned as superintendent of the Dudley Hosiery Mills, after his return from abroad, will take charge of the mill of R. T. Sullivan at Highlandville.

—Charles River, near Ping Grove, was the scene of a sad drowning accident on Wednesday afternoon. Walter McFarland, a boy about fourteen years old, went with another boy in bathing near Crehore's boat-house, and, being unable to swim, went beyond his depth, and unknown to his companion disappeared beneath the water. It was some hours before his body was recovered, and then only after the repeated efforts of the divers. The sympathies of all are with his afflicted parents to whom the blow is peculiarly heavy, since he was an only child, and pronounced by all who knew him in all respects a little gentleman.

The Allen School.

This has been a very successful year at the Allen school; the five pupils sent to the Institute of Technology entered without a condition, as the Allen boys usually do. Among them was the son of Mrs. W. O. Trowbridge of Newton, who came from the grammar school three years ago, and thus has gained two years over his classmates, who are now in the High School. This shows the advantage of a well-arranged and well-conducted private school, and that individual work can be done to better advantage than in a crowded public school with its usually limited number of teachers, however able they may be. The great defect of our public schools is generally the too large number of pupils to a teacher. In the Allen school there are 80 pupils and a dozen teachers, so that the pupil has a chance of receiving a share of the teacher's personal attention.

The Famous Oil Range

of the Smith & Anthony Stove Company is an entirely new apparatus for summer use, which has many advantages over any other oil stove, and will do all the work of a coal stove. It is said to be the highest grade oil cooking apparatus ever made, and housekeepers who wish for comfort during the coming summer should see it. See list of Newton dealers and the advertisement in another column.

Fire Works.

For July 4th will be delivered freight free by Masten & Wells, manufacturers, of 18 Hawley street, Boston. Send for their catalogue and price list. They have the highest grade fire-works, put up in assorted boxes, at from one to one hundred dollars each.

$10.00 Suits.

Spitz Bros. & Mork offer a remarkable bargain in all wool $10 suits in their advertisement to-day.

The Duty of Women to Vote.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

A friend of my childhood, living on a large farm, had in his employ during one summer, a man who sometimes came home in a state of intoxication. One night he horrified his fellow-laborer and work-mate by stumbling up to the bed and ferociously ejaculating: "If yer speak I'll kill yer, and if yer don't speak I'll kill yer."

I have wished that this sentiment, in a somewhat modified form, might become this year the motto of the women of Newton.

That, according to their individual convictions, they might say to our august school board: "If you're right we'll vote to sustain you; if you're wrong we'll vote to suspend you—either way we'll vote!"

If only an awakening on this subject of woman's right to—nay, woman's duty at the ballot box—be the result of all this agitation, we shall feel that it is a victory well worth the struggle.

That the women of our town have intense convictions upon this subject no one can doubt who hears their frank expressions.

The ballot is only the authoritative expression of an opinion. Why should not our opinions, too, be expressed in the only way which can carry force?

The right of school committee suffrage has been thrust upon us, as women.

Whether or not we have desired it, the right is ours. But the very fact of the possession of a right carries with it a corresponding duty.

The wrong that it may help to right, or right, or fail in my individual responsibility.

It requires no very logical mind to assure one that in this case, there must be a wrong somewhere. Either the committee's action is right, or it is decidedly not. Let us first assure our own minds, then, without hesitation, act upon the assurance.

We hope each woman in Newton, who has the slightest interest in its schools, will not neglect to qualify herself for voting before Sept. 15th.

Surely a school in which half the students are girls, and more than half the teachers are women, ought to be a matter of interest to other women.

A matter of sufficient interest to warrant a surrender of prejudice.

NEWTON.

—Mr. H. P. Kenway has returned from his trip to Europe.

—The Nonantum Cycle club will hold a meeting next Monday evening.

—Mr. Otis Childs has gone to the Sea View House, Kennebunkport, Me.

—The Channing Sunday school has entered upon its usual summer vacation.

—Mr. G. W. Miller and family have gone to Beach Bluff to remain for the summer.

—Mrs. H. R. P. Stafford has left for Cottage City, where she will remain for the summer.

—Rev. Dr. Wellman was in town on Wednesday, and received a warm welcome from many friends.

—Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Coburn have taken rooms for the season at Hotel Preston, Beach Bluff.

—Mr. C. N. Brackett took a prize for a fine exhibition of peas at the loose show in Boston, this week.

—A new fire alarm signal box, number 115, has been put up at the corner of Elmwood and Centre streets.

—A full report of the speeches at the dedication of the Public Library will be found on the 6th and 7th pages.

—Mr. George Cutler, the former janitor of the Unitarian church, is very ill at his residence on Washington street.

—Rev. T. S. Samson, formerly of this city, has accepted a call to the Delaware Avenue Baptist church of Buffalo, N. Y.

—Mr. C. H. Graves has the foundation completed for a handsome house on the site of the old Baptist church on Washington street.

—The frame for Rev. Mr. Titus's new house on Richardson street is up and nearly boarded in. The house will be quite an addition to the street.

—The last choir rehearsal for the season at the Baptist church took place last Saturday evening, and the meetings will be resumed in September.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baermann of Hyde Avenue sailed for Europe last week Wednesday, on the Fulda, and will remain until the last of September.

—Mr. Chas. F. Rand has sold the A. A. Fuller estate on the corner of Vernon and Park streets, to Mr. C. A. Bass of Connecticut, who will occupy it in a few days.

—The Sunday school and congregation of the Baptist church have a lawn party Saturday afternoon, at Mr. J. M. Clapp's grounds on Newtonville avenue.

—Miss Parker of the Newton Bazar has returned from a two week's visit and rest at North Scituate Beach, to assist in the preparations always made at the Bazar for the Fourth.

—Mr. J. W. French is soon to build a new house on Brighton Hill, above the one just built by Mr. Ross, and it is also said that Mr. French will build this season on the lot he purchased from the Capen heirs, corner of Washington street and Waverly Avenue. Brighton Hill is being built up faster than any other part of Newton.

—Eighty-two scholars will graduate from the High School this year. Of these 7 girls and 12 boys, a total of 19, graduate in the classical course; 30 girls and 13 boys, a total of 43, graduate in the general course, and the remaining 20, 9 girls and 11 boys, graduate in the three years course. So far as is known at present, 9 will enter the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; 8 will go to Amherst; 3 to Boston University; 4 to Wellesley; 5 to Smith; 2 to Framingham Normal; 1 each to Harvard, Yale, Tufts, Harvard Medical School, and Bryant and Stratton's; 3 will teach, and 2 go into business.

—The Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon was the last one this season at Eliot Lower Hall. Mr. Hiram Leonard opened the services and gave some personal experiences, followed by others. It was a review of the year's work and many said that the meetings had been the means of giving them strength in their daily Christian life; conversions have followed the faithful presentation of God's word. Next Sunday the open air meetings begin, and Mr. S. M. Sayford, the evangelist, will address the meeting. Mr. Sayford has conducted very successful revival services this winter, and is now spending the summer at his beautiful home on Mt. Ida; this will give everyone an opportunity to hear him on the bank grounds at 4 p. m.

—The annual closing exercises of Miss Spear's excellent private school was held at Nonantum Hall, Thursday afternoon, the hall being crowded with friends of the school. The exercises were entitled "An afternoon with Good Authors," and consisted of conversations, recitations, short plays and essays, all admirably done, and showing the good work of the school. The exercises closed with the awarding of diplomas to three pupils, who are prepared for college; Misses Lizzie I. Curry, Alice J. Osgood and Helen D. Smith. The former completed the whole twelve years course, the school taking pupils from the beginning of their school life. The school has eighty regular and several pupil teachers, and only accommodates 60 pupils.

—Further particulars have been received of the death of Frederic Dunne near Denver, Col. He was formerly a resident of this city, but with an older brother has been carrying on an extensive cattle ranch at Bennet. He was in the field on horseback superintending the work of the men under him, but some distance away. There were dark clouds in the southern horizon, but above them the skies were clear and bright. Suddenly the men heard a heavy crash of thunder and saw a vivid light flash from the heavens. Immediately young Dunne was seen to fall from his horse, and a second after the horse plunged headlong to the ground. Rushing up the men found both horse and rider dead, the latter with a deep hole as large as a half-dollar, on the top of his head, his clothing torn to shreds and scattered over the plain, nothing left on him but his boots, and his face and body badly blackened and burned. Death had been instantaneous. The remains were taken in charge by the elder brother. The deceased was a very promising young man, and his death is a terrible blow to his relatives.

—There will be a meeting of the Eliot Mission Circle at the house of Mrs. Davis on Centre street, Saturday, at four o'clock, to open mite boxes and appropriate the money.

—There was an unusually large attendance at Grace church, Sunday evening, to listen to Rev. J. C. Ayer, a grandson of the late John L. Roberts of Newtonville.

—Mr. Thomas Weston, Jr., was chosen a member of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Association of Congregational churches, which met Wednesday at Brockton.

—Mrs. Albert Cutler of Maple Place was sitting by a window one day this week watching a ball game, when a ball crashed through the window, the broken glass cutting her face badly.

—The Read fund picnic at Spy Pond grove, Arlington, Saturday, promises to have a large attendance of school children and their friends, and to be a very pleasant affair.

—The school committee of Ward 7 have nominated Mr. Young W. Weston, junior, of the Bigelow and Underwood Schools, Miss Chapin of Montague, Mass., will succeed Miss Lentell.

—Miss Ireson, the teacher of elocution at the High School, sailed for Europe on Thursday in the Catalonia, and will join a party of Gannett school girls in Paris. She will be absent until September.

—Rev. Dr. Calkins will preach in Eliot Hall on Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock, on "The Practical Education of Women." He will show the value of an education in obtaining a living, and also in the pursuit of literature. All are invited.

—Some slight improvements are reported in Judge Park's condition, and he is able to take more solid food, and has more strength. He is not permitted to see visitors, and only members of the family are admitted to his room, as it is feared that any excitement would retard his recovery.

—Hon. Joseph Blumenthal and daughter Miss Maggie Blumenthal of New York City are in Newton spending a few weeks with Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Frisbie. Mr. Blumenthal for many years has been prominently identified with the reform movements in New York City and state.

—The reunion of the Newton High School Association took place Thursday evening at Armory Hall. About one hundred members were present. At 8.30 President S. Warren Davis called the meeting to order and congratulated those present upon the success of the organization. He then introduced Mr. Theodore Nickerson, a member of the first class that graduated from the school. The other speakers were his Honor Mayor Kimball, Professor Lindsay of Boston University, and Mr. Hovey. The following were elected officers: Pres., E. W. Cate, '70; Vice Presidents, W. A. Sylvester, '75, E. A. Wood, '78; Sec., Hattie Avery, '82; Treas., Wm. Jackson, '80; Executive Committee, D. W. Farquhar, '72; Marjorie H. Sylvester, '84; J. P. B. Fiske, '87; Edith M. Farley, '80; F. H. Hitchcock, '87. Refreshments were served in the lower hall, after which dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Cole's Orchestra furnished music.

Reception to Mr. Cutler.

The undersigned, appreciating the personal character of Mr. Edward H. Cutler and his eminent abilities and fidelity as an instructor, invite his pupils and their parents, as well as our citizens in general, to unite in a public reception to be tendered him from 8 to 10 o'clock, on Tuesday evening, June 25th, in Armory Hall, Newton.

Copy of Letters Conveying to Mr. E. H. Cutler a Gift of $1,000.

A sub-committee of the general committee of citizens waited on Mr. Cutler on the evening of June 21st, and after a pleasant chat left some letters on his table with the request that he would not open them until the committee had got out of sight. The letters contained a check for $1,000, and were as follows:

Mr. E. H. Cutler:
Dear Sir:—Deeply regretting the action of the school committee in depriving our city of your valuable services as Head Master of the High School, and deeply disappointed that the appeal for your retention made by citizens, parents, graduates and pupils, have not been heeded by those who are at present in authority, many of your friends, both old and young, are unwilling to have you relinquish your work here without assuring you of the respect and affection which they feel for you.

Many kind words in your behalf have already been spoken, and the demonstrations of good feeling have been almost without a parallel, so that you must already know that you have a place in the hearts of many who value your scholarly attainments, and who recognize in you the Christian gentleman.

With renewed expressions of heartfelt good will on behalf of the citizens of Newton, we are cordially your friends,
(Signed,) GEORGE LINDEN,
Chairman of a Committee of Citizens.

BOSTON, Mass., June 21, 1887.

Mr. E. H. Cutler:
Dear Sir:—At the request of the committee, I herewith enclose, with pleasure, a check for $1,000. Very sincerely yours,
(Signed,) A. D. S. BELL,
Treasurer of a Committee of Citizens.

Field Day to Old Concord.

The second Field Day of the Newton Natural History society, for the season, will be held at Concord, Mass., on Thursday, July 7th. The party will leave Waltham at 9.33, arriving at Concord about 10. Returning, will leave Concord late in the afternoon. Those wishing to join the party can do so at Watertown, Waltham or Concord. All wishing to accompany the society on this excursion are cordially invited to do so. The regular price of single tickets is 39 cents, but if the number is 25 or more the round trip tickets will be 60 cents. For further information apply to Dr. J. F. Frisbie.

High School Graduation.

The graduation exercises of the class of '87, Newton High School, will be held at the High School building Tuesday morning, June 28, at 10.30 o'clock. Because of the large number usually attending, admission will be by ticket only.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

E. J. GOODWIN OF NASHUA PROPOSED AS MR. CUTLER'S SUCCESSOR.

At the school board meeting Wednesday night, Mayor Kimball presided, and Messrs. Coffin, Converse, Walton, Shinn, Ames, Dickinson, Barton, Philbrick, Weed and Hagar were present.

Mr. Ames suggested that the first business was to complete the organization of the board and elect a chairman, as he could not serve. Messrs. Converse, Walton, Weed and Barton tried to induce him to serve, but to no purpose. A ballot was taken and Mr. Weed received 4 votes, Mr. Converse 3, Mr. Walton 1 and Mr. Barton 1. There was no choice and each gentleman named declined. Another ballot was taken, and Mr. Dickinson was added to the list with three votes and declined. On the third ballot, Mr. Converse had 4 votes, Mr. Weed 2 and four others 1 each.

Mr. Barton moved that Mr. Frost be elected and Mr. Philbrick nominated Mr. Putney, but neither motion met with much favor, and the fourth ballot was futile. The fifth ballot gave no choice and Dr. Shinn moved that the board postpone balloting and proceed to business. The motion was not on, and on the sixth ballot Mr. Converse led with 5 votes, with 2 for Mr. Smith, 1 for Mr. Walton, 1 for Mr. Weed and 1 for Mr. Coffin. On the 7th ballot Mr. Converse received 7 out of 10 votes, and was declared elected. He rose to resign, but at the request of Mayor Kimball he consented to serve until some one else was elected.

Mr. Weed was appointed to fill the vacancy on the High School committee from Ward 7, and Mr. Ames consented to serve as member from Ward 3.

Miss E. A. Chapin of Montague, Mass., was chosen a teacher in the Bigelow School, salary $600. Miss Emma Thompson of Wakefield was appointed a teacher in the Rice School, salary $600; Miss Effie M. Herrick of Attleboro was appointed teacher in the Chaffin School, salary $600. Miss M. Alice Warren of the Rice School was appointed principal of the Davis School, salary $720. Miss Ireson, teacher of elocution and calisthenics, who has gone to Europe, was granted leave of absence till Sept. 12th. Miss Pond has resigned as teacher of drawing at the High School, and Mrs. Bowler appointed in her place. Miss Annie C. Merritt of the Pierce School was recommended an increase of $50 in her salary, as she has been offered a higher salary in Springfield.

The increase in salary of the sewing teachers was referred to the sewing committee.

HIGH SCHOOL HEAD MASTER.

Mr. Barton said the special committee appointed to nominate a head master of the High School were ready to report and he moved that the rules be suspended and the nomination be made.

Mr. Ames said he did not see the propriety of rushing the matter through, in a way so discourteous to the High School committee, to whom nomination should be referred, in accordance with the rules.

Mr. Barton said desirable candidates were not abundant, and the committee had found a number were willing to recommend, and action ought to be taken at once.

Mr. Philbrick moved that the rules be suspended and the report be heard.

Mr. Ames said it was not necessary to suspend the rules to hear the report of a special committee. Dr. Shinn said he did not know the names of the candidates selected, but he had hoped that the members of the board would take into serious consideration the propriety of resuming the present head master to his position in view of the fact that so large a majority of the parents who had children at school had asked for his retention, and had implicit confidence in him, that he enjoyed in such a marked degree the affection of his pupils, and that no serious charge had been made against him. The statement was made in the interest of peace and harmony, with a view to the prosperity and welfare of the school. The results of such a course would be most happy for the city.

Mr. Watson replied with some heat that he was surprised to hear a proposition made to reopen an issue that was fully passed and was being forgotten by the people. If the case was reopened he should move to go into executive session, so that the proceedings would not be made known. The question was dead and most satisfactorily so, and the public were not further interested in it. He thought the manner in which the committee's criticism of the teachers had been spread abroad was in very bad taste and had established a very dangerous precedent.

Mr. Barton said that after the board had voted 11 to 4 he thought the majority ought to be respected, and should be credited, with some honesty, and some interest in the good of the High School. He believed a man had been found who would be satisfactory to the board. His name was E. J. Goodwin and he was now principal of the High School at Nashua, N. H.

Mr. Philbrick moved that the special committee be given full power to engage him.

Mr. Barton said the board should reach an early decision, as there were only two days in which he could be seen in school, and he hoped members of the High School would make it a point to visit him.

Mr. Ames asked what experience Mr. Goodwin had had.

Mr. Barton said he was 33 years old, graduated at Bates College in 1872, had taught 15 years, 8 years as principal of the Farmington High School, 4 years as principal of the Portsmouth High School and 3 years in Nashua. Mr. Barton then proceeded to give an unstinted eulogy of Mr. Goodwin. In classics, science and literature he was the ablest teacher he ever knew. He visited his school last Friday, and it was certainly the best school he was ever in. The order was as remarkable as any he ever saw. The obedience was perfect. There was the most unqualified loyalty to all the teachers and the head master. The order was so perfect that there was no need of government. He witnessed recitations in Latin, Greek, and in the Laboratory. The demeanor of the scholars was that of gentlemen and ladies. There was no whispering, and the whole life of the students seemed bent on their studies. He was never so impressed with such perfect order in a school. The teaching was both broad and practical in its nature. Bishop Niles endorsed the Nashua High School as being as good as any in the state, and he thought he had said the best. Mr. Hill was struck with Mr. Goodwin, and said he was a rare teacher. The school was as good as the one in Concord of which Mr. Kent was head master.

Mr. Dickinson said that both Lynn and Chelsea had tried to secure Mr. Goodwin.

Mr. Converse asked why he left his present place. Mr. Barton replied for the increase in salary as he now gets $2,200.

Mr. Ames asked if any scholars were fitted for college at the Nashua school.

The superintendent said that several pupils were fitted every year for all the colleges.

Mr. Barton said he heard a class of 10 recite in Virgil, and it was the best recitation he ever heard. The interest shown was wonderful; the teacher said they were much interested in Virgil as in an English poem. He had given the most unbounded satisfaction in the government of the school; no teacher had to raise his voice or to speak sharply, the discipline was so perfect. There were 150 pupils in the school, and Mr. Goodwin had the discipline of the grammar school in the same building. The matter was then referred to the High School committee, with instructions to report at an adjourned meeting July 5th.

An order was passed asking the city council to petition the county commissioners for the establishment of a county trust school.

On petition of the officers of the Battalion, the $100 appropriated for the prize drill was given to the fund for the enlargement of the school reference library.

Mr. Barton said that he had heard that the present head master would not be present on graduation day. Dr. Shinn replied that Mr. Cutler would be present.

After other routine business the meeting adjourned to Tuesday, July 5th.

—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Faber have been spending a few days at Newport.

—Miss Louise Pinkham has been spending several days at Provincetown, Mass.

—Mrs. E. T. Nelson of Grand Rapids, Michigan, is visiting at Miss Valentine's.

—Mrs. A. H. Soden leaves next week for her cottage at Fort Point, Stockton, Me.

—Miss Josephine Hoogs has returned from Norfolk, Va., for her vacation at home.

—The evening service at the Universalist church will be discontinued until September.

—Miss Lilla Richardson and sister have gone to South Bristol, on the coast of Maine, for a restful change.

—Mrs. A. E. Hooper has gone to her father's, in Bath, Maine, to spend the greater part of the summer.

—The Congregational Sunday School have their annual picnic at Lily Point Grove, on Saturday, June 25.

—S. R. Knights & Co. sold by auction last Thursday the Dr. Jones estate on Otis street, to Alfred W. Cole, for $6,500.

—Mr. H. B. Hackett has bought the house on Highland avenue, lately owned and occupied by Mrs. Hill, and will move in as soon as possible.

—Last Friday the Parlor Literary Union and their friends had their annual excursion to Marblehead and vicinity, leaving at 7.30 in the morning and returning at the same hour in the evening.

—The lawn party to be given by the Congregational Society at Mr. E. H. Pierce's, had two rainy evenings and had to be given up, although on the last evening many were present at the house.

—Mr. Arthur Carter returned from his foreign trip last Saturday, having arrived in New York on the "City of Rome" a few days before. While away he visited England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and France.

—The marriage of Miss Belle Blodgett to Mr. Elias Jones took place at Dr. Blodgett's residence Thursday evening, only relatives and a very few friends being present, as both families are in mourning.

—Geo. W. Morse and family, accompanied by Miss Brainard, start for Liverpool July 7th, on the Bothnia, intending to spend one year in Germany. Mr. Morse expects to return for a portion of the time to attend to professional engagements.

—The New England Helping Hand Society, of which Miss A. M. Beecher is vice-president, will hold a fair in Horticultural Hall, Boston, for one week, beginning Oct. 31st, the proceeds to be used in establishing a Working Girls' Home.

—Officer Bosworth found a nine year old boy named Arthur Howard, wandering the streets here last Friday. He lived in Chelsea, from which place he had wandered while following a procession. He was provided with tickets and sent home.

—A number of movers have been making estimates of the cost of removing the Methodist church to Mr. Crane's orchard, in the rear of the vacant lot behind the church, and the plan is to have the whole square thus made turned into a public park.

—Sergeant Charles E. Davis was presented with a handsome gold badge, Saturday night, as a birthday gift from his friends here. The presentation was made at his residence, by Mr. John F. Payne, and was a mark of his popularity with the people of Newtonville.

—A very pleasant surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Carter, Monday evening, it being their 15th anniversary. They were presented with two handsome engravings, bouquets of 15 roses, and the evening was very pleasantly passed. Nearly a hundred were present.

—Mr. Chas. W. Leatherbee of West Newton had a narrow escape at the depot here on Wednesday. A spirited horse which he was driving was frightened by the cars, and he and a lady were thrown from the carriage. He succeeded in stopping the horse without any damage being done.

—The observance of Children's Sunday in the Universalist church, last Sunday morning, was very pleasantly carried out. Mr. White told the children a most excellent story, in illustration of some very helpful advice. Five little ones were christened. The church was most profusely and effectively decorated with flowers, birds and plants.

—Children's Day at the Methodist church was observed by a sermon to the children in the morning, and a concert at 4.30 p. m. The exercises consisted of recitations by the children, singing by Sunday School and by the choir; at the close the younger children were given a potted geranium or other flower. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers.

—There is quite a boom in building operations on Highland avenue, at the summit of the hill. Mr. Wm. Hollings has bought a fine lot there and intends to build upon it; Mr. T. M. Clark is to erect a handsome stone house; Richardson & Bateman are building two pretty houses on the Worcester estate, and a court is to be built around the Worcester land to Allston street.

—On Friday last the 9.30 train came to Newtonville loaded with over two hundred poor children from the crowded districts of Boston, enroute for the beautiful and shady grove of Mrs. E. T. Eldridge. It was a pleasure to see the delight in their faces, as they entered the grounds familiar to many of them. See-saws, swings, foot and base ball, and many other pleasures were provided for their entertainment. Tables were spread in the centre of the grove, and everything that little ones like best was plentifully supplied to satisfy their appetites. Miss Welch and her friends were uniting in their efforts to make the day a bright and pleasant one for them all. Through the kindness of one of the young gentlemen the children were photographed. Songs and music on banjo and guitar served also to interest and amuse them. Remarks by Revs. Dr. Shinn and Mr. Waldron, with declamations and singing by the children, concluded the exercises of the day. They left on the 5 p. m. train, each child being given a bouquet and a pocket full of candy. They were under the charge of Rev. Mr. Waldron and five mission teachers.

—Miss Mary Byers is visiting in Williams-town, Mass.

—Miss Call has gone to Kearsarge Village, North Conway, for a couple of weeks.

—Mrs. Gertrude Valentine and daughter have returned from their pleasant trip.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Dennison, formerly of Newtonville, sail for Europe June 30.

—The first story of the new brick block is nearly completed, and it is said that every store is already rented.

—Mr. George Osborne, having finished his year's study at the Institute of Technology, has returned for the summer to his home in Tate, Georgia.

—The Newton Club had a committee meeting on Wednesday evening, to consider the proposed constitution and by-laws. The members now only lack three of the proposed 150.

—Mr. A. R. Mitchell has bought the Valentine place on the corner of Highland avenue and Walnut street, and will make a number of improvements there. The estate comprises 51,000 feet.

WEST NEWTON.

—Mr. Samuel Barnard and family have gone to Hyannis for a month's vacation.

—Mr. J. Cheever Fuller has been appointed justice of the peace by Governor Ames.

—A tramp was sent to the house of correction for 6 months, in the police court on Monday.

—Captain Richardson has been quite ill for several days and unable to be at the police station.

—At the Baptismal service in the Baptist church last Sunday, four were baptized by Rev. Mr. Kimball.

—Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Wood have returned from their foreign tour. Mr. Wood's health is much improved.

—Miss Mira S. Metcalf of Webster Park graduates from the State Normal School, Framingham, next Wednesday.

—Miss H. Alice Warren has been appointed principal of the Davis School in place of Miss E. G. Bates, resigned.

—A member of the firm of John H. Pray & Co., has taken the estate of Mr. James T. Allen, Washington street, for the summer.

—Mrs. E. W. Wood had a fine display of roses and other flowers at the Rose Show in Boston this week, and received a number of premiums.

—The Unitarian church have voted to open their church to the Women Ministers of New England, who are to hold a meeting there in June.

—The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the First Unitarian church takes place at "Tanglewood" Auburndale, Saturday, June 25, at 11 a. m.

—Among the list of graduates at Smith College, Northampton, the name of Miss Alice Walton, daughter of George Walton of this place, appears.

—Col. Geo. Shepard of this place enjoys the distinction of being one of the oldest living Masons. He joined Jerusalem Lodge of Northampton, Mass., in 1818.

—The parish of St. Bernard's church has bought the handsome Wait estate near their church, and it will be used for a parsonage. The house cost $20,000 and the whole estate was sold for $8,000.

—At the meeting of Newton Lodge, No. 92, L. O. O. F., Wednesday, nineteen gentlemen were admitted to membership. The 1st and 2nd degrees will be conferred next Wednesday evening by Takawambait degree staff of Natick.

—The wedding of Annie McDonald to John Gannon took place on Wednesday, Rev. Father O'Toole officiating. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's father, Michael McDonald, Cherry street, at which about two hundred were present. The happy couple received a large number of presents.

—Louis Andrews, who is employed by C. H. Jenison, the expressman, had the misfortune to have a marble slab fall on his foot while loading up his team, on Charlestown street, Boston, on Wednesday, crushing his foot badly. He was attended by Dr. Elliott and came out in the cars, Officer Ryan taking him to his home on Chestnut street.

—The fair held by the little girls of the Unitarian church on the lawn of Mr. George Homer, June 17th, proved a fine success. The day was June's most rare one, and the lovely lawn made picturesque by booths, tables, bunting, flowers, etc., with groups of little ones scattered about, made a lovely spectacle. The efforts of the little girls realized the handsome sum of $215, which will be a grateful addition to the funds of the Cottage Hospital, and also show what benevolent hearts with willing hands may accomplish.

—Rev. Mr. Wheeler of Newton Centre exchanged with Rev. Mr. Jaynes of the Unitarian church last Sunday. An invitation was extended by the Sunday School teachers of his society, together with those of Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke's of Newton, in return for former courtesies of the same nature, to meet at the church there, Thursday evening, for a social evening. A collation was served, after which very interesting papers were read by different members of the societies, and singing closed a very profitable and enjoyable evening.

—The last choral service until September will be held in the Congregational church next Sunday evening, June 26, at 7 o'clock. A short address will be given the pastor, descriptive of the hymns and Scripture selections which are to be sung by the chorus choir of the church. This large choir, (the largest but one in our city,) which has achieved so high a reputation for excellence, and has proved so valuable an assist in the musical services of this church, will sing at the morning services during the month of July, and take the month of August for the usual vacation. The musical selections to be rendered by the choir at the services mentioned will be as follows:

Antem—"I was glad when they said." ... Farmer Choir.

Solo—"Come unto Me." ... Barry.

Solo—"I dreamt I was in Heaven." ... (arranged) Costa.

Duo—First and second soprano. ... Mendelssohn.

Hymn—"Oh, for the wings of a dove." ... Root.

Hymn—"Antem. "To Him who made us." ... Root.

Solo—"I heard the voice of Jesus say." ... Lange.

Solo—"He shall give His Angels charge over thee." ... J. E. T.

Female Chorus—"The righteous shall shine forth as the sun." ... J. E. T.

Hymn—"Antem. "God who made Earth and Heaven." ... Bach.

All are cordially invited.

—The past week has been an eventful one among the scholars of the West Newton English and Classical School. Friday evening, June 17, the older scholars of the school gave a dancing party in Lyceum Hall. An order of fifteen dances was thoroughly enjoyed by about fifty persons, mostly members of the school. Saturday evening the graduating exercises of the school took place in Nickerson's Hall before a large audience. The program was an interesting one of 15 numbers, comprising piano solos by Allston Newhall, Flora Pettigrew, Mary Houghton, Walter Trowbridge, and Newton Crane; violin solos by May Norton and Leo McKellops; a piano duet by Molly Metcalf and Florence Merrill; a Spanish recitation by Francisco Verges; a duet song by Emma Gilmore and Molly Metcalf, and the following essays: Eloquence, Margaret Condriu; Advantages of Education, Mabel Seaverns; Women in Politics, Marianna Smith; Beacon Lights, Helen Cutler; Oratory, Leo McKellops. The musical selections were particularly good. The essays were all original and worthy of much praise. On Monday evening the annual lawn party took place on the grounds of Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen. The grounds were beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns and presented a very gay appearance. About one hundred and fifty persons were present, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Carter's band furnished excellent music for promenading, and for dancing on the lawn, and a collation was served during the evening. This has been a very pleasant year in the school, which has had over ninety pupils, pleasant alike for teachers and pupils. Scholars have come to the school from Cuba, Porto Rico, the District of Columbia and thirteen states.

AUBURNDALE.

—Miss S. Alice Ranlett sailed for Europe on Thursday.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Allen of Boston are the guests of Mr. Wm. E. Plummer.

—Mr. B. L. Young and family left on Wednesday for Woods Holl, to spend a few weeks.

—Miss Annie Plummer gives a musicale at her residence on Woodland avenue Saturday evening.

—Rev. Jacob Roberts and family have gone to Rock Island near Quincy, Mass., for the summer.

—The High School class of '86 have a reunion and supper Saturday night, at the Woodland Park Hotel.

—Francis Blake and family arrived at their home in Weston, Tuesday evening, after an extended tour in the West.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Ballard and daughter of St. Augustine, Florida, are spending a few weeks at Mr. G. W. Shepard's.

—Mrs. M. E. Ward and daughter have gone West for a short trip, before going to their summer home in Canton, Maine.

—Rev. Mr. Metcalf's health is much improved, and he returned to his duties last Sunday, to the satisfaction of his parish.

—Dr. Daniel March of Woburn, Mass., preached an eloquent sermon in the Congregational church last Sunday morning.

—Mr. Harry K. Chase and bride of Brooklyn, N. Y., spent last week at the home of his father, Mr. L. A. Chase on Ash street.

—Among recent arrivals at Lee's are Col. Wm. V. Hutchings and family of Boston, and Dr. James C. White, professor at the Harvard Medical School.

—Miss Mary Mosman, a member of the class of '86, Wellesley College, made the presentation speech of the Statue of "Elaine," presented by Prof. E. N. Hosford to the class of '86, and by them to Wellesley College on June 20.

—We regret that we are soon to lose Prof. Edward's family. Miss Alice is to be married on July 28th, at her brother's house in Chicago, to Mr. Emerson, recently appointed Professor in a college near Cincinnati. Wellesley College thus loses a conscientious and successful teacher, and Auburndale a gifted artist.

—Last Friday evening about thirty of the friends of Mr. Henry J. Keyes called on him at his home, Freeman street, much to his surprise, nevertheless he soon recovered and made all welcome. He was presented with a very heavy gold band ring, the happy occasion being his birthday. The evening was passed in music, dancing, etc.; refreshments were served.

—An interesting and amusing game of base ball was played on the morning of June 17th, on the park at the lower end of Ash street, which attracted a large number of spectators. The game was played by nines composed of married men and single men, the former including some of our well known citizens. Victory was with the single men, who won by a score of 19 to 17. It is hoped the game will be repeated on July 4th.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Chas. W. Goodson's shop is a popular place with those who want shoes or wish any repairing done.

—Mr. B. B. Vassall is at his store again, fully recovered from his illness, and gives a hearty welcome to all who wish anything from his well-selected stock.

—Messrs. Robbins & Healy are doing quite a business in carriage, sign and ornamental painting, in trimming carriages, and are making some first-class harnesses. Repairing is also done at short notice.

West Newton Swimming Bath.

The third season of the West Newton Swimming bath will open on Saturday, June 25th. This is the only bathing place in the city, and it has been finely fitted up by Mr. Allen with all conveniences. The bath is in charge of skilful attendants, and the art of swimming is taught if desired. For particulars see advertisement in another column.

Summer Cooking

An entirely new apparatus for summer use,

THE FAMOUS OIL RANGE.

Not an oil stove, but a Range, having four large holes, and possessing the capacity of an ordinary coal stove, and is run with greater ease and at less expense. The cost is about a cent an hour while in use. It is as simple as an ordinary lamp. Will do all the cooking and laundry work of a family of six to ten persons, making it unnecessary to use the coal stove during the summer. The "FAMOUS" is the highest grade Oil Cooking apparatus ever made, and those who want an Oil Stove that will do all kinds of cooking and last for years, will give it the preference. Ask your dealer for it or call at our warehouses and see it in actual use.

THE LIBRARY REDEDICATED.

Addresses Made by Many Prominent Citizens.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE IMPROVEMENTS MADE.

The Free Public Library was dedicated last Friday evening, a large company of prominent citizens being present. The building was opened at 7 o'clock, and for an hour the various rooms were visited, and the many improvements inspected. At 8 o'clock the guests gathered in Chaffin Hall as the magazine reading room in the rear of the first floor is called, and listened to the dedicatory exercises. Mr. John S. Farlow, president of the board of trustees, presided and introduced the speakers in the happiest manner. Rev. Dr. Calkins was called upon and offered prayer, in which he invoked the Divine blessing upon the institution.

Mr. Farlow made the opening address, and said that 17 years ago on the 17th of June, a meeting was held to dedicate the original building, and again a meeting was held to dedicate the new addition, and to rejoice over the union of the new and the old. It was well to recall how the library was started, as an incentive to those who find a similar opportunity open to them to do good. 20 years ago a few gentlemen in this village, who felt the need of a free public library, met at the house of Mr. George Bacon, to discuss the subject, and this was the first of many meetings which were held. It was finally decided to buy a lot of land, a favorable opportunity presenting itself, and the library lot was purchased by a few brave spirits, and the work of collecting subscriptions was undertaken. $70,000 was collected from residents of this village, with the exception of one or two thousand dollars, and the building was erected and books purchased. It was the plan of the founders to provide enough money to run the library for 5 years, the length of time the senior trustee was to hold office; the trustees being elected for 5, 4, 3, 2 and 1 years. Before the end of that time, the members of that association realized the necessity of putting the library on a permanent foundation, as some of their number had already passed away, and life at the best was short, and it was decided to present the library to the city, on condition that it should always be maintained as a free public library. The transfer was made eleven years ago, and since that time the library had gone on in its career of prosperity, and had demonstrated the wisdom of its founders, among whom were Messrs. Edmonds, Jones and Chaffin, whose names would ever be connected with the library. There had never been any local feeling about the library, but the intention to make it embrace the whole city had been faithfully carried out. There had been, he was glad to say, no thought of sectarian or political feeling in the management of the library, but the only thought in the minds of the trustees had been the good it might accomplish. The plan of transferring it to the city had been formed in Mayor Hyde's administration, and had been consummated under the administration of Mayor Spaulding. The project of enlargement had been favorably received by the present city government, and the trustees had been treated in the most friendly manner. Mayor Kimball had favored it from the start, and done all he could to bring it about. It was his first duty to thank the city government for their aid in giving us this building, and in aiding to give the means for acquiring knowledge to the citizens. He had no fear that this country would ever be ruined by anarchists or socialists, as long as such liberal provision was made for free education. Intelligence was a foe to socialistic schemes, and the younger generation should be taught to be bold to denounce wrong, wherever it existed, regardless of consequences.

The greatest danger to the country was from the spread of insidious corruption, which had made its appearance in high places, and which would ruin the country unless men had courage to denounce it and oppose it, and men would not have this courage unless they were educated. He would call upon the mayor of the city to respond for the city government, (applause.)

MAYOR KIMBALL'S ADDRESS.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:—It is with pleasure that we have convened to unite in the re-dedication of this building devoted to the purposes of the Newton Free Library. To express our satisfaction at its excellence, and our appreciation that have been made to facilitate the business of the library and to accommodate and serve all who may avail themselves of its privileges. These spacious, well lighted and well ventilated rooms will be a constant source of gratification to very many. This building as it now stands is a complete success, an honor to the city and a credit to all who have had any part in it.

The institution of a free library to afford the people opportunities for the acquisition of knowledge is a grand design, and a work of the noblest character; it represents progress and liberality. To promote intelligence is to increase the happiness of the individual and to secure greater obedience to law and order. This and like institutions scattered over this fair land extend an influence unmeasurable in its benefits, and they should be willingly and liberally maintained. In our country, composed as it is of people representing every nationality and opinions as diverse and in as great variety, and who, under our elective form of government, may occupy important public offices, it is essential for the very safety of our land that there should be some great controlling influence that shall enlighten and harmonize this vast number of people, and guide and help them, in the consideration and settlement of the great questions which are and ever will be presented, involving the various interests and the rights of all. General education is the guarantee upon which we rest.

It is upon the intelligence and loyalty of the citizens that we depend for the permanence and security of our government. I congratulate the people of Newton upon having so finely equipped a free library. I congratulate them also upon the great number of churches and public schools here maintained; they are splendid proof of the advancement of our city in the belief in education and in truth.

I congratulate you, Mr. President, upon the success and high reputation our library has attained under your administration, which I am justified in saying is due to the great interest and good management of the trustees, seconded by the hearty co-operation of the librarian and assistants.

In addition to the sum appropriated by the city council for the maintenance of the library, other amounts have been given by liberal citizens. For several years an income has been derived from these generous gifts, the donors of which are entitled to the grateful appreciation of the community. I have now the pleasure and the right on behalf of the people I have the honor to represent, to extend to you, Mr. President, their sincere thanks for your magnificent gift to the library, known as the Farlow Reference Department.

Mr. Farlow said that no matter what the city had done lately, we should not be enjoying the benefits of the library had it not been for the original founders, and he called upon Ex-Mayor Spaulding, under whose administration the transfer to the city had been made, to say a word for them, as he had done much in favor of the project.

EX-MAYOR SPAULDING'S ADDRESS.

It is no small privilege to be allowed to speak in the time that I can properly occupy, of the founders of this library, and my only regret is, that I have not that gift of tongue or pen, which can do adequate justice to the precious memory of the founders of "The Newton Free Library."

Mr. President, where shall I commence? Who planted the seed that has germinated, grown and fruited in this beautiful and commodious building, with its shelves well filled with the garnered thought, with the fancy and knowledge of ages? Was it the Newton Library Association, with its limited numbers, books and means? or was it some one of those who appreciated the good being accomplished by the 1700 volumes, and who saw by the vision of faith what a great and grand thing it would be, if we could have a thoroughly furnished library in an appropriate building.

The first real move in this direction was the purchase of the 20,500 feet of land on which this building now stands, at a cost of $3300, and the honor of raising this sum belongs to our fellow citizen, Joel H. Hills, not only the collector but a contributor to an equal amount with any of the seventeen, save one, the late Frank Shinner.

But the securing of the land did not secure the library. It was offered as a present to the "Newton Library Association," on the condition that they should erect within five years a brick or stone library building, two stories in height, suitable for the purpose of a Public Library and Reading Room, but the Association as regretfully declined to accept the valuable proffered gift. Then commenced the meetings of the owners of the land, and their friends that could be induced to take an interest in the enterprise. Another subscription paper was started, but it is so much easier to talk glibly and learnedly of the value and desirability of a library than it is to give the required thousands that are necessary for its successful accomplishment, that it was nearly three years before they were able to adopt measures looking to the erection of this building. But on the evening of Jan. 7, 1885, the chairman of the trustees, your predecessor, the late George H. Jones, Esq., had the satisfaction to report that the Hon. J. Wiley Edmonds was ready to contribute $15,000 on condition that a like sum should be contributed by others, and a few stipulations as to the building and its future management, all eminently wise and characteristic of the broad minded and public spirited man that he was in all matters of general interest. Shall we not then say that the Hon. J. Wiley Edmonds was indeed pre-eminently the founder of this library? and that although his modesty would not permit the building to be named "The Edmonds Free Library," it will ever stand to the inhabitants of this city both a monument of his beneficence and an incentive to others, to contribute of the means of which God has made them stewards, for purposes of public good.

There could be but little hazard in placing next on the roll of names the name of Mr. George H. Jones, who as chairman of the land owners, then President of the Trustees, till the limit of time under the by-laws that he could remain a trustee, and again President after he transferred the city, which office he filled so worthily and acceptably, that no other person was ever named for the position till he was called from our midst.

Permit me then to give a few facts of the early history of Mr. Jones, and in it, you may possibly find the acorn not planted in his young mind, which germinated and grew to the grand and beautiful oak, under the shadows of whose branches we are now seated.

At an early age, 11, I believe, thrown upon his own efforts, to care for and educate himself, he seeks and finds employment in one of the factories of Lowell. Soon he found that the time and money of most of his fellow laborers was spent in frolic and dissipation. This was not in accord with his desire and instruction, nor his personal inclinations, and he sought among his fellow workers others of like purposes, and soon a club of six was formed for study and mutual improvement, and let me here give you the names of five of them, a roll of honor I would wish placed in every factory in our country: Geo. H. Jones, Wm. A. Burke, Wm. P. Haynes, Augustus Haynes, and Mr. Blanchard, the name of the sixth I have forgotten, but see the result of these evening meetings: at one time in the following years each of those six young men were at the head of six different large and successful manufacturing establishments, and a few years later three or four of them, (and I do not know but all) were the treasurers of a like number of corporations.

All have closed their labors here, were successful in securing for themselves and families a competency, honored positions in society, and departing left behind them, foot-prints on the sands of time, in which the young men of Newton or any other place, shall follow, they may find like rewards. Is it presumptuous to infer that his early and persistent efforts in the acquiring of his education and his knowledge of the value that books had been to him, gave him that indefatigable perseverance and indomitable zeal that would not let him desist in his efforts until he saw the consummation of his highest hopes in this well-furnished and beautiful library; gratefully accepted by the city and promised to be kept and cared for as the increasing wants of a growing population shall demand.

Next on the roll, one whose good taste and generosity are only excelled by his modesty, and had not his name been mentioned by some one on the evening of the transfer to the city, we might hesitate, but for the reason that probably induced you, Mr. President, to then and there inform the citizens of Newton to whom they were indebted for a subscription, so large in amount and opportune in time, that it secured the early completion and successful opening of the library, we, as did you, unhesitatingly place the name of Mr. John C. Chaffin—and of him we need only say, he "still lives"—and is known to you all—but what purposes of further public benefit are germinating in his mind we must leave until the curtain is drawn.

We will not further attempt to assign the relative position of the founders, but it may be proper to state that George H. Jones, John C. Chaffin and Isaac T. Burr were the trustees that held the lands and these gentlemen, with J. Wiley Edmonds, George W. Bacon, John S. Farlow, A. B. Underwood, Joel H. Hills, George S. Bullins, George S. Harwood and one other, constituted the board of trustees who collected the funds, erected the building and started in successful operation the Newton Free Library. The names of the 334 who contributed the $65,000 raised and expended or turned over to the city with the library are a roll of honor that will, doubtless, be ever kept in some proper and enduring form within this building.

The gifts and bequests for the benefit of the library have been so commendable and worthy of imitation that it seems to us fitting that they should be mentioned on this occasion. The first was from David Brainard Jewett, $5,000, and later a like sum from his widow. Mr. Jewett also presented to the library the excellent copy of "Raphael's Transfiguration." Mr. Jewett was reared among the green hills of Vermont, and in such proximity to the Green Mountains on the West and the White Mountains on the East, his love of the beautiful inspired him to the gift of this elegant picture and the fund, the income of which, in all the cycle of coming time, is to be expended in cultivating and perpetuating that elevating emotion, the love of the grand and beautiful.

Next in importance the bequest of Mr. Charles A. Read, which yields an annual income of about $600, to be expended in the purchase of books by the trustees.

The gift of $1,000 by a citizen, the income of which is to be expended in the purchase of standard works on "Manufacturing and Mechanics," and the special direction in which this income was to be expended, was made by the suggestion of the president at that time, the late George H. Jones, Esq.

And last, by your beneficence, Mr. President, a fund of $5,000 has been placed in the hands of the trustees, the income to be expended in valuable works of reference, access to be used in the room where they will be kept.

Thus wisely have you added another link to the chain that shall bind your memory to the grateful hearts of the citizens of Newton. As in the past, one by one our citizens have been moved to provide for the varied wants of this library—this broadest and best of our school houses—we doubt not, as the years roll on and the numbers of our inhabitants rapidly augment, and the wants of the library shall also increase, possibly by taxation, although no expenditure by the city has or will make a more valuable return than that expended for our library; these wants will be recognized, and gladly met, as promptly, as wisely and as generously as in the past.

Mr. Farlow said that the tender of the library had been made in the administration of Ex-Mayor Hyde, who had done all he could to promote it. He had worked with the legislature to secure legislation, so that the city could accept the gift. He was a resident of Newton Centre, which village was one of the first friends of the library, and had given to it its own library of 1400 volumes, which was supplemented by the gift of the library at Lower Falls. The trustees had hoped that the West Newton Athenaeum would follow this example, as a gentleman of West Newton had assured him that it would, as all they wanted was that a separate reading room should be maintained there. For his part, he hoped the time would come when a free reading room would be maintained in each ward, on account of the great good they would do the young people.

EX-MAYOR J. F. C. HYDE

responded by disclaiming any special credit for what he had done. He had happened to be Mayor, much against his will, and had only done his duty. He made a very entertaining speech, and said that it was not such a pleasant thing to be Mayor, as all who voted for you thought, they had a right to criticize you. He was glad the city had taken the library. The Newton Centre library had been given gladly, although it had been got together by much hard work, as Dr. Hovey could testify. He had always felt that West Newton ought to add their library to this, and have one library for the whole city. It started in your village, Mr. President, and we are glad it did, you had the men with means to start it, and he belongs to the city of Newton. You send the books right to our doors, so that we are even better served than the residents of Newton Corner—I mean of Newton, for you do not like the old name now. We are willing you should foot the bills. But this is only the beginning, as the late J. Wiley Edmonds said to me before his death. "In my judgment, Newton has just entered on a career of prosperity; it has a magnificent future," and the same may be said of this library. Nothing is too good for Newton, and such a library as this will be of incalculable value in educating the people. Taxes may be high here, but you get something in return for it, and Mr. Hyde illustrated this by telling a very amusing story of a man who had a house to sell in Groton, and thought it would be easy to make a sale as taxes were only $4 on the thousand. If people want modern improvements they must pay for them, and the people of Newton want the best and are willing to pay for it. (Applause.)

Mr. Farlow said that one remarkable fact about the library was that the majority of the circulation of the books was outside of Wards One and Seven, and there was a daily delivery in every ward in the city. With the completion of the addition to the library, there was room now for fine paintings and statuary, which he hoped its friends would remember. Notwithstanding all that has been done by others, the library would not have attained to its present measure of success, but for its librarian; (Applause.) To her executive ability and good management the library was greatly indebted, and the trustees as well as the citizens regretted that she was to leave them. She has a very flattering opportunity, however, to start a great library, and one that appeals directly to the ambition of a librarian.

The people of Wilkesbarre, Penn., have heard of the excellence of our New England libraries, and hope to rival them; having abundant means, they can offer great temptations in the way of salary, and also promise that the librarian will only be limited by the depth of their pockets. Mr. Farlow then called upon who was received with hearty applause. She told in few words of her work and prospects, and said that the good librarian must have the work at heart, must have it in her thoughts constantly, and there were so many motives to appeal to the librarian, that one could hardly help being devoted to it. The work was such a beautiful one, so helpful to others. She can help people to get knowledge, to be interested in higher ideas of life and living. Miss James concluded by referring to the help and support she had received from Mr. Farlow, who had been on the board of trustees every year but one of her service here, and from the other trustees, who had done not only all she had asked but more. She did not go away because she did not like Newton or the library, for her work here had always been of the pleasantest, but she felt that a chance was offered which she ought not to decline. She was to have full power to do as she pleased, and she had a great curiosity to see if she could not do as well or better in the new field. There was a great work to be done there, and it gratified a librarian's pride to have such an offer. Nevertheless, she should be very sorry to leave her friends here, but leaving them was not losing them.

Mr. Farlow then spoke of the Jersey Stock Club, and said that, queer as might seem, the club had been one of the best friends the library had had. The original founders of the library had been members of the club, and every year since, the club had done something for the library. The picture of Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Jones were presented by the club. All the large donations but one had been given by members of the club. People think the club is a set of good fellows, who meet to have a good time, but the meetings were often discussions of what could be done to benefit the city. The President was out of town, but he would call upon to respond. The latter caused some laughter by saying that the moderator of the meeting had a little peculiarity which (Continued on next page) was unfortunate for the speakers. He would give a sentiment and then in his happy way say all that could be said upon it. He could say, however, that the Jersey Stock Club had their hands in all sorts of matters, from municipal elections and library affairs, to state and presidential elections, and he had even heard it said that the club ran one of the churches in this part of Newton. There were only 20 members, possibly because most of the dining-rooms in the city would not accommodate more. It was doing an excellent work in this city, and he wished that there were 50 clubs of 20 members each in Newton. Its members comprised men of all professions, from bank and railroad presidents down to humble newspaper publishers, and its work was for the good of the city. The club was formed in the same year as the public library was started, 1870, and he thought it might be claimed as a twin of the public library. In behalf of the club he congratulated the city on the possession of such a library, and he hoped the board of trustees would succeed in getting as good a librarian as the one they were going to lose.

THE LIBRARY REDEDICATED.

Mr. Farlow said that he would accept the criticism of the last speaker, and would turn his attention to the clergy, who enjoyed the benefits of the library as much as any other class of people, and he thought they were not in the habit of calling for Young's Night Thoughts, and like gloomy books, but for Thackeray, Dickens and those of a cheerful character. There was an institution on the Hill at Newton Centre, which he had heard was doing a good work, and all would like to hear from its president.

REV. DR. HOVEY

responded in a very pleasant manner, speaking of his interest in the library, and his only regret had been that it was not at the Centre. They had a library in the institution with which he was connected, but the books were necessarily rather restricted in character. As for his young men, he thought they had seen at least the outside of Thackeray and Dickens. A public library ought to be store-house of knowledge of all kinds, and the clergy as well as others would rejoice at the improvements in the Newton Library, and especially at the addition of the reference department. As a rule the clergy were not able to have extensive libraries of their own, and a public library was a great benefit to them. The library gave ample accommodation to people at the Centre, and it was liberally patronized by them. A man must go inside of books to be well informed, and reading was a means of disciplining the mind in a delightful and easy way. Fiction had its uses as a means of recreation, which all men need, and if the fiction is of a high character, the mind is uplifted by it and the moral tone strengthened. The Newton free library had so far been admirably conducted, and had done an excellent work. It was especially gratifying to know that the young people patronized it so largely. Mr. Farlow then introduced the secretary of the state board of education, by saying that a room had been fitted up in the library for the use of teachers and their classes, when they had special subjects to teach, for which many books of reference were needed, and to explain how this work could be best carried on he would call upon

MR. JOHN W. DICKINSON.

The latter read a brief paper he had prepared in regard to books and reading, and quoted the excellent rules given by Hamilton, in which the importance of reading much but not many books was insisted upon. For general reading only those books filled with useful knowledge and fitted to cultivate the taste should be chosen. Students should confine their reading to subjects connected with their studies. The public library was well worthy the attention of the good men of the city, and he was glad to know that it was so intimately related to the schools.

REV. MR. HOENBROOKE

was next introduced, and said that it was a popular delusion that the function of a librarian was only to hand out books; the same people believed this that believed that a minister's work was easy. A librarian had to classify and analyze thoroughly the books in a library, so that those who patronized the library would find what they wanted, without the trouble of going through a great number of books. A librarian was the pioneer, who went ahead and blazed the path for others to follow. Some people complained because they could not find the books they wanted, but one library could not contain all the books that were published, and a good principle to act upon was to ask for what you want, if you don't see it, and keep asking till you get it. The managers of the library are very accommodating, and if they find certain books in demand, they will send for them. A library was a means of education, and a good public library did a very important educational work. The books should be carefully selected, and those chosen which would aid in cultivating the readers, and inspire them to nobler manhood, and the young especially should have their reading carefully looked after, and kept from most of the so-called juvenile books, which were worthless. It was fitting that the men who had given generously should be remembered, and there was no better way of remembering them than by making a worthy use of the library.

ALDERMAN B. S. GRANT

was next introduced by Mr. Farlow, who said the trustees were under great obligations to the public property committee, of which Mr. Grant was chairman. Mr. Grant said he supposed his connection with the library had ended with the completion of the addition to the building, but he would give a brief history of the work the past year. A year ago the trustees reported the library inadequate, that more book room and a new reference room were urgently needed. The members of the city government believed that the city would be justified in enlarging the library, and so meeting the wants and wishes of the people, and so $24,000 was appropriated. The committee had expended the money, the work was done, and he believed that all the citizens were fully satisfied. The committee extended to the trustees their thanks for the kindly way in which all suggestions had been received, and congratulated them and the city on the great improvement that had been made.

Mr. Farlow next called upon the superintendent of schools, Mr. Emerson, as a man who was competent to tell of the important relation the library sustained to the public schools. No one responded and Mr. Farlow then called upon

MR. E. H. CUTLER, head master of the High School, who was received with enthusiastic applause, which prevented him from speaking for several minutes. Mr. Cutler said it was hardly fair to call upon him to fill the place of a gentleman so abundantly qualified to speak, and after the question had been so ably covered by preceding speakers; but he thought it was a significant coincidence that the two principal educational institutions of Newton, the Public Library and the High School, should have outgrown their accommodations at the same time, and that the same city government and the same contractor should have provided the increased room needed. He congratulated the city that the work had been so well done. The history of the High School was in one respect different from that of the library. The latter was largely indebted to private, the former entirely to public benevolence. The names connected with the rooms of the library were worthy of remembrance, and he hoped that the good work thus begun would be carried on by the future citizens of Newton. There had been very intimate relations between the public library and the schools, so much so that the work in certain departments of the High School had suffered materially by the closing of the library the past few months. In the branches of history and English literature, for instance, it was not considered sufficient to merely commit to memory answers to questions, but the subjects were studied by topics, which were given out, and the pupil had to prepare himself as he could. The school authorities had provided a large number of books of reference with the library. In English literature, not only the text was studied, but the life of the author, his surroundings, the purpose he had in writing, and other points which caused the pupils to consult the library. It was not necessary for him to add to the tributes paid to the librarian, but he would not do justice if he did not refer to the great assistance she had rendered both teachers and pupils. Edward Everett had said that a man who has longed to read has already the means to acquire a liberal education, and this was true, as shown by the great number of self-educated men. He would not even disparage unsystematic and discursive reading, if only good books were chosen, and those only could be found in the Newton library. At the close of his remarks, Mr. Cutler was again the recipient of enthusiastic applause, which was very significant as showing the feeling of the people invited to attend the re-opening of the library.

REV. B. K. PRICE was the next and last speaker, and spoke at some length on the work of a library, and the great advance in the reading of the best books caused by the Chautauqua idea. He recommended the reading of standard works, and the avoidance of fictitious literature.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla operates radically upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing and invigorating it. As a safe and absolute cure for the various disorders caused by constitutional taint or infection, this remedy has no equal. Take it this month.

An Important Element

Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Dozes One Dollar," stolen by imitators, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

Dyspeptics can be made happy by using Chipman's Pills. Malaria can be avoided by giving them a fair trial. No need to suffer from sick headache any longer. Dr. Chipman's Pills have been tested for fifty years for these troubles. For Sale by all druggists. 43dly

This Powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. — Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal. — Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff. — Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

—It is reported that Mr. L. D. Garey will soon erect a nice house on Pleasant street.
—Mr. Charles P. Clark and family have gone to Kennebunkport, Me., for the summer.
—Rev. J. J. Peck preached last Sunday to a large audience at the First Baptist church in Haverhill.
—Consens' block, Station street, is receiving improvements, the roof of the piazza being rebuilt.
—Mr. Noah S. King has sold 22 acres of land on Dudley street to Mr. Nickerson, and another nice residence is to follow.
—Miss E. M. White, Elgin street, has just completed a fine crayon portrait of the late Mrs. Fidelia M. Leighton.
—The foundation of Col. E. H. Haskell's house, Beacon street, are completed, and the frame will be put up immediately.
—Entries for the bicycle races on the 4th were opened at Associates' Hall on Wednesday evening. The entries close June 30th.

—Twelve of the general staff at the parade of Confederate veterans in Boston the 17th, were from Newton Centre. They report a jolly good time.
—Newton Centre has long suffered for want of a base ball ground, and we are pleased to note that Mr. W. O. Knapp has generously given the use of his lot on Grafton street for that purpose.

—A young man undertook to swim across Crystal Lake and back one evening last week, and on the way back came very near being drowned.

—The funeral of Mr. Thomas G. Knight, who died of apoplexy at the Palmer House in Chicago, was held here on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Dr. Bigelow of Boston in descending the hill from his Oak Hill residence, was thrown from his carriage by the stumbling of his horse, and it is feared that he was seriously injured.

—It is well worth a visit to Alderman Ward's fine farm to see the amount of vegetables, cherries, strawberries, &c., &c., which he raises, many of the vegetables being a succession of crops on the same field.

—A night-blooming-cereus was in flower Sunday evening, at the conservatory of J. R. Leeson, Esq., Elgin street. The neighbors had their usual privilege of sharing the welcome given to the mysterious and transient visitor.

—Admitted without conditions to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is the reward of close application to study received by G. A. Holmes and Ernest Nickerson of the Newton High School class of '87.

—The Village Improvement society has placed a board on Centre street opposite the Mason School. Some one has taken advantage of the invitation of "post bills here" by putting up an advertisement of "Cigars and Tobacco."

—Messrs. Brooks and Gage, Lake avenue, have supplied an urgent demand of the public in placing on Crystal Lake boats to be rented. The circuit of the lake is one mile. Amateur oarsmen may here develop their muscles.

—W. R. Coleman has taken charge of the Adams express station in this place, and will prove popular with the people, as he attends to all orders promptly and the charges are low. He also does jobbing and light teaming. His order box is at the railroad station.

—Hon Robert R. Bishop, Mrs. Bishop and some members of the family are going on a summer voyage to Europe. Just the month to cross the Atlantic, when the northern winds are asleep or off on a vacation. Mr. Bishop will return in September, but the others will remain a while longer in Europe.

—Messrs. C. H. and A. F. Ireland have a fine house well along towards completion for Mr. Nathaniel N. James on Warren street, near his present house, and will soon build for Dr. F. E. Banfield a house on the corner of Gibbs and Everett streets; and one for Herbert A. Spear on Irving street. They are also building a number at the Highlands.

—An elegant tea-party and house-warming occurred Tuesday evening, the 21st, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Montgomery, Warren street. About fifty invited guests, mostly from out of town, spent a delightful evening together. Among those present were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Baldwin, missionaries, late of China, and Rev. Dr. W. R. Clark.

—Mrs. J. C. Kittredge, Chase street, entertained the little folks of the "Children's Mission." Shawmut avenue, Boston, on Monday afternoon at her residence. The party, 30 in number, came out on the 12:45 train under the care of their teachers. The day was one of June's rarest, and the afternoon a genuine "Merrie-go-round." The occasion was the fifth birthday of Mrs. Kittredge's little daughter, who devised this celebration.

—At the Fete Champetre on Wednesday of last week, on the estates of Messrs. J. H. Nichols and E. C. Fitch, Sargent street, the candy booth was in charge of Mrs. Theodore Nickerson and Mrs. W. Converse. They were efficiently aided by eight young ladies from Ward Six, and one or two others. For five hours they were busy in dispensing their toothsome wares, and were able to add $73.12 to the "Country Week and Fresh Air Fund."

—Dr. Bodge has built himself a catamaran, in which he will "ride the ocean wave" this summer. It consists of two boats each 33 1-2 feet by 51-2 feet, each containing a roomy cabin, joined by a platform, on which are the mast, centre-board and a 21 foot bowsprit. In the stern there is also a paddle wheel to be worked by hand, which will be useful in a calm. The boat will be sloop-rigged. Dr. Bodge did all the work on it himself, and has clearly proved himself to be a master ship-builder.

—Pleasant street is to be improved by having the grade lowered to that of Centre street, at its junction with that street. A side walk has been set from Pleasant to Pelham streets on Centre street. This work has been done by the city and the "Associates," and is of great value to the public, which has patiently waited winter after winter over this poorly drained and ungraded section of our principal street.

—Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Appleton White Smith arrived on Saturday at the paternal homestead of Dr. S. F. Smith, direct from Rangoon, Burmah, by the steamer "City of Rome" from Liverpool. Dr. Smith graduated at Harvard University in 1859, Newton '63, and sailed the same year for missionary work in the east. Since 1870 he has been president of the Karen Theological Seminary, Rangoon, which position, embracing many arduous responsibilities, he has filled with distinguished ability.

—A number of the Newton Centre members of the Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., assisted in the dedication of the soldiers' monument at Arlington the 17th. At the dedication Judge Parmenter presided, and introduced Samuel G. Damon, chairman of the building committee of the monument. It was accepted by James A. Bailey in a fitting speech. The regular dedication exercises were conducted by the officers of the Francis Gould post. It was followed by an eloquent speech by Judge Parmenter. He then introduced Mr. J. T. Trowbridge, who read an original poem, which was followed by an oration by Lieut. Gov. Brackett. At the close of the oration all concerned sat down to a collation in a tent near by. In the evening the 12th annual reunion of the Mozart Regiment association was held, followed by a camp-fire, with addresses by prominent members of the G. A. R.

—It is worth while to take a stroll around into Warren street, and see the improvements on the estate of the late Dr. Jonas G. Warren. The mansion has been rejuvenated with judgment and taste, not pushing modern innovation to fanaticism. Another dwelling house has been erected by the side of the old one, with a large stable in the rear of both. The stately Norways have been trimmed up to let in the level light, and a view of the world, while the dense shade has been preserved. The abundant pear trees have been removed. The grounds in front are laid with exquisite neatness approaching severity. The walks, carriage drive, and sidewalk, are concreted, the latter bordered by a low cut stone curbing with square pilings at each of the openings. The buildings are all newly painted in those tints that limners love to contemplate, and which are supposed to harmonize with our checkered life. The Montgomery estate shines like a light in a dark place. It is to be hoped that some beams may "illuminate other lands," not far remote. In real estate, no man liveth to himself. Landscape effects are produced by many acting in concert, mutually benefiting each other. The value (market value) of property, in a whole street is raised, sometimes fifty or a hundred per cent. by each one doing his part.

CHESTNUT HILL.

—Some of the prominent families from this place were represented at the recent Peabody-Lawrence wedding at Salem.

—The old railroad station house was sold at auction by Hon. J. F. C. Hyde on Monday, for $70, to Mr. C. H. Young. It is now being taken down.

Newton Highlands still hold its own as the home of many young children. There were three children born the past week in one neighborhood.

—Mr. J. F. Edmonds broke ground this week for a house on the corner of Lincoln and Bowdoin streets. When completed he intends to make his residence there.

—Mr. L. A. Ross has commenced to build another house for Miss Dunclee of Newton, on Dunclee street, next west of the house she has lately sold to Mrs. Stanley.

—The Episcopal society held their annual picnic at Dover on Saturday. The company were mostly conveyed to the grounds in barges, where a most delightful day was spent. It was greatly enjoyed by all present.

—Mr. Charles H. Polsey, a farmer at M. S. Ganes factory, has commenced a cellar for a house for his own occupancy, on a lot of land lately purchased by him of Mrs. Josephine Hyde on Lake avenue, next east of Mr. C. F. Johnson's residence.

—Edwin Fewkes & Son have a beautiful display of roses at their grounds here, and are one of the large contributors to the Rose Show in Boston. They took premiums for some beautiful moss roses, and also for three named varieties, and for a hundred bottles of hardy roses.

—Rev. Mr. Phipps and wife spent the Sabbath at Worcester as the guests of Hon. Mr. Reed, formerly mayor of that city. Mr. Phipps has arrived home. Mrs. Phipps has gone to South Hadley, to participate in the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Mt. Holyoke Seminary by Mary Lyon. Mrs. Phipps was a graduate of the seminary.

—Mr. Osborn B. Hall of Charlestown has sold a lot of land adjoining the residence of Mr. O. J. Kimball, on Bowdoin street, to Mr. Vivian Greenidge, now residing in a part of the double house next adjoining the post-office block. He will have a house built for his own occupancy in the near future.

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S MISTAKES.

WHY DO THEY NOT GIVE THE PUBLIC THE FACTS?

Editor of the GRAPHIC:

May I, a graduate of the Newton High School, be permitted to add a few to the many words, wise and unwise, that have already been spoken upon this question that is occupying the thoughts of the people of Newton to-day.

The article by Miss Stewart that appeared in your issue of June 11th, I should decidedly class among the wise words, and to all that she said I can heartily say Amen! but I would like to go a little farther still, and touch upon some points that have not as yet been considered.

I was one of the pioneer members of the Newton High School. One of the number who on that well-remembered bright September morning, first entered the doors of the original building, now so enlarged and otherwise changed as to be hardly recognized as our old school home. I have watched the growth and progress of the school with the keenest interest; have rejoiced in its prosperity, and deeply sympathized with every movement calculated to add to its honor and dignity. I have deplored what seemed to me grave mistakes in its management on the part of the school committee, and in one of these mistakes, it seems to me, lies the foundation of the present difficulty. During the four years of my connection with the school, I heard very little said about discipline, or the necessity for it. We were not angels any more than the boys and girls of to-day. We possessed the same traits, were just as fond of fun and a jolly good time; though had we enjoyed one-half of the advantages that are so freely given to the pupils of to-day, we should have thought ourselves in school Paradise. We had most of us attained the age when boys and girls do not require so much discipline. With the abolishment of written examinations for admitting candidates to the school, there has been a gradual but steady deterioration in the behavior of High School scholars. Then, to pass such an examination, a student, fully, was considered a glory and an honor, sought after, and a subject of such congratulation among the friends of the aspirant, as to cause her or him to feel that the very best behavior only was worthy of the occasion; and that the time had come to put away childish things, and speak and act like ladies and gentlemen. In these latter days, entrance to the High School is made so easy that very young children in large numbers are enrolled as pupils. As a necessary result of this letting down the standard of admission, the school soon became overcrowded. Class rooms, recitation rooms, teachers' rooms, and even dressing rooms, were filled to overflowing. Put sixty pupils into a room adapted for thirty, with but little ventilation aside from the windows, which cannot be opened without seriously endangering the health of those seated nearest them, and what follows? In less than half an hour, the air breathed over and over again by sixty pairs of lungs, becomes so vitiated, that the aching heads and dulled senses refuse to work; and is it any wonder that idleness, mischief and roguery ensue until the teacher is driven to the verge of distraction?

Is this Mr. Cutler's fault? Mr. Cutler's room was originally intended to seat fifty pupils. It has been made to hold more than twice that number during the past two years. It has been also used as a dressing room for the boys, and ornamented with coats and hats to the great annoyance of its occupants, and in damp or stormy weather, resulting in more than one instance in serious illness among those whose seats were nearest the wet ulsters and dripping umbrellas. That Mr. Cutler is able to maintain any discipline at all under such trying circumstances, speaks well for his ability in that direction. But there is another cause underlying all this, which more than anything else, is responsible for the present difficulty, and that is want of proper home training. Examples of this may be daily seen on the public streets, in the cars and in the concert room, and other places of entertainment. The wise old precept "Train up a child in the way he should go" is evidently not practiced with sufficient care in many of our homes. If boys and girls are allowed unrestricted liberty at home, though the head master were to combine the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, and the strength of Samson, yet would he be unequal to the demand made upon him; that out of such elements he shall bring perfect order and absolute submission to what is after all but delegated authority.

Complaint has been made that a scholar could absent himself from school at any time he chose, for any purpose whatsoever. The rules of the school require a written request, signed by one of the parents for dismissal, and an excuse similarly signed for absence. If a boy can persuade his father to sign an indefinite number of blank sheets of paper, which he can fill up with requests for dismissal or excuses for absence at his own pleasure, how is the teacher to know that they were thus obtained? That this has been done by both boys and girls is a well-known fact, and Mr. Cutler is held responsible.

Let the responsibility for the alleged lack of discipline be shared by the parents of the scholars, and not be allowed to rest wholly upon the heavily burdened shoulders of the head master. Again, should the head master be held responsible for inefficiency in teaching, and incapability to govern as displayed by the teachers under him? He has nothing whatever to do with selecting them. They are nominated by the High School committee, elected and assigned to their respective positions by the general committee, and it seems to me it is the board who are responsible for them, and not the head master.

There are twenty-six hours of recitation beside two drill hours during the week. Mr. Cutler personally attends to recitations seventeen of those hours. He has the immediate charge of a large class in his own room. He keeps the record of attendance of 450 pupils, a record of all their marks, attends to all excuses, presides at a matinee held for delinquents every afternoon, and how many other duties besides these he is expected to perform, I cannot say. Can any one conscientiously claim that, faithfully discharging all these duties he should in addition, be held responsible for the deficiencies and delinquencies of the teachers under him?

And now I ask Mr. Cutler's pardon if I refer to a personal charge that has been made against him, frivolous if true, but not true, as I have every reason to believe, affording an illustration of the injustice to which he has been subjected. I allude to the charge that Mr. Cutler is in the habit of smoking. A member of the school board is authority for the charge that he indulges in this habit without reserve, "in season and out of season."

I have taken pains to make some investigation of this charge, and have yet to find the scholar, boy or girl, who ever saw Mr. Cutler engaged in that practice, or who had ever so much as heard a rumor of it. So much for its truth. He may possibly smoke at home. Whose business is it if he does? if he finds that he can in no other way so effectually quiet his overtasked and wearied nerves?

The committee are responsible for other specifications of complaint, so loose, vague and inconsequential in their nature, as reasonably, in the absence of better and plainly avowed reasons, to justify the impression that they may have been the real occasion of Mr. Cutler's removal. Is it not time they dropped the mantle of reserve and mystery in which they have chosen to envelope this matter, and allow the citizens of Newton to judge for themselves as to the justice of their proceedings?

It cannot be denied that they have taken upon themselves a grave responsibility in severing such relations as exist between Mr. Cutler and his pupils, in whom he has succeeded in inspiring such confidence, respect and affection, as have no parallel in the history of the school.

The 450 pupils of the school, the parents and guardians of these pupils, and the citizens at large, whose servants the school committee are, and to whom they are responsible, have a right to the possession of all facts, charges or inducements upon which the action of the committee is based.

Theirs is no longer the confidence of the public, if this is withheld.

If the parents of Newton will pay more attention to the behavior of their children at home, there will be no occasion for so much discipline at school. If citizens will more earnestly realize the important nature of the trust which they commit to the board of school committee, then shall our High School be again a glory and an honor to our city, and we, her sons and daughters, shall be proud to call her our Alma Mater.
